BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—For Common Hards some operators say they do not see any special change, while others report an improvement, and the latter rather preponderate. The gain seems to locate principally in the upper grades, say stock that has all along been worth $4 50 and above, and the raise is at least 12½, with best goods now fairly quotable at $5.12½ and in exceptional instances even a fraction more claimed. The explanation of the advance does not convey an impression that it is so much due to an increase of demand as to moderation in the arrivals and a desire on the part of buyers to handle better quality, their idea on the latter point appearing to be that cost generally is so low that it is just as well to have the best. It is also possible that they have obtained an intimation that manufacturers who for various reasons have been selling to a large extent through necessity are about done, and when it comes to voluntary offerings there is likely to be a smaller amount of the finest makes. So far as can be discovered the purchases are all for consumption and there is practically no local piling out. Pales are slow at about former rates At the Newburgh Bay yards and at some points Up River production is going on as usual and a few of the Jersey yards are still working, but practically all production has stopped in Haverstraw Bay. Arrivals have been small all the week, but at the close some manufacturers are commencing to inquire if the market would stand a small addition to the offering, but they do not get much encouragement,

GLASS.—There has been some improvement in demand during the past two or three weeks, yet at the present writing business looks slower again. Buyers simply stop as soon as they get a working assortment, and their wants are much smaller this season, in consequence of the diminished consumption. Still the position seems to be pretty firm on window glass, the stock having run down quite low in both first and second hands, and some manufacturers finding it extremely difficult to make up any assortment except of the most ordinary character, and the prospect for resumption of work still appearing remote, as no understanding regarding wages for the coming season has yet been reached. Competition from foreign goods has also been much reduced through the smallness of recent importations, and altogether, under normal conditions of trade, the market would be in an exceedingly strong position. Plate glass is also comparatively slow of sale yet has gradually run down in matters of supply and assortment and some of the factories are finishing up the rough stock on hand. Prices for all kinds of glass remain steady at the former line of valuation.

LATH.—The market has been irregular, but of late the general tendency was toward an increase of firmness. Offerings on spot were just a trifle fuller, with fair quantites behind them, and quite a bunch of stock did sell at $1.90, but $2 was the general inside rate, and at the close we have report of considerable business done at $2 10, including some of the parcels afloat. The demand has come in the main, from this immediate district and indicates a depletion of dealers' stocks, though it is understood that some of the present purchases are to be turned into immediate consumption and accumulations on hand allowed to remain undisturbed.

LIME.—Demand continues along in about the usual perfunctory way and about the only thing new on the market since our last is the smaller run of arrivals. That for the time being gives receivers somewhat less trouble but makes no difference in the tone because of the "combine" controlling the manufacturing end of the market, and dictating terms, so far as the Maine production is concerned. Other makes, however, have a free market and it proves quite advantageous to them at times as many dealers and consumers are unwilling to pay rates asked on custom.

LUMBER.—Some little distribution takes place from yard, an odd lot here and another one there, with possibly a good-sized order at long intervals, but as suggested by a dealer "it isn't business." Buyers are making no contest against anything in particular; they simply do not want supplies and the market drags along in an aimless sort of way that is discouraging. There are exceptions to all rules and a few of the yards are turning out a comparatively fair amount of stock, but it is because of their fortunate situation in close contact with some special lines of regular consumption to which they particularly cater, and have not only the necessary assortment on hand, but are tributary to a class of buyers to whom it is thought safe enough to sell supplies. A larger amount of business could in many cases be transacted if dealers were willing to accept what, under sounder feelings regarding financial affairs, would be considered a fair risk instead of making a careful scrutiny of all custom and accepting only such as may appear unimpeachable. The state of trade for a long while prevailing has gradually brought about a considerable disorganization of the value line, and while nine operators out of ten would quote their goods much the same as for months past every deal even of a small caliber now has something of a special character and a rate fixed according to the influences governing the negotiations immediately in hand.

The matter of credits is also a very potent factor controlling the trade in wholesale parcels of stock, and keeping the movement within exceedingly narrow limits. Such custom as receivers and agents would be only too glad to accept is the most indifferent, because of the fact that it has been so through out the entire season, and has profited by the advantage sufficiently to drive a great many good bargains, until by degrees, probable wants are reasonably well provided for, either by stock in hand or coming, and interest in further additions become just so much diminished. On the other hand, there are a great many dealers who are working along as best they can on reduced and broken assortments that do not fully satisfy the wants of their natural trade, and while generally willing and in some cases anxious to add to their stocks find it exceedingly difficult to do so. Their trade is not solicited, and when they attempt negotiations, are met with such exacting requirements as practically shut off all investments beyond the limit of the most imperative necessity. It is possible, indeed very probable, that the attitude of sellers is more or less strained even to point of slight injustice in some instances, but it is a feature of the period which must work out its own remedy. From many primal markets the advices are commencing to come in with somewhat greater strength, and this is especially the case regarding interior localities where buyers of bulk parcels come more in competition, and serve to steady up the tone, and have, indeed, in a few instances afforded sufficient stimulus to raise values above the extreme depression of midsummer. Preparations for work in the woods do not seem to be progressing with much enthusiasm.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES

STATE.

The Argus has the following on the Albany market:

More buyers have been through the district the past week, but trade in pine is in small lots, and is comparatively light for the fall season. Prices continue steady. Lake freights from Ashland and Lake Superior points have advanced 2½@5c. Canal freights are $1.75. Business in spruce continues fairly good.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Lumber is moving from Lake Superior points in larger volume than early in the month. The easing of the market has enabled purchasers in the East to fulfill their contracts and order the lumber forward. Such has been the increase of demand within the month that the mills in the Duluth district will be run until the close of the season. At all market points in the Northwest a recent increase of demand and movement are reported. The rise of trade is slow and cautious, but it is sufficient to be observable. At Saginaw Valley points, which are largely dependent on the Eastern trade, the market condition is stated to be one of extreme apathy.

At Chicago the wholesale market shows some features of improvement. Piece stuff is being considerably inquired for, and sales are readily made for all that is offered. Several cargoes have been sold this week at $10.50, which is an advance of 50 cents on previous quotations. It should be understood that the price named is for short and long together, as that is the way piece stuff is now being sold. It is not claimed that all piece stuff is being sold at $10.50, but it looked on Thursday, when this report was made, as if this price would be the prevailing figure. We quote this week at $10 to $10 50, so that the range on current sales shall be fully included.

It may be deemed surprising that piece stuff should advance in price when it is selling out of yard at $11 to $11.50 by some of the larger concerns. It can be accounted for by the fact that the yard supply is short of the normal fall, winter and spring requirement, that the close of navigation is approaching, and that lake freight rates will soon advance. Yard men are now willing to put in a few cargoes, even at advanced prices. Besides they get the long lengths at an even price with the short, which gives them a greater margin in purchases than seems to be the fact at a first glance.

Inch lumber is also moving more freely than a short time ago, and prices have advanced 50 cents. Cargoes containing a good percentage of strips are wanted, though boards work off well with the strips. On the whole the market is better than it was all round, except that shingles are still of slow sale.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

From the head of the lakes comes the report that buyers are more numerous than they have been for months, and shipments by lake to eastern points are large. Much of this, however, is lumber that is being delivered on contracts made in the spring and early summer. At other lake points there are signs of increased activity, but lumber is accumulating on the docks in larger quantities than it is being shipped away.

All over the white pine territory preparations are now being made for the winter's logging work, and crews are already in the woods getting camps ready. In Wisconsin it is probable that the output of logs this winter will not equal more than 50 or 60 per cent of the amount banked last year. In Northern Minnesota, at the headwaters of the Mississippi, the conditions are about the same, although in the Duluth districts there may not be such a decrease in operations, although much depends on what the next two months will bring forth. In some parts of the Michigan pine country preparations are being made to cut about as much as last year, although in others the log cut will be about half. Stumpage is holding firm, and many mill men are waiting to see how the price of logs will be next year before they plan for their next season's mill operations.

CANADA.

The correspondent of a trade journal writing from Ottawa says:

The feeling in lumbering circles is easier and our mill men are looking forward to an increased demand before long. There is practically little doing in South American trade, $8.50 a thousand for lumber to the River Plate being the highest freight offered. In the deal trade for British markets there is a decline, although in this business an improvement is looked for before navigation closes.

The number of logs taken out of the Ottawa district last season was 2,451,785, being equivalent to nearly 806,000,000 feet. The number of railway ties was about 300,000 and of square and flat timber 37,590 pieces, or nearly 2,000,000 cubic feet. This is considerably in excess of the previous year, and much larger than the present year's output will be.

It is said that about 5,000 logs came down and are coming down the Gatineau river which could not be bought for $50 a single log. They are 16 feet long by 39 to 40 inches in diameter, each containing about five standards. Three and a half standards will make 1,000 feet of lumber, so each log will contain about 1,400 feet. These logs are of the best yellow pine, without a knot or a break. As lumber sawed from logs of this kind is worth $40 a thousand, the logs at the lowest estimate are valued at $50 each. They are the property of Gilmour & Hughson, and represent the greatest value for the same number of logs ever seen in Canada.

NAILS.—Business irregular and not by any means as brisk as had been calculated upon for the commencement of the month. The general caution shown in the building trade, with poor prospects for winter work, makes a limited accumulation of stock appear the most judicious to jobbers and retailers and orders are kept as small as possible. Offerings are ample and former rates accepted readily enough on all kinds and sizes. We quote cut at $1.05@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.30@1.35 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.45@1.50 for car lots, and $1.60@1.70 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—There does not appear to be much that is really new on the general market at the moment. Now and then an operator can be found who speaks up cheerfully in regard to trade, but proves the exception to emphasize the rule that business, as a whole, is far behind the average for the season. It is found on this market, as well as upon so many others, that a very much larger quantity of stuff could be placed if there was an inclination to open a line of credit, but notwithstanding the disagreeable slowness of operations the idea seems to be that as matters stand no great risks are being taken, and that goods in stock, even though they sell slowly, are better than paper in the safe over which there is any doubt. Production is conducted with as much caution as possible and seems to be successful in preventing a surplus accumulation in first-hand. Nothing new in regard to prices. The usual story may be heard in regard to rate cutting on white lead, but official figures are unchanged. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 5001 bs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6½c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6⅛c.; kegs. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots on 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent. discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil continues a little irregular, but the competitive spirit does not appear quite so pronounced and values stiffen somewhat accordingly. We quote on general range at 40@41c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine shows just a trifle greater firmness, but the general run of demand is cautious and the market lacks animation beyond an ordinary run of routine orders. We quote at 27¾@28¾c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—It is a demand of necessity only now coming upon the market. Sometimes buyers are a little hurried and have good sized orders, but more generally the call is confined to small parcels against immediate wants and affords but indifferent relief. Offerings are equal to outlet and available at former rates. We quote Tar at $1 70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.35 in oil bbls., Pitch $1.50 @1.70.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE appears in a new "dress" of type with this number. The improvement secured thereby is to be measured, as our readers will readily observe, not only by the difference between new type and old type, but by the difference between type of one degree of legibility and type of another and lesser degree of legibility. Great advances have been made of late in the type-founders art, and in procuring the new "dress" THE RECORD AND GUIDE made a particularly careful search for a style of letter and especially a style of figure exactly suited to the peculiar requirements of a paper in which statistics play the important part. Nowadays, when progress is so continual and so rapid it is dangerous to speak of "perfection" in anything, but we may safely say that the new type we have adopted represents the highest product of the modern foundry and is eminently neat and legible. It reflects great credit upon the makers, Messrs. George Bruce, Son & Co. In all this we are sure our thousands of readers—Presidents of Banks and Fiduciary institutions, merchants giving credit, architects, all engaged in the building trades, lawyers, real estate auctioneers, agents and owners—will agree with us. For our advertisers we have selected an artistic and "talking" type which will add emphasis and distinctness to their announcements. In addition we have greatly increased the facilities of our Job Department so that it is now one of the best equipped printing establishments in the metropolis. Readers who may have any commercial printing to be done or who may be about to issue books or illustrated pamphlets of any sort should send to us for estimates.

THE failure to force a vote on the Wilson-Voorhees Bill in the Senate by means of the continuous session creates a condition very ominous to values on the Stock Market, to say nothing of the ridiculous and humiliating position in which it places the repeal Senators. No one supposes that this would have happened had they been as united as their opponents and as free from party prejudices. There surely was and is a way for a united majority to assert itself. The worst point in the position is the uncertainty that is now raised of the ultimate results. The claims of the silver men are not likely to be lessened by what must be regarded as a triumph of their tactics, nefarious as they are. Anything that does not come close to total repeal will not help the business community much. This consideration will force into unpleasant prominence the unsatisfactory condition of the public treasury as well as postpone indefinitely much good work that had been begun in the way of improving business conditions. It will, too, cause the total abandonment of many prospected enterprises and compel others to an insolvency that might have been avoided. That these are not simply alarmist statements is proved by the course of events in the financial and commercial worlds since the calling of the extra session of Congress to remedy the mischievous condition of our currency. There are, happily, one or two things that lead to the hope that we will not see a renewal of the condition that prevailed last summer. At present money is in the banks and not in the old stockings, and is, therefore, plentiful and cheap, and another that the mere prospect of a return to bad times and panic may be the cause of bringing such pressure to bear on the Senate from outside that the remedy a majority so overwhelming demands will be obtained.

IT is likely that the outcome of tariff legislation will result in less disturbance to the business interests of the country than many persons fear. That the tariff does need some revision is quite generally admitted by all but the extremists. The true course is a middle one, although rabid Republicans and rabid Democrats will not admit it. Men who advocate free trade and men who advocate prohibitory duties cannot agree that incidental to revenue, protection should be provided to the extent of the difference in labor between this country and foreign countries on any imported article. No two congressmen can agree on a tariff bill in detail, although they may agree on the general principles. Behind each Democratic congressman are constituents who must be favored. A tariff list will therefore be a series of compromises, with high duties uppermost, when the dominant party finally evolves their reform measure. In a certain sense the two great parties are wide apart on the tariff question. Force of circumstances bring them quite near together. The South, the stronghold of the Democrats, has high tariff tendencies. New England, the stronghold of the Republicans, tends to lower rates of duties and free raw materials. Notwithstanding the tariff plank in the Democratic platform a large proportion of the party desire a prohibitory tariff, another part reasonable duties for revenue purposes only, and another small part are free traders. The Republican party is also divided in itself on the tariff question, from Chinese-wall protectionists down to out and out free traders. But the Democratic party is in power now, and it is what that party will do that most interests the country. It is difficult for the average Republican to understand that the Democratic party is not made up of free traders. Democratic manufacturers still want protection in their industries. A vast number of laborers who are Democrats believe that a high tariff means high wages and that a low tariff means low wages. A large proportion of the Irishmen in the Democratic party believe that a high tariff works to the injury of England, and that is reason enough for them to want the highest tariff possible. Many ultra-Americans through their inherited dislike of the English and other foreign nations favor high tariff duties. Both the Republican and Democratic parties are free trade parties as to labor, putting practically no limit to the importation of workmen to compete with American workmen, in effect both parties favoring the building up of manufacturing centres and the increasing the home consumption, as far as possible, of the wheat, the pork and other products of the country.

WITH such a lack of unanimity in each of the great parties, with such a diversity of views among their members, and yet so many having like opinions in both parties, it would seem as though there could be some common ground upon which both parties could stand on the tariff question. Why could not the Democrats consent to retain the present high duties against all the countries of the Eastern hemisphere, and the Republicans consent to free trade with the countries of the Western hemisphere? Not reciprocity, or the letting in of one article free on condition that another country let in free something else, but actual free trade with North and South America, including Canada and Mexico. Customs inspection would be just as necessary as ever, to insure free entry of the products or manufactures of the North and South American countries only, and to prevent the products or manufactures of European or Asiatic countries being shipped in from countries on this side of the globe. The people are pretty tired of the endless discussion of the tariff on the lines of the old ruts that both parties are in. Suppose our politicians try this new suggestion of free trade with the Americas and high tariff with the rest of the world, and see if an overwhelming majority of the voters in this country would not hail this as an experiment in the right direction.

THE project for holding Manhattan Day at the World's Fair should receive some substantial recognition beyond mere official endorsement and newspaper commendation. The metropolis should in some explicit public manner acknowledge and pay tribute to the great fair which Chicago has created in Jackson Park. New York's attitude to the Exposition at first was undoubtedly more coldly critical and distant than warm interest and lively good wishes usually permit, and it is only lately that we have allowed our admiration for a piece of supremely great enterprise to speak freely. The proposition to have a "Manhattan Day" has greatly pleased Chicago people, and already has done much to allay any feelings of irritation remaining from the early days of the Exposition. The Chicago newspapers are all urging their readers to join in with New York on October 21st, and one of them, the Inter-Ocean, suggests that the Committees that had charge of the Chicago Day arrangements be authorized to tender the floats used in the parade on that occasion to New York. It is plain that if we will but show the right spirit Chicago will very heartily second our efforts. The right spirit should not be lacking, and with it there should be a well-arranged and attractive programme. One or two speeches, and the august presence of a few members of our committee of one hundred are not in themselves sufficient to make Manhattan Day a brilliant and festive occasion, and prove to Chicago how deeply interested our people are in her fair.

CONCESSION continues to be the price of activity in the real estate market. Operators and brokers are just now having an object-lesson in the processes of liquidating real estate debts. Those who wish to be honest with themselves admit the unnatural conditions of the present activity. It is a buyer's market, as it has been for several weeks, and such sales as have been made have, in the great majority of instances, been the results of material reduction in prices. That income-producing investment property has figured to so small an extent in recent transactions is only what might have been expected. In times like these New York City investment property is the best property a man can own. If he should sell such property, even at full value, he would be at a loss to find anything better to reinvest his money in. Brokers whose dealings are in this class of property are therefore without business in these times. The sales of residence property continue to be the feature of the market. Some confusion has arisen over them, because of the fictitious prices so frequently quoted in the published announcements of sales. But the would-be deceivers deceive only themselves. Nearly every broker knows the minimum sale price of every piece of property on the market in his vicinity, and house-buyers can easily ascertain the bottom figures. As things are, buyers who avail themselves of the services of a reliable broker, are not likely to regret any purchases they may make in this market.

Foundations of the Hudson River Tunnel.

IT seems as if everything connected with the New York water front and the terminal arrangements of the city has been made a field of practice for either political cupidity, rascality, or idiocy, often for a little of all three combined.

Many years ago, so many that they are running now well into the measure of the second decade, an accomplished civil engineer came here from California and undertook to put a tunnel under the Hudson River. It was a work that the city needed more than it needed any other engineering work that can be conceived, and if not located precisely at the point where traffic interests would have dictated the site was sufficiently well chosen to make it a work of incalculable utility. It was admirably well planned. Two brick tubes, eighteen by sixteen feet in the clear, were run out side by side from the New Jersey shore, and one of these tubes has now been carried to within a few hundred feet of the New York shore. They were built separately for the self-evident purpose of giving room for a double track railway without weakening the structure by a too great circumference; but if it is desirable they may be connected by transverse passageways and have all the advantages of a single tunnel. For the rest, this double tunnel is constructed of brick, the girders are of sufficient thickness for all practical purposes, and they are so firmly cemented that the bricks could be picked to pieces with a pickaxe, but they cannot be separated at the joints. Everything seemed all right; and far-sighted men who could comprehend the advantages of proper terminal machinery began to felicitate the city on its prospective early escape from its rudimentary and half civilized system of local transportation and storage.

But hardly was the work inaugurated before a chorus of engineering protests began to be heard. "It is preposterous," exclaims one, "to bring the railway trains into New York. They will make the city uninhabitable." These objectors forgot that the trains are already brought to New York and that they are brought here in a manner that entails the necessity for a supplementary truck service which is already making the city uninhabitable. The only thing that can protect the city in its fitness for residence is a system of tunnels which can take the traffic out of the interior streets and confine it to the neighborhood of the water front. But the caviling of the captious critics did not stop here. The tunnel itself was attacked, and men who ought to have had better sense set themselves to traducing its mechanical construction. "It has no foundations," they declared. "It will be in danger of sinking, and it is worthless."

Well, now, this is a curious objection to come from a civil engineer. Does a railway running across the open country need any better foundations than the soil on which the ties rest, except in rare places where the ground is swampy? Then why should any other foundation be needed far down below the bottom of the Hudson River? But the Hudson River tunnel may run over beds of quicksand. Well, what if it does? If it runs over any such beds, the fact was doubtless discovered by the engineer in the course of his excavations; but as a practical man it could have given him very little concern. Quicksand will make as good a foundation as anything else if it cannot run. Did it never strike the objectors that an iron steamer, bearing its engines and many thousand tons of merchandise, is only a floating tunnel closed at the ends to exclude the water? Throw a water-tight iron tube sixteen by eighteen feet in diameter across the surface of the Hudson River from shore to shore, and, if it was firmly constructed, you could run a hundred ton locomotive followed by a loaded train of freight cars clear through it without causing it to sink very deeply into the water. As a matter of fact, water itself, if confined where it could yield only to compression, would make a good enough foundation for the Hudson River tunnel. The charge that this work does not rest on sufficiently solid foundations could hardly have come from men very observant on the operation of physical laws. Yet the charge has been made by men claiming to be experts. It has been reiterated, too, passing from mouth to mouth ever since the work was begun; and it can hardly be doubted that it has been an enormous obstruction in the way of obtaining money for its completion. Yet all the time the railway trains have been running across the salt meadows between Jersey City and Newark on a foundation of no greater solidity than any other salt meadow offers, and not half so solid as the foundation offered by the closely packed silt a hundred feet below the surface of the Hudson River.

The length of time that this tunnel has been under construction is a reflection on the intelligence and enterprise of New York. But like all the rest of our terminal shortcomings the trouble is no doubt due to the political and socialistic octopus which has got possession of the water fronts and turned the eyes of all industrial operators and investors in other directions.

THE practically unanimous condemnation of the appointment of Mr. Van Alen to the post of United States Minister to Italy is a very gratifying incident in our political history if the opposition is precisely what it seems to be. If opposition arises chiefly from the fact that this particular individual is a dude who has bought his position by a large contribution to campaign funds, it is of little value; for if money is to be the determining consideration in the distribution of the most important offices that this nation has to fill, we would just as soon see such a person as Mr. Van Alen supplied with the "commodity" as some one else whose ignorance and vulgarity is of the coarse and loud-mouthed type. We do believe, however, that in the present case the antagonism to Mr. Cleveland's appointee springs solely from an awakening regard for the national reputation abroad. Hitherto the United States has, with a very few and very notable exceptions, been misrepresented rather than represented in foreign countries. We have been sending tenth-rate men to fill first-class positions. That Mr. Cleveland's own most intimate followers should be the most vigorous denouncers of this ridiculous appointment of his may certainly be taken as an indication that we are at any rate turning a corner towards a more rational state of things. If Mr. Cleveland is a man of pluck he will acknowledge the mistake he has made by withdrawing his nomination, and in that way join with the people in establishing an excellent precedent.

ONE does not usually look to the church for "pointers" on real estate, but certainly if what the Rev. Madison C. Peters said in the pulpit last Sunday be correct, real estate men have been sadly blind to their opportunities. This reverend expert, in the course of a lurid denunciation of the greed of landlords, assured his congregationthat East Side tenements yield annually to their unscrupulous owners from 25 to 100 per cent. With information of this valuable nature in their possession we can hardly imagine how a large part of the congregation was able to sit out in patience the rest of the sermon. Human nature being still unregenerate we should have thought that after the Sabbath there would have been an astonishingly active inquiry for tenement-house property, and that real estate brokers who have been slyly keeping under cover all knowledge of the bonanza hidden in the lowest sort of East Side property would have been forced by the Rev. Peters' disclosures to let the public into the secret. But nothing of the kind happened. There has been no marked increase in the demand for tenement property, which is rather more dull than active. It is hard to account for the incomprehensible indifference of people to 100 per cent investments, save by supposing that nobody put any faith in what the Rev. Peters said. And if this be so, in how sad a position his congregation must be; for how can they put any trust in their pastor as to remote and spiritual matters when he shows how ignorant he is regarding affairs that lie right under his nose, as it were, and are susceptible of ready verification. Clergymen often belabor the press for sensational writing, needless carelessness regarding facts and warrantless slandering of individuals. We will not class all the clergy with the Rev. Peters, nor will we say that that gentleman is always as ridiculous as he was last Sunday, but surely it is a disgrace to the church and a degradation of a place of worship for any minister to utter sensational trash of the kind uttered by the Rev. Peters. What experienced real estate brokers think of his "facts" is shown in another column.

The Profits on Tenement Property.

Rev. Madison C. Peters last Sunday denounced owners of tenement houses in the very crowded districts for exacting from the poor tenants rentals showing a profit of from 20 to 100 per cent. It is pretty safe to say that Rev. Peters does not own a tenement, because if he did he would certainly know better than to make any such statement. Owners of tenements get no such returns. There are instances where houses are rented to "bosses," who sub-let to tenants who are in their employ, and thereby secure large returns, but from information secured from agents having hundreds of tenements in charge, the majority being in the most densely populated streets, it was ascertained that nothing like the returns quoted by Rev. Peters are received. Mr. Geo. J. Kenny, of Geo. J. Kenny & Bro., said: "An experience of from twelve to fifteen years enables me to say that no character of tenement property south of Houston street inhabited by any or many nationalities, taking 200 or 300 houses together, will average the year through much over 6 per cent. Some of the houses will pay 10 per cent and a few 12 per cent, but such cases are exceptional and are the result of owners securing the properties at 'panic' prices. As owners and agents we do business on the principle of accepting fair rentals which leads to few changes and at the end of the year shows the best result. We are not alone in doing this; the experience of the leading agents and owners has shown them the wisdom of keeping the same tenants for years by asking only fair rentals."

Mr. Cyrille Carreau said: "I would like Mr. Peters to come down town and point out the tenements that pay such percentages as he mentions. The man who told him he got 35 per cent from his holdings is a sample of many men who are constantly talking without stating many facts. Mr. Peters no doubt means well, but he is certainly mistaken. Owners are compelled by the Health Board to observe the law, as Mr. Peters would soon know if he was the owner of a tenement in bad condition."

A Practical Suggestion—Develop What We Have.

Mr. George S. Lespinasse, whose name has been so familiar for many years to all connected with real estate in this city, recently returned home after a long absence in Europe, during which he has given very close study to the condition of real estate abroad, building methods there, systems of taxation and kindred subjects. In speaking of his experiences abroad to a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE he said:

"One of the first things that strikes me upon returning to New York is the tremendous pressure which the Rapid Transit problem now exerts upon the daily life of our people. The pressure, of course, was here when I made my departure two years ago, but it has greatly increased during my absence. I have been studying the matter a little since I returned, and what surprises me the most is to find that the ideas of nearly everybody I meet concerning Rapid Transit are limited to the elevated roads. The problem for increasing transportation facilities seems to be narrowed down to the power of doing something with these lines. All apparently have concluded that the only available way of getting about the city easily, quickly and cheaply is by an elevated structure. This, it seems to me, is a great mistake. When I left this country, I suppose I was as ardent an admirer of the Manhattan system as could be found on the Island, but my experience in the last two years has somewhat modified my admiration, as I think a similar experience would modify the judgment of all thoughtful men."

When asked if this was a prelude to advocacy of an underground road or of a through-the-block system, Mr. Lespinasse replied:

"No. I am not in favor of any single system or contrivance. The wise course, it seems to me for New York to follow, is to proceed at once to develop beyond the point already reached, all the means of transit we have. There are immense possibilities in this direction. People have no idea how much could be accomplished by this policy. Any one who has traveled much in Europe, however, will be able to form an estimate of the possibilities. Let us glance over the field for a moment and indicate what there is in it. Let us start with a passenger arriving in New York, at say the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's Ferry, at Courtlandt street. How differently he is situated in regard to transit from a traveler arriving at a similar destination in Paris. All French railroads operate a well organized 'bus system. The companies have a great number of these conveyances always in readiness for service. Some 'busses carry two persons, others four or six or eight as the case may be. One can take one of these conveyances carrying six persons and all the luggage for the party and be transported a distance equivalent to say, from Cortlandt street to 59th street for about $2. In New York similar service for only two persons costs $10. As any one would expect, in Paris these 'busses are very freely used (as surely they would be in New York City if we had them) with, of course, a consequent reduction of the pressure upon other modes of transportation. But I must tell you the French system goes even further than I have indicated. 'Busses can be engaged by telephone in advance to call at any hour for travelers and baggage at their homes or hotels. Why can't we have something of the kind in New York? You can see that it would be no insignificant contribution to the solution of the Rapid Transit problem. I am surprised that none of our railroads is enterprising enough to establish a good 'bus system on the French lines.

"So much for that. The next thing, it seems to me, we ought to do is to remove the Grand Central Depot to Harlem. Sooner or later that step has got to be taken. Then extend the tracks down Fourth avenue, Centre street, etc., to the Post Office, and from the Post Office underground to the Battery. At the Battery, it seems to me, we ought to have a great Union Terminus for passengers and freight, such as is now erecting in Paris. In that city, you know, all the great trunk lines are about to throw out underground connections from their depots round about the city to a great central station which shall serve for them all. One of the lines is building its connecting arm 54 feet below the surface. A road of the kind I speak of would meet all the requirements of East Side traffic well nigh indefinitely—in conjunction, of course, with the present elevated lines. Remark, this continuation of the New York Central could be used for the shipment of freight, the transmission of mails, and in this way save cartage, a serious item in New York's expenses, and leave our streets freer than they are from trucking, which you know keeps them as much as anything else, in poor condition and impedes transit on our street railways. Concurrently with this, we should give the elevated roads the space they need for better terminal facilities at the Battery. These roads, I need not say, should be provided for in the great Union Depot at the Battery. This done our attention should be given to the extension of the Broadway cable road. It should run northward by way of Broadway and the Boulevard to Washington Bridge. But let me say, I don't think we should insist upon the company's using the cable from one end of the line to the other. I would let them use any means of propulsion they chose to adopt with the exception of horse power or steam power. Indeed we ought to set about at once to abolish the horse from all street railroads. This in itself would be an immense contribution to the solution of the Rapid Transit problem, for in all our calculations so far we have not estimated rightly the immensely greater service our street car service may perform for us. Instead of opposing the change from horse to mechanical power, our people should unite with the proper authorities in inviting and urging the car companies to adopt either cable or storage battery or underground trolley or even the overhead trolley. In European cities rapid transit requirements are very largely met by the street cars. In New York City we might obtain very much greater assistance from them than we are receiving at present. Indeed I believe that the electrical street car will go a long way towards supplying the transit demand of this city if we develop it to the highest. By the way, there is one thing we ought to do to increase the efficency of our surface cars. We should prohibit incessant stoppages every few feet apart. Rather than walk two yards, people will stop a car three times on a block. We ought to do as they do in many European cities—stop cars only every three blocks. It is a very small concession to ask travelers to make, this walking a few hundred feet, particularly as it would be for the benefit of everybody. A trip could then be performed in much shorter time than at present. In Switzerland, where the trolley has been very highly developed, stops are allowed only every five blocks.

"One step more remains to be taken. I would continue the tracks of the Hudson Road down town to the Battery Depot. This would help the West Side of the island and serve the district lying to the far north. Freight could be transported on this line, and here again we could save cartage and mitigate the trunk nuisance. In short, as you will see, my idea is that New York may go a very long way towards solving the Rapid Transit problem if we would but develop the means we already have. Surely, looking at the matter in general, this is a practical way of proceeding. Certainly it is better than dreaming of an ideal system, which, apparently, is as far from realization to-day as ever it was. We have enough elevated roads. In my judgment, we ought not give up any more of our streets to them. They are a detriment to the health and comfort of our people and the beauty and dignity of the city. Let us stop with what we have now, although, let me add, I think we ought to make the most of what we have got and not unnecessarily hamper the Manhattan Company."

A Row of Well-Located Houses.

On another page of this paper there is an illustration of a row of eight high-class dwellings in 69th street, south side, just east of Columbus avenue, the property of Dr. W. E. Diller. The district in which they are situated has within the last few years been practically transfigured. Some three years ago the owners of the blocks between Columbus avenue and Central Park West, and 68th and 71st streets, found that the demand for first-class houses would not tolerate the construction of flats or business buildings in their vicinity and they accordingly united in the restriction of their property to dwelling-house purposes. Dr. Diller's houses are centrally located in this restricted district.

Recent events have drawn public attention very strongly to this district—the lower West Side. The failure of negotiations with the elevated railroad company limits the prospect for improved transit to the upper part of the West Side, and compels the busy resident to locate within reasonable access of his place of business by surface railroad lines. The Diller houses are within easy reach of the 66th and 72d street stations of the elevated railroad, and of the 9th avenue, 8th avenue and Boulevard street cars; and the recent action of the Metropolitan Traction Company places them in still better access from the down-town business districts via the Broadway and 6th avenue lines. The Metropolitan Traction Company, pending the construction of their cable road in Columbus avenue, have effected a temporary arrangement, whereby the cars of the 6th avenue line are run from 6th avenue through 59th street to 9th avenue or Columbus avenue and thence up Columbus avenue to the Boulevard, and thence via the Boulevard and Amsterdam avenue to 81st street. Passengers from these cars will be transferred at 7th avenue to the Broadway cable cars, and vice versa. This arrangement will doubtless be of great value to residents in the district specified.

The Diller houses are four-story brownstone front houses, of dignified architectural appearance and are finished in the highest style of the builder's art. They were built under the personal supervision of the owner, and show in every department a high order of workmanship.

Sketch Club of New York.

The regular October meeting of the club was held on Saturday, the 7th inst. It was the first meeting in the new rooms, No. 1473 Broadway, near 42d street, which are much larger than the old quarters and better adapted for serving dinners. Forty-five members sat down to dinner and over fifty were present during the evening. Mr. Richard M. Upjohn was the guest of the club and spoke of his recollection of the building of Trinity Church, of which his father was the architect. He also criticised the design for a Gothic rose window, handed in at this meeting. There was an informal exhibition of summer work, forty-five sketches being hung on the walls. The regular winter classes of the club will begin this month.

Astor Docks, Harlem River.

AN IMPROVEMENT OF IMMENSE SIGNIFICANCE TO THE COMMERCIAL FUTURE OF THE CITY—THE DESTINED CENTRE OF THE LUMBER TRADE AND OF OTHER TRADES AND MANUFACTURES.

But few persons, comparatively, in this metropolis have any conception of the spirit of commercial enterprise and activity that is moving in the district bordering on the Harlem River. Taxpayers who try to ascertain what they are contributing for, are aware in a general way that some very creditable bridges have been built across that tidal stream, and that some others are in course of construction.

They have learned, also, that a speedway is about to be projected along its western banks, and that the United States Government is engaged in the conversion of the stream, long of limited possibilities in the way of navigation, into a ship canal and marine highway that shall be capable of floating the largest class of commercial craft.

Of the operations conducted by private enterprise, which always precedes and gives value and prominence to the works of the Nation and the State, they have been told but little. And yet it is for private enterprise, for commerce, for manufactures, for transportation, for the multitudinous industries upon which the great masses of our people depend for their prosperity in life, that the National Government has undertaken its giant task. And it is the supplemental work of private enterprise that alone renders these governmental works of real value. Primitive, pioneer undertakings along the Harlem, indeed, first prompted the Federal Government to undertake the permanent improvement and enlargement of the stream. The first movements of population along its borders made docks necessary for the receipt of building materials, fuel, provisions and other merchandise, and the dispatch of the products of their budding industries.

But the commercial development of this great inter-maritime highway was put in jeopardy and might have been snuffed out entirely, had not the spirit of commercial enterprise, which required that the stream should be made useful to mankind forevermore by its improvement for commercial and navigable purposes.

A rapidly-growing section of the city, of nearly equal area with Manhattan Island, lies north of the Harlem River, the southernmost projection of the mainland of the great Empire State. Over it and through it all the railroads that have ever entered or are ever likely to enter the insular section, have come and must come. It is the section of our future greatest growth and expansion. Manhattan Island, already more densely populated in sections than any other part of the universe, is rapidly reaching its limit of population and building possibility. Already the tide of population is overflowing into the 23d and 24th Wards, and with daily increasing force is occupying and filling up the vast expanse of the territory above the Harlem. Commercial enterprise—the genius of the Metropolis—is the ruling spirit, and the future of this region is assured.

That the North Side will not be a mere dormitory to the island section of the city has been predetermined from the beginning by Nature itself. The potential energy of a vast agricultural and manufacturing population to the north and east and west of it will allow of nothing less than its greatest possible ultimate development. Here the great trunk lines of railroad transportation, as well those in present existence as the many which the destiny of the metropolis will bring to her gateways, will meet the commerce of the seas and effect their changes of cargo.

The North Side is ripe for entry upon this larger sphere of metropolitan growth. A population as large or larger than that of Manhattan Island is her certain destiny, and when that shall have been reached the whole of her frontier will be (aye, already is) open and willing for annexation. Nature has dealt lavishly in graces with this section of New York City, and now Man is taking her in hand for adornment and development for his uses. Building, on permanent lines, has already begun. Manufacturing establishments, warehouses, dwellings for the rising tide of population, school-houses, churches, libraries, public buildings, universities, hospitals and the palaces which nineteenth century charity is providing for the World's unfortunate, have already begun to rise from its picturesque surface. A force and energy of growth has set in which never will be stayed.

A scheme of improvement of larger scope and enterprise than private capital has ever developed in this city is one of the distinguishing features of this present and prospective growth. In organic and perfectly natural relation to the destiny so clearly apparent for this favored section, are the Astor Docks on the north bank of the Harlem River. Without a dock system of the large and comprehensive character here provided the future of this section would have remained problematical. The works of the municipal government, the beautiful bridges, the Croton water system, which traverses the entire North Side, the St. Nicholas viaduct, the speedway, the munificent park system, are the provision by the prescience of the people for the grace and dignity and beauty of the future metropolis that is to exist upon this section.

The works of private enterprise are more fundamental and essential in their character. They will supply the sinews of war, so to speak, the commercial life and activity, without which all the municipal works would be of meagre use. The Astor Docks, with their 2,000 feet of bulkhead line, their five slips each 125 feet wide and 250 feet deep, affording 2,400 feet more of wharfage, or with nearly a mile of water front, every foot of which is available for the uses of all sorts of commerce, are fruitful of promise for the commercial future of this part of the city. They lie between 3d and Jerome avenues, and are the navigable frontage of a dock space of no less than thirty-seven acres, equivalent to about 660 lots of 25x100 each. The main line of the N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. skirts the property on one side, which in connection with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., affords facilities for direct shipment via these trunk line railroad systems and their manifold connections with all parts of the United States and Canada. The property will also be a natural converging point of the railroads that will hereafter seek entrance to the city from the north and east. An arrangement is also intended with the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Erie and all the other trunk line railroads, by means of which loaded cars may be transferred by floats and over float bridges to any part of the docks to receive and deliver freight from and to the manifold manufacturing enterprises that are sure to locate in the vicinity, thus giving the Astor Docks direct connection with the railroads centering at this harbor. The completion of the Harlem River Ship Canal within the near future will shorten the navigable route between the Long Island Sound and the North River by twenty-four miles and will give an impetus to the local commerce which will call every existing dock facility into its utmost use.

Here, then, is the spot for the location of commercial and manufacturing industries. The merchants of the building trades will do well to investigate these properties. Undoubtedly this will be the central location of the lumber trade of this port. As is well said by the agents, Messrs. Nicholson & Co., of No. 150 Broadway (who deal exclusively in water front and business properties):

"As a site for coal, stone, brick, cooperage and lumber yards, ice, nay, dressed beef, flour and produce depots, storage warehouses, elevators, flour and feed mills, and saw and planing mills and woodworking industries, white lead, paint, chemical, marble and iron works, gas, electric light and power plants, breweries, tobacco factories, linseed and cottonseed oil mills, packing houses, and sugar and lard refineries, building materials, machinery works, and any business requiring water and rail facilities, it has no equal in this harbor." These magnificent docks are ready for immediate occupancy, and will be leased for periods of twenty years, with privileges of renewal in plots to suit the requirements of applicants, each plot to have direct rail and water connection. Nicholson & Co. will be happy to show maps of the property and give further information about it.

For the Improvement of Riverside Drive.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

SIR—Our beautiful and unique Riverside Drive has two vulnerable points, viz., at 79th and 96th streets, whither the cartage of a large district passes to the docks. Here neither 79th nor 96th street can aspire beyond business or tenement occupation, and this fact naturally effects the character of the Drive and mars its completeness. Again, there are heavy grades at these points which might be eased, to the general safety and advantage.

Why not urge the Park Department to erect bridges to span these streets, permitting carts and trucks to pass under and not across the level of the Drive, with parapet on the easterly side to shut off the view of unsightly structures on the side street?

Thus, the corner lots could be improved with residences facing the Drive on the new, higher level, the desirability of which would be little affected by any nuisance on the rear. In fact, the story below the Drive level, facing on the street, might be used for business purposes.

At 96th street, very little regrading would be necessary to meet the bridge approaches. At 79th street, the work would be more extensive, but not out of proportion to the benefit to accrue. Now is the proper time to make the alterations, before the Drive is built up with houses which would be damaged by a change of grade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10, '93. P. S. TRUAX.

The Roman Bath in New York Houses.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

SIR—I see in a late copy of your paper it speaks of a bath tub sunk in the floor, and leads the reader to suppose that it is the first to be seen in this city. I wish to call your notice to five houses which I built on West End avenue, between 71st and 72d streets, in all of which you will find the bath sunk in the floor, and covered with a marble top and fascia. It does not seem fair to credit the house your representative calls attention to with being the first to have the modification of the Roman tub when I introduced the use here over a year ago. HARRY CHAFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6th, 1893.

Since Mr. Chaffee's letter came to hand THE RECORD AND GUIDE has learned of one or two other instances in which a modification of the Roman bath has been used in this city. But, like Mr. Chaffee, the builders kept their "light under a bushel," and thus escaped the public credit which their enterprise deserved.

POPULARITY OF THE PATENT SCREWLESS SUSPENSION WASH FRAME.

Architects, builders and house-owners appreciate the improvement in Drying Frames for Roofs, patented a few months ago, by Leo Oppenheimer, which does away with screwing the frame to the roof, thereby avoiding leaks. These frames are securely fastened to the roof by connecting the horizontal top iron of the two parts of the frame by stretch wires provided with turnbuckles, so that the wire can be lengthened or shortened according to the direction in which the turnbuckle is turned. From the upper ends of the outer uprights also extended downwardly and outwardly similar wires with turnbuckles being fastened to screw hooks, attached to the wall, the coping or other parts of the building. The suspension frame is so constructed as to avoid the sacking of the pulley lines and when the lines become slack all that is necessary to make the lines taut, is, to turn the turnbuckles on the horizontal lines to lengthen the stretch wire, at the same time turning the turnbuckles of the side rods in the opposite direction.

The supension frame can at any time be removed, in whole or in part, if repairs to the roof are necessary, and it can be replaced in its position by any unskilled hand.

Mr. Oppenheimer is placing a frame of galvanized iron, 60 feet wide, for Herman Hoefer on the northeast corner of Broadway and 55th street, which is said to be the largest frame in the city. Among the real estate agents using these frames are C. Volzing & Son and Edgar Johnson, and Builders McCafferty & Buckley, of New York, and M. Gibbons & Son, of Brooklyn. Mr. Oppenheimer also manufactures other Drying Frames, and will gladly furnish drawings, specifications and estimates on application to him at 325 East 10th street.

The notice of our readers is called to the announcement in our advertising columns of the removal of Thomas Dimond to No. 128 West 33d street. Mr. Dimond was for many years and until very recently the senior member of the firm of J. G. & T. Dimond, manufacturers in iron work for buildings. Mr. Dimond is about completing on the premises a new and commodious six-story and basement fire-proof factory building which, when completed, will be devoted to the business in which he is engaged. All the latest improvements in the way of machinery will be utilized, so that when finished it will be one of the most complete establishments of its kind in the city. Mr. Dimond does not confine his business to any one specialty, but is prepared to estimate on all kinds of iron work for buildings, both structural and ornamental. A long and satisfactory business connection with a large number of our most prominent architects and builders is the best evidence of his ability. We give below a limited number of names of people for whom Mr. Dimond has performed contracts: David H. King, Jr., John Downey, Charles T. Wills, Marc Eidlitz & Son, A. A. Andruss & Son, F. Augustus Schermerhorn, apartment house at 68th street and 2d avenue; D. Willis James, residence at Morristown, N. J.; G. ASSIGNMENT OF CANDA & KANE.

As disagreeable a piece of news as the building trades have heard in many a day was the public announcement on Tuesday of the assignment of the firm of Canda & Kane to Matthew Baird, the paving contractor. The firm is one of the oldest and largest dealers in building materials in the country, and enjoyed the confidence of the entire real estate community. A statement of their assets and liabilities is now being prepared. An estimate by Mr. F. A. Spencer, the manager of the firm's business, puts the liabilities at between $450,000 and $500,000, and their assets at about $700,000. The failure was forced by the impossibility of securing the usual banking accommodations and the backwardness of collections. A meeting of the creditors is called for next Monday, but it will have to be postponed to later in the week, because the statement of the firms condition will not be ready on Monday.

Out Among the Builders.

Ernest Flagg has plans in preparation for a six or seven-story fireproof business building to be built for Chas. Scribner's Sons, at Nos. 153 and 155 5th avenue. The building will front 58.3 feet on 5th avenue, and will be constructed of Indiana sandstone in the lower stories and of light brick above. The cost is estimated at about $200,000.

George F. Pelham has plans for a five-story and basement building, 50x100 feet in size, to be erected on the west side of Columbus avenue, 75 feet north of 82d street. The building will be constructed of brick and iron with plate glass front. Two stories only will be completed at present, and will be occupied by the owner, John G. Williamson, as a dry-goods house.

Neville & Bagge are preparing plans for a five-story apartment house, to be erected at No. 147 East 126th street, for Alexander A. Jordan. House 25x84, brick and brownstone front, three families on each floor, to cost $18,000.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The market for Common Hards does not appear to have undergone any decided change during the week, but if anything has stiffened a trifle more, and, so far as it goes, sellers carry the advantage without much difficulty. Buyers exhibit the same tendency to handle the best goods noted in our last report, and that brings special firmness on stock ranging at $5.00@5.25, the latter figure now being fully recognizable, although we hear no claims for anything higher. Demand has shown little special spirit, buyers moving along in the usual perfunctory way, their orders stimulated only by current wants, but a very small offering has afforded basis for strength. Manufacturers are avoiding shipments as much as possible, owing to the unremunerative price as matters stand, and the certainty that conditions would be worse under a very small addition to the quantity of stock offering. It is also suspected that the recent failure of prominent dealers makes manufacturers and agents generally a little cautious in their movements and indisposed to take the least unnecessary risk at the moment. Production has not yet wholly ceased, but becomes smaller and smaller every week, and the first sharp frost will in all probability abruptly end the season.

LATH.—Moderate arrivals and moderate demand have kept matters about on a balance, although the extreme figures claimed one week ago cannot now be made, and $2 is the regulation rate. Actual consumption is slow and uncertain, and dealers do not make much of a distribution, so that a very small quantity of stock on fresh receipt serves to satisfy the natural outlet, and probably a few additional cargoes would be quite burdensome. There is an idea that some of the outside localities to which lath are occassionaly sold are running short of stock and would like to replenish.

LIME.—It is a stupid market. Arrivals have been somewhat fuller since our last without finding any corresponding increase of demand and considerable stock remains unsold. It is, however, under protection of the syndicate of manufacturers and held at former rates all around. About the only new feature reported is the stoppage of all production for the New York market at the Maine kilns.

LUMBER.—There has been nothing encouraging developed at the consuming end of the market. As recently noted some few yards get a very fair trade because they are excellently well situated to catch whatever custom may be passing, but in general the retail business is of limited character and dealers find nothing upon which to build hope of gain before spring. Yard accumulations are commencing to fill out somewhat in consequence of the arrival of stock bought along at various times during the season, some of it away back last spring, and since held awaiting orders, and there is a little more business in bulk lots of various kinds. This latter result, however, is due quite as much to the anxiety of sellers as to any other influence, a larger delegation of traveling men as well as local agents coming into the market and some of them evidently very determined in the effort to secure custom. Such conditions of negotiation, of course, are not calculated to raise the line of value, but on the contrary rather tend to throw an advantage in favor of buyers, and there are evidences of some pretty low figures allowed compared with the start of the season, cash or solid credit customers, of course, getting the greatest favors. It may, however, be added that there is no general pushing of stuff and a goodly number of salesmen after finding how matters stood here passed on to other markets.

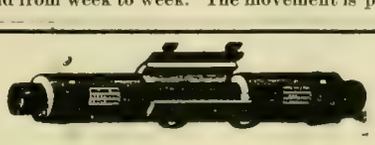
White Pine is variously commented upon as regards the upper qualities, some operators claiming scarcely any sale, and others insisting that quite a fair demand of stuff is wanted, but bids on the whole is somewhat slack. For box and shipping boards there have been a few very good deals made, with the rather suspicious "private terms" tacked on to most reports, although sellers claim that rates were no easier than have been accepted during the summer. Yellow Pine is very uncertain, and it is said that sellers do not seem to know their own mind in many cases. They will make a tender one day at a very low figure, and probably the next week an advance and then follow it with a shading again, the result of which is that buyers stand off and make no investment except as a matter of compulsion.

Carolina Pine is not doing as well as hoped for and some manufacturers who recently took a run through the market just to see for themselves are perfectly satisfied that this is a poor locality to place any great quantity of stock even at low prices. Hemlock has been doing pretty well, the moderate cost, some advance in transportation charges and a desire to get as much stock through by water as possible rather hurrying the movements of buyers. Spruce, irregular. Some State stock has found custom for small parcels, but there was not much demand for the Eastern product and it had to be handled carefully to perfect sales without further shading on cost. Piling dull now, but some hope entertained of better consumption later in the season. Hardwoods generally sell in much smaller quantity than usual at this time of the year and are irregular in price with desirable buyers getting some advantages.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES

STATE.

At Albany, according to the Argus, the lumber market continues flat and there is little in the situation to warrant hopes of a brisk fall business in the two months remaining before the close of navigation. Several buyers were in the district yesterday and considerable continues to be done in small lots. Prices are firm. Lake freights are strong and canal freights unchanged.



METALS.—COPPER—Ingot does not show a tendency toward much change. The general run of supplies is kept under good control and prevented from appearing upon the market until wanted, and while demand is a little irregular, home wants require a fair number of small parcels, which, in conjunction with export deals and deliveries on contract, make an outlet fairly balancing production and preserves a steady value line. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9¾@10c. for Lake and 9¼@9½c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper is meeting with more or less demand from week to week. The movement is probably not quite up to the average for season, but fair as times go and operators are inclined to feel reasonably cheerful. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 12c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@25c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 24c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz., 29c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig moves out more freely, but principally on call for deliveries on old contracts and there is really very little new business taking place. Offerings are made with as much care as circumstances will admit, but there is always plenty of stock available and sometimes a surplus under which the tone on values remains easy, especially for the least popular makes. We quote at $14.00@14.50 per ton for No. 1. X foundry; $13.00@13.50 for No. 2 X do., and $11.50@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material finds a somewhat variable call, sometimes requiring pretty full bunches of stock and then suddenly dropping down to very insignificant orders. Cost varies slightly to suit the immediate deals, but on a general range about former figures may be named. We quote at $14.50@15.00 for old iron rails; $11.50@13.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@11.50 for cast scrap; $12.50@13.00 for old car wheels, and $7.00@10.50 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron finds its principal outlet at the moment in the way of deliveries upon contracts made early in the year. Many of those, however, are drawing near completion with no signs of any important new trade to follow and operators seem to feel more or less discouraged over the situation, with some talk of shutting down by a few concerns. We quote: Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel Rails are not getting any new demand to speak of and there is but very little stock to deliver on contract. Official rates are unchanged but by proper arrangement of point of delivery buyers have in some cases been allowed advantages. We quote standard sections $29 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has not shown much animation, was in fact at times rather neglected, and the tone ruled easy, it being found difficult to fairly adjust the offering to the outlet. There is, however, no serious pressure to realize. We quote at 3½@3⅝c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 6¼c. for Pipe, 7c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin for consumption has not been getting much attention, and was also handled in a somewhat erratic manner by speculators with corresponding fluctuation in line of value. We quote at about 20.65@20¾c. for round lots, and 20⅞@21⅛c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate in many cases is quoted barely steady through lack of even ordinary trade demand. The supply, however, seems to be kept under pretty good control, especially staple qualities, and there is no pressure to realize. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment Melyn grade, $6.35@6.37½; Charcoal Melyn grade crosses, $8.00; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $5.60@5.65; Allaway grade crosses, $6.75; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.50@7.55; M. F. grade, 20x28, $15@15.05; Worcester, 14x20, $5.75@5.80; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.35; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $10.10@10.15; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.30@5.35; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.45@5.50; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.60@—— basis; I. C. Stemeus steel, squares, $5.65@—— basis. Spelter found a fair average demand from regular sources, but rarely reached a point of animation, and prices on the whole were rather easy. Offering fair. We quote $3.80@3.90c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Demand is still rather slowish and without evidence of the least anxiety on part of buyers. In fact the business is in the main perfunctory, and not expected to change much for some time to come. There is plenty of stock for wants of the market, and it can be reached at former cost without difficulty. We quote Cut at $1.05@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.30@1.35 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.45@1.50 for car lots, and $1.60@1.70 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is of a somewhat unsatisfactory character, because of its irregularity. Operators will experience a day or two of good trade and then find almost an entire disappearance of demand, followed by a partial renewal of orders and sometimes by even an increase of call, and so on. Those features simply show the continued cautious methods of buyers determined not to come in possession of an excessive stock if they can avoid it, and the effort to carry out that policy sometimes leading to short purchases. A good average selection of stock is made but there may be noted a smaller proportion of house-painters' supplies than usual at this season of the year. Offerings and assortments continue equal to the current call with something to spare, and prices about as before on paints, colors and leads. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6½c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6¼c.; kegs. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots on 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has secured a fair measure of attention from regular sources, and the market, as a rule, steady with offerings made somewhat carefully. We quote on general range at 40@42c. for Western, 43@15c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine without much general animation, but the demand close up to offerings and the market firmer. We quote at 28@29c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—A fair, steady movement of supplies into channels of consumption is reported, but the market seems to be free from big deals of any kind. Available supplies are plenty enough for the outlet, and owners generally quite willing to accept former rates. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

offers a complete protection against

DRY ROT, FUNGI, MILDEW, MOLD AND CRYPTOGAMS,

and is available for both Wood-work and Masonry.

This new substance is a product of the FARBENFABRIKEN vorm. FRIEDR. BAYER & CO., Elberfeld, Germany. It has been thoroughly examined and tested by Professors V. MILLER and HARZ, who have stated that

"ANTINONNIN IS A PEERLESS PREVENTATIVE OF MILDEW."

The Chief Inspector of Buildings at Munich, Herr STETTNER, and many architects and builders, have endorsed this view.

ANTINONNIN is odorless, non-volatile, soluble in water, and makes eligible mixtures with Lime and other distemper applications.

ANTINONNIN penetrates wood and remains in it, forming a perfect protection against fungi, mildew, and continuous dampness.

ANTINONNIN is far superior to Tar Oils, Carbolineum and similar preparations on account of its freedom from odor, its ease of application, its lasting properties, and its EXTRAORDINARY POWER AS A DESTROYER of all fungoid growths and all organisms which favor dampness and mildew.

is the best application now known for the MASONRY and WOOD-WORK of CELLARS, STORE-HOUSES, WINE-CLOSETS, LAUNDRIES, STABLES, WATER-CLOSETS, all OUT-HOUSES, and all structures exposed to the influences of damp.

ANTINONNIN may by mixed with pure water, lime water or whitewash, and applied with a brush or sponge.

A FULL DESCRIPTION of this new substance will be forwarded on application to

VOL. LII. OCTOBER 21, 1893. No. 1,336

THE same small professional party that put the stock market down, a week ago, has recently put it up, in each instance basing its operations on the character of the news from Washington. Whether the market shall stay strong, go up or go down in the next few days depends on the success of the compromise measure now under discussion. The business community is not likely to be entirely satisfied with anything but unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman Act. Moreover, there are so many conflicting interests to be consulted in a compromise measure, that it is doubtful if any one will do much more than prolong a discussion already carried far beyond the bounds of reason. Probably the quickest result would have been attained by continuing the fight on the Wilson-Voorhees bill. However, the announcement of a compromise has helped to put up the price of speculative stocks somewhat, while the inability to obtain any return for money in any other way has caused an advance and given great strength to all classes of securities that are certain of their interest or their dividends. Outside of the market for securities the conditions are as unsatisfactory as an almost entire absence of business continued through three or four months without prospect of improvement can make them. It is this stagnation in trade that has enabled money to accumulate in the banks and takes away some of the satisfaction that would otherwise be experienced from the rapid cancellation of clearing house certificates in this and other cities. In Boston they now have none and in New York a comparatively inconsiderable amount that will probably be retired early next week. There never was as there is now and has been for some time a better basis for the recurrence of business activity if we can get the proper legislation to permit it, and there can hardly have been a time when delay could be more threatening to trade.

OUR advices from Washington this week are interesting. An intricate game has been played between the two parties. The democrats' plan was to delay action on the repeal bill (although pretending to act) until after the New York election and then introduce a compromise. The republicans concluded on Monday to force the hands of the democrats and to present a financial measure, unless the democrats should agree to introduce a compromise measure. The democrats not having done anything up to Wednesday night, the republicans reached an agreement that night to compromise, and presented an amendment which provided that the repeal of the Sherman bill should not take effect until January 1, 1896. The silver democrats in the Senate stood ready to vote for this republican amendment, unless the administration should present a compromise. As two-thirds of both House and Senate could be counted on to vote for the Republican amendment, the administration was forced to yield and the Democratic compromise has been practically agreed upon. It is sure of passage and then goes to conference, and in less than ten days may be relied upon to become a law. Its terms will probably be as follows: First, Repeal. Second, The repeal to take effect January, 1895. Third, $200,000,000, five year, 3 per cent bonds to be authorized. Fourth, All paper of denomination less than ten dollars to be retired, except silver certificates. Fifth, The profit on silver bullion to be coined as fast as possible. To these points may be added the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on State bank circulation.

INFORMATION comes from Washington to the effect that Congress will be urged to impose an income tax. This may safely be regarded as a very pointed indication of the difficulties that beset any attempt to materially reduce the revenues which the Government derives from the Tariff. Federal expenses have increased so greatly within recent years that the income from present sources, including the high McKinley duties, is not sufficient to meet them. Needless to say, conditions of this sort form a very difficult obstacle to any free trade revision of the tariff, and no doubt, in spite of the revenue recommendations recently made by Mr. David A. Wells, the Administration finds itself compelled to seek around for some new source of income as prerequisite to tariff revision. The talk about an income tax can scarcely be more than a "feeler" as to public opinion, but Chairman Wilson and other members of the Committee of Ways and Means are said to favor the tax. The Sherman Law has proved so far a very difficult matter even for a strong majority to handle, and, in our judgment, it will be found that the Tariff will be even more difficult to deal with.

The Profits of Tenement Property.

WE print elsewhere in this paper a communication from the Reverend Madison C. Peters, criticising certain remarks which we made in these columns last week regarding the sermon he preached lately on the "Evils of Tenement House Landlordism." It will be remembered that in that discourse Mr. Peters asserted that the profits realized from the lower class of tenement houses (for instance such as those that make up a great part of the lower East Side), range from 20 to 100 per cent. Of course, the preacher intended that these figures should be taken as referring not to a few exceptional cases but to so great a number that tenement house landlordism was tainted and made odious thereby; for the purpose of his sermon was not to castigate a few individuals, but to denounce an iniquity that he thinks is prevalent enough to be styled an "evil." Indeed, if the newspaper reports are correct (and nowadays, due to the care which ministers take previous to publication their words are reported, on the whole, more accurately than those of anybody else), the purpose of Mr. Peters' sermon was undoubtedly to assail tenement house landlordism as a whole and to hold it up to his hearers as a baneful thing (as now practiced). Though it is true he did not specifically say so much, the tenor of his remarks tended emphatically to convey the idea that the majority of tenement house landlords obtain exorbitant and inhuman rents and that these rents might be measured in a rough and ready way by the figures he gave out—20 to 100 per cent. The letter which we publish elsewhere practically reiterates the foregoing. Mr. Peters believes that the rentals in tenement districts range from "20 per cent (which he thinks is low) to 40 per cent (which he thinks is not unusual) on the assessed valuation." So much for Mr. Peters' side of the question.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE has no hesitation in saying that all that Mr. Peters says is a very gross exaggeration. The figures he gives are exaggerated. The entire tenor of his remarks is false and unwarranted. His sermon is of precisely the same character as the sensational, reckless and unverified stories which form a large part of the matter printed by the least responsible of our newspapers and of which the Church has very rightfully been one of the most persistent critics. Indeed we greatly fear one of the most lamentable results of sensational journalism is the effect which it has had upon contemporaneous preaching. We say this with no desire merely to retort or be sarcastic. We consider it outrageous, unseemly and in a sense irreligious that any clergyman should denounce and characterize as vile an entire class of the community without being absolutely sure of the truth of every statement he makes; without having personally verified whatever evidence he may be possessed of, and without patiently and tirelessly acquainting himself with all the limitations and qualifications of the subject in hand. It is much easier to be denunciatory and sensational than moderate and judicious.

The main point at issue between the Reverend Madison C. Peters and THE RECORD AND GUIDE can be very readily decided. In our columns are to be found the legal records of the hundreds of transfers of tenement house property filed annually in this city. We will open our volumes at hazard or at any particular page the Reverend Peters may select; we will copy, in order of publication, the first fifty transfers of tenement house property in the vilest parts of this city; we will put these fifty into a receptacle, like so many ballots, and Mr. Peters shall draw six of them. Then we will join with him in investigating the profits realized by the owners of these six buildings and we will publish the results. If the rentals, as discovered, "range from 20 per cent (which is low) to 45 per cent (which is not unusual) on the assessed valuation," we will thereafter assist Mr. Peters to the utmost of our power, in his crusade against the Evils of Tenement House landlordism; for if any such rack-renting prevails in this city it should be utterly destroyed.

But we are certain that beyond peradventure no such state of things exist in New York. We are, of course, far from saying that it is impossible to find in the metropolis a single piece of tenement house property that pays as much as 20 per cent or even a greater percentage. There are people in this city who own office buildings, purchased perhaps many years ago, or acquired under exceptional conditions, who obtain a very high return upon their investments. The same is true as to some owners of warehouses and stores and private residences, but because there are a few such cases no one but a very foolish person would maintain that office buildings and warehouses and stores and private residences pay 20, 30, or 40 per cent. When reasonable people speak of the profits of any particular kind of investment or enterprise they refer to the usual and average returns which are to be obtained under ordinary circumstances. Only a short time ago, a four-story brick store (No. 359 6th avenue), lot 27x65, was sold by the Heller estate to Ehrich Bros. for $126,500, although the property was bought in 1858 at a cost of only $11,500. Under these circumstances the Heller estate must for a long time have obtained a rental of over 50 per cent annually on their property. Cases of this sort, obviously, are exceptional, and no doubt they are to be found by searching tenement house property just as they could be found by searching all other sorts of property. These exceptions, however, were not the subject of Mr. Peters' sermon. He was speaking of the average. His purpose was to cover a class with shame. That he is wrong is certain. From our experience we are positive that even including the exceptional cases there is very little tenement house property in this city that yields a net profit of 20 per cent on the actual valuation; some there may be (it is limited) that pays 12 per cent or 15 per cent, whereas the great bulk of it returns anywhere from 6 to 10 per cent and no more.

We have no space here to touch upon several minor matters which Mr. Peters speaks about in his letter. What he says about inflated rents having brought inflated prices is (speaking respectfully) nonsense. The land upon which the lowest class of tenements stand is some of the lowest priced property (that is, one can buy a greater area of it for $1) in the city, and very frequently when this property is brought to auction under foreclosure proceedings, or otherwise (as has been the case recently), it has been difficult to get bids large enough to cover the actual cost of the building. Is not this a curious state of affairs with property which pays (not unusually) 45 per cent.?

The statement that 90 per cent. of the owners of tenement property conceal their names is a gross exaggeration. Some of them no doubt conceal their names, but so do owners of private houses, office buildings and warehouses, for obvious reasons.

As to our correspondent's one or two "digs" at ourselves, they have seasoned his letter and probably given him some satisfaction without doing us any harm. Our controversy with Mr. Peters has sprung from the fact that we don't believe that owners of real estate have a low standard of morals or conscience—not even the owners of tenement house property. We certainly do advise our readers to buy tenement house property wherever they can find any which pays 20 or 45 per cent on the investment. We are certain that there is nothing of that nature in the market at present, and if by extraordinary luck they should find any they will obtain their very large profit by good fortune and not by rack-renting their tenants. As Mr. Peters was not aware of the absurdity of his own statements he could not perceive the real meaning of our remarks.

Let it be understood that in the foregoing we make no implications concerning the condition of the tenement house population of this city. In many particulars it is lamentable, and is a disgrace to our civilization. The tenement house system is, in our judgment, an evil. It makes dignity of character and home life well-nigh impossible. We heartily praise the Reverend Madison C. Peters for his desire (for we suppose his sermon sprang from the desire) to correct this evil, but he is wrong if he thinks it is merely a product of grasping landlordism. The roots of it are in the character of the people who make up the bulk of our tenement house population.

WE are of the opinion that so far justice has not been done to the trolley system. The public, taking the cue from the newspapers and without any direct knowledge, have come to the conclusion that the proper thing to do is to roundly damn the trolley whenever it is spoken of. This would be a very foolish attitude for any people to take towards a new and apparently serviceable method of locomotion, but it is doubly foolish when adopted by the people of a city like New York whose prosperity and comfort are so closely related to cheap and sufficient rapid transit that the one cannot really be dissociated from the other. Real estate men, particularly in a city circumstanced as New York is to-day, should be careful that in a matter like this their judgment is very well founded. From what we can see opposition to the trolley arises in great measure from prejudice, and, as we have said, this prejudice, we think, is entirely begotten of newspaper talk. Every little incident or accident that has happened in connection with the system has been reported and magnified after the manner of contemporaneous journalism. In the case of the horse cars derailments, run-overs, collisions ceased long ago to be news, but with the trolley and the cable these mishaps have still something of a novelty about them and the natural thing for a newspaper to do is to make as much of them as possible—which they do. From all this has arisen [illegible] exaggerated idea of the danger attached to these new methods of transit. If people will eliminate the distorted notions they have received from newspaper reading and will make necessary allowances for defects and accidental occurrences incidental to any new device, they will reach the conclusion, we believe, that their present attitude of hostility is entirely unwarranted. Speed for speed, there is nothing to show that the trolley is any more dangerous than the horse car. Of course, with faster locomotion danger of accident increases. This is true of steam railroads, and would be just as true of horse cars if the rate at which they traveled was accelerated. It is easy enough to regulate the speed of the trolley. That it can travel faster than the horse car is really a point in its favor. Defects in construction and equipment, too, should not be regarded as permanent and necessary evils which accompany the use of the trolley. With proper care all these can be avoided. There can be no doubt that in rejecting the trolley our people are rejecting what would certainly be a very important contribution toward the solution of the Rapid Transit problem. Even the disfigurement of our streets (which almost impossible feat some people think within the capabilities of the trolley) surely could not happen along the avenues now occupied by the elevated roads, and as these avenues are the main arteries for traffic the trolley would be of the greatest assistance there.

Farmers of the Middle-West in Fiction.

THERE are a good many people in the East who are honestly and acutely anxious to understand the character and condition of the Western farmer. Some regard them as a lot of thoroughly dishonest debtors trying to evade the payment of what they owe, some think of them as demagogic, misguided malcontents, and still others believe that the Middle-West is on the whole prosperous and contented, and that the Populist agitation is a superficial and transient thing. Much has been written in elucidation of the subject without elucidating it to any considerable extent. From the Census Bulletins to the lurid articles which the "popular" magazines scramble for and publish there is a failure to give a candid and comprehensive view of the situation such as many desire to get.

To those who would be glad to see an accurate and sympathetic description of Western farm life, especially with reference to its economic conditions, we commend the novels and short stories of Hamlin Garland. We know nothing of him except what may be gathered from his books, but manifestly he was an Iowa farm boy, and speaks with the authority of one who has been a part of that which he describes. A rather sombre temperament has perhaps induced him to lay on the dark shades somewhat too heavily, so far as conditions of life are concerned; and, following Henry George, whose economic philosophy he has apparently accepted, he perhaps over-estimates the possibilities of human nature under improved industrial conditions. Had he been more of an evolutionist and less of a Georgeite, his interpretation of the situation would have been somewhat different, but his description of it would hardly have been changed.

For his description of the life of the Western farmer is essentially accurate and fair. The fact upon which he insists most constantly is the deadening effect of excessive manual labor upon the men and especially upon the women of the farms. It kills not only all sense of the beautiful and crushes out the capacity for enjoyment, but it makes impossible the ingenuity and the foresight without which a man cannot maintain his position in modern industry. The enlargement of the joints and the stiffening of the muscles have their counterparts in a mental slowness and awkwardness which makes it impossible for the farmer to deal on equal terms with the group of semi-idle attorneys and money lenders that gather at the county seats and other small towns of the prairie country. This is especially true in the two great departments of finance and politics. In the first of these departments the farmer is continually agreeing to pay a higher rate of interest than the productivity of his investment warrants. This is true all the way from the extreme frontier, where the little banks loan money at 3 and 4 per cent a month back to older States like Ohio, with an interest rate on farm loans of about 6 per cent.

In the domain of politics exhausting work, together with the isolation of his life, makes the farmer a nonentity until his position becomes unbearable. When this comes about the political strength of the farming class is out of all proportion to their skill—they fight not wisely but too well. Representatives of their own class who may be perfectly honest are unable when made legislators to withstand the subtle but powerful influences thrown about them by the members of the "third house." They cannot be bribed, but their well-conned conclusions are all shaken by the artfully provided new information which a wider outlook gives them. Under such circumstances the average farmer legislator has two courses open to him. One is to weaken and do nothing, which is the course most commonly taken; the other is to remember only that something is wrong and that something must be done, and to rush blindly forward to the doing of something radical.

Mr. Garland treats nearly all the various characters of Western rural life from the "hired man" to the Congressman, from the return of the private at the close of the war, to the last phase of the Populist agitation, from the frontiersman to the return of the ex-farm boy as a successful playwright. But through it all the dominant thought is that the farmer as such is working under impossible conditions. The ague-shaken private who comes back to a mortgaged and abused farm at the end of the war takes up a fight longer, more arduous and more hopeless than that which has just ended. The boy who leaves the farm may possibly succeed. Attractive work, financial success, intellectual achievement and æsthetic development may await him. But for the brother with the same natural ability who remains upon the farm there is a ceaseless round of stultifiying toil for himself and wife.

This is not the conventional picture of farm life nor the conventional doctrine preached by sapient editors who advise boys to "stay on the farm." In fact, these conventional pictures and doctrines Mr. Garland hates most ardently, and it cannot be doubted that he is right in thinking them false. It is astonishing how many men who have left the farm and who have no thought of returning, persistently advise others to stay there. Mr. Garland is realist enough to see and say that the farm life of the Middle-West at the present time, while in many ways attractive, is, to one with capacity for development, harsh and deadening; that economic conditions are such that prosperity is not necessarily or perhaps usually the reward of industry.

The kind of farmer at present most conspicuously absent from Mr. Garland's stories is the honest, industrious and successful man. There are such specimens, and they are not so rare as one might infer—men who by intelligent labor not only add acre to acre, but also achieve for themselves and children a tolerably large and generous life. Another class which does not figure conspicuously in the pages of this novelist is made up of the shiftless and vicious. We wish that he would bring these two extremes before us and show, as he could, the exact way in which character operates to influence the industrial history of the individual. If he were to undertake this work we think he might develop the fact that much of the suffering of the farmers comes from causes other than industrial or political, that a good deal of it has its origin in character, and is not regretable because it is remedial in its effects. At the same time we agree with Mr. Garland that the condition of the average, mediocre farmer is gratuitously hard. He has done good work in bringing that condition so clearly before those who honestly wish to understand it.

The Rev. Peters on the Evils of Tenement House Landlordism.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Your newspaper, devoted to the interests of real estate men, very emphatically and somewhat hysterically criticised my utterances of two weeks ago on The Evils of Tenement House Landlordism. You said, in the first place, that my statement, quoted from an article in the New York Press, that tenement property frequently realized a profit of from 20 to 100 per cent, was outrageously exaggerated. It will interest THE RECORD AND GUIDE to know that that statement was taken from a report made by the New York State Senate, after investigations extending over more than one year had been made by a competent committee of reputable citizens. Continuing, THE RECORD AND GUIDE says that, "with information of this valuable nature in their possession, we can hardly imagine how a large part of the congregation was able to sit out in patience the rest of the sermon." This shows that you do not give your patrons credit for a high standard of morals or conscience. For your benefit I will state that there are many real estate agents in this city who would not touch tenement property with a 100-yard pole, if the profits were 500 instead of 25 per cent; that there are scores of capitalists in New York City who would much more readily buy property to be leased for immoral purposes than they would the ordinary dirty, unhealthful and high-priced houses which are now rented to the poor of this city. Among these latter I will mention the Astors, who have made it a rule of their real estate business to be satisfied with 4½ per cent, the Vanderbilts, who would not own tenement property if it doubled its price in profits every year, and there are scores of others like them. Antonio de Navarro, the builder of the finest apartment houses in the world, said to a friend of mine not long ago, that he ranked tenement property with property used for unlawful purposes, and that in his opinion the man who owned it got a poor price for his self-respect, even if it did net him an abnormal percentage.

For several weeks now the Press newspaper has been devoting many columns in each Sunday issue to an exposure of the profits which tenement property earns. It has not hesitated to give names so far as it has been possible to get them, and street numbers, nor has it hesitated to tell the whole truth in regard to the buildings which it has described. It has shown that the rentals in the tenement districts range from 20 (which is low) to 45 per cent. (which is not unusual) on the assessed valuation. The assessed valuation is supposed to amount to between 65 and 70 per cent of the real value. This is the ratio as given by the tax office. What the real profit is can thus be readily figured out. The defence of the tenement landlords that 15 per cent on the assessed valuation really does not mean more than 4 or 5 per cent on what they can get for their property, is simply a confession of their shame. Inflated rents have brought inflated prices. Property which is intrinsically worth $10,000 can frequently be sold for $25,000 because it is covered with dirty barracks for the poor. The prices for which tenement property can be purchased to-day have no bearing whatever upon the real value of the land and the actual cost of the building. The extra tens of thousands which are paid are not the price of property—they are the price of a stand and a privilege—the stand of the oppressor and the privilege of robbing the poor.

Whether or not the owners of tenement property realize that such ownership carries with it odium, can be guessed from the fact that 90 per cent of them conceal their names. There is a law in New York State providing that in every tenement house shall be exhibited the name of its owner. There are not half a dozen houses in the city in which this law is complied with. Many and many instances have the investigators found in which the names of owners had been covered up with the most ingenious care. It is not necessary in this State to record a real estate transfer. Look upon the records in this city and you will find that this opportunity for evasion has been taken advantage of by hundreds of tenement property owners where it has been taken advantage of by one owner of business buildings. There are several great corporations (one of them, save the mark, of high moral pretensions) which hold acres upon acres of these outrageous slums in the name, not their own, but of fictitious individuals and estates. There is one man well up in New York society who masquerades his tenement landlordism under an Irish woman's name. The tax books of this city are of scarcely any value in ascertaining the names of tenement-house owners, and even the Board of Health, which has fought with almost superhuman energy but with puny weapons, has frequently found owners who were willing to suffer very considerable financial loss rather than have their names taken into court as those of men owning tenement property.

These few remarks will show that while THE RECORD AND GUIDE may have set a standard on its columns which allows it to advise its readers to buy tenement property whenever it can find any which pays a high percentage, it is nevertheless true that there are many among the important class to which it caters who have not so completely lost their self-respect as to for one moment consider the possibility of following its suggestion.

MADISON C. PETERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I was pleased to read your remarks in to-day's issue in reply to the Rev. Madison C. Peters' prelude to his sermon of last Sunday evening, his topic being "Abominable Landlordism." I quite agree with you in your remarks.

JAS. R. WATERLOW.

IRRIGATION IN CALIFORNIA—CHANGES IT WORKS—REDLANDS WONDERFUL GROWTH—LAKE VIEW NEXT.

Mr. George Brown, of the well-known firm of George and Clifford Brown, architectural wood-workers, has just returned from a trip to the Far West, including California and Chicago, and relates some interesting facts concerning the California fruit belt. He says he was surprised at the wonderful growth of Redlands, which now contains about 6,000 population, an assessment roll of $5,000,000, and has two banks, three high schools and churches of all denominations. It embraces an area of about seventeen square miles and its elevation is 1,800 feet. Thirteen years ago it was a barren waste, while now nearly every acre is under cultivation. Water was brought down from the San Bernadina water shed, a distance of twenty-seven miles, and the engineering difficulties were successfully overcome by Frank E. Brown, a graduate of Yale College, who designed and built the Bear Valley dam, for which Yale College made him Master of Engineering, with a diploma.

Many Queen Anne houses containing all improvements have been erected at Redlands, costing from $7,000 to $20,000 apiece. Among the New Yorkers who have built are the Smileys, of Lake Mohonk fame. They have secured about 150 acres of land and expended about $175,000 in improvements, of which $20,000 went for a winter residence which they built on a knoll. The land is mostly cut up in ten-acre tracts and is of a high average for raising oranges, ranking with Riverside, according to Major Powell, of the U. S. Geological Survey. Land with two-year-old orange trees is held at $400 per acre, while for land with four-year-old trees $700 is asked. It costs about $3 per year per acre for water for irrigating purposes. Encouraged by great success in developing Redlands, Mr. Frank E. Brown and Mr. George Brown have associated themselves with California and English capitalists as the Lake View Land and Improvement Co., and secured a large tract within three miles of the city of San Jacinto and twenty miles southeast of Redlands, which they propose developing on the same line. The new settlement will be known as Lake View and embraces between 8,000 and 10,000 acres. Water will be brought down from the San Jacinto water shed which covers an area of 525 square miles. Land will be offered at $75 per acre, while land at Allesandro, between Riverside and Lake View, which has been founded three years, is selling at $200 per acre.

The 155th Street Viaduct Assessment.

The Board of Assessors give notice that a public meeting will be held at their office, No. 27 Chambers street, on Thursday, November 2d, at 11.30 A. M., "for the purpose of determining the area of benefit to be assessed for the construction of the 155th street viaduct."

A Group of Houses by Edward Tipping.

FINE PRODUCTS OF THE BUILDER'S ART—A SELECT STREET AND SOME VALUABLE NOVELTIES IN THE FINISH OF THE HOUSES.

It has often been remarked that each year's building operations in the great residence section of the West Side shows an improvement upon the preceding years. The house-buyer will on investigation concede the veracity of this observation as to this year's houses, at any rate. Building has not been extensive, has in fact been considerably less than in any of the three preceding years. But in both the external appearance—the design, and in the internal arrangements and finish, of the houses of this year's construction, there is a higher order of the art architectural apparent, and evidences of a greater skill in the mechanical execution of the various structural parts.

This is as it should be. We proceed from good to better and to best. The builders of town houses of to-day are the heirs of a rich and instructive period of development in residence construction. Competition has made them alert, and the success of their efforts with the public has incited among them an ambition to excel. Faults that were apparent in the design of the houses of a few years ago are no longer seen—they would suffice to condemn any group of houses in which they should now be discovered. Public taste has been educated to a high degree, and a standard of excellence in design and fittings and finish is now required which is no longer easy to attain to. A row of six four-story houses, Nos. 140 to 150, on the south side of 76th street, between Columbus and Amsterdam avenues, furnishes apt illustration of the points in residence construction above stated.

Much could be written about the advantageous location of these houses, but house buyers do not in these days need to be introduced to the beauties and attractions of the West Side. There is but one West Side and it is the glory of the Metropolis. Other special sections there are, of limited extent, which are affected in equal parts by palaces of the plutocrats, by rival clubs and by altitudinous hotels. But the West Side, rather than these gilded patches of Manhattan Island, is the section which expresses in the highest perfection the ideal of American urban life. Here are veritable homes, behind whose hospitable portals the occupant can enjoy the privacy, the comfort, the rest and recreation, without which even a palace can never be a home.

But even on the great West Side, where the modern American Town House has reached its highest perfection, there are streets and neighborhoods that are preferred above other streets and neighborhoods, and for good reasons. West 76th street is one of the most select. The block in which the Tipping houses are located is with the completion of these last and handsomest six, solidly built up with the finest houses. Eastward of the block, towards Central Park, and westward, towards the Riverside Park and Hudson River, all the improvements are of the same high order, so that the street, from "the" (Central) Park to the river, is one of the most select in this choice residence section. It has just been repaved with an asphalt pavement on the original Belgian block pavement. The street is therefore sure to be one of the quietest and cleanest in the city.

Mr. Edward Tipping, a builder of demonstrated skill and well-established character, is the builder and owner. The houses are each 20 feet front by 58 deep, with two-story and basement extensions of 12×14, the lots 100.2 feet deep. The accompanying illustration shows the stately outlines and handsome designs of the front elevations. Three of the houses, as will be seen from the illustration, have box stoops and three have what are ordinarily termed straight stoops, but which in the Tipping houses are nearly if not quite as ornate and attractive in appearance as the most elaborately chiseled box stoop. The railings spread on graceful lines from the top, making each descending step a longer one than the one above, making the stoop appear like a grand staircase and fairly overcoming the lack of balance common in high stoop houses.

Nos. 140-150 West Seventy-sixth Street, between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues.
EDWARD TIPPING, Owner and Builder.

The three straight stoop houses have oriel bays, of handsome proportions and showing creditable sculpture. No. 140 has a front bay extending from bottom to top. This house and the one at the opposite end of the row have foyer halls. All the others have straight halls. The fronts are constructed of Jersey brownstone of exceedingly fine grain and peculiarly attractive color. It is used for the first time in residence construction in this city in Mr. Tipping's houses. It presents the appearance of a blend in color between the darker Belleville brownstone and the brighter Lake Superior redstone. Its grain is clearly marked, and as all the stones are laid on their natural bed, there is no possibility of scaling. The foundations have been made upon the solid rock, and as the elevation is high the drainage is perfect.

The high order of architectural and constructive skill shown in the fronts of these houses finds its counterpart in the interior arrangement and finish. The sure sign of an experienced builder appears in the selection of the woods for the trim. There is hardwood and there is hardwood. The average person would be satisfied with knowing that red mahogany, white mahogany, quartered oak, bird's-eye maple, gum or hazel, sycamore, birch, ash and (or) white and gold, was the rightful description of the trim; but there are qualities of wide divergence in each of these woods, and it requires the eye of the experienced builder to select them, so that every part of his houses shall harmonize in character with all the other parts. In this direction the Tipping houses invite the closest, most critical inspection.

While the trim is in different woods in every two houses, the designs for the interiors are true to the general scheme. The trim is of the most substantial and solid construction. Some of the parlors, which are among the richest in finish in the city, are trimmed in white mahogany, some in red mahogany and some in white and gold. Among the special features which distinguish these houses are the following: Cube mosaic floors in the vestibules; cabinet-trimmed halls, including the walls and ceilings; massive console mirrors; highly ornamental fretwork and balcony seats about the staircases; double floors throughout.

The parlors are partitioned off from the music-rooms by arches of rich cabinet work curtained with delicate fretwork; the mantels marvels of beauty in special designs, those in the parlors faced with Numidian and Sienna marbles and Mexican onyx. The base mouldings of the most massive and ornate description. The foyer halls (in two houses) and music-rooms are finished in similar style and articulate naturally with the parlor. In the halls there are gas-log open fireplaces with balcony nooks.

The dining-room, occupying the full width of the house, and with a very large window space, is finished in the highest style of the cabinetmaker's art with hospitable oak; massive oak mantel, oak wainscot, oak-timbered ceiling, adjoining spacious butler's pantry, finished in same quality of quartered and polished oak. Thus much for the parlor floor.

The cellar is finished—lathed and plastered all over, and is light and dry. You note, however, that the main girder is of steel beams, supported on iron pillars. The furnace, bricked in, is equipped with automatic governors, and there is a waste water sink. The floor is smoothly cemented. Right here it should be said that the cellars, areas and sidewalks are of exceptional construction, the work of C. Lehmann.

The kitchen is a picture of neatness and convenience—one of the kind that cooks boast about. It has oak trim, white tile wainscot and walls back of range (French range), ceramic tubs in adjoining laundry and porcelain sink. There are in addition to the kitchen a breakfast-room, two store rooms and pantry on this floor.

The second floor has two large chambers (the front one designed for use as a family room and library, with "built-in" book-cases), a spacious and luxurious dressing saloon and, in the extension, a sumptuous bath, with open fireplace, equipped with asbestos fireboard. The hall doors on this floor and to the front rooms on the upper floors are sliding doors. Quite a variety of woods is shown in the trim, and the mantels are made to match with the trim.

But no description, however detailed, would suffice to show the many excellences of these houses. People in search of homes in this fine residence section will not do themselves full justice until they have thoroughly inspected them. Mr. Tipping will himself be found on the premises at all reasonable hours, and he will gladly show the houses to responsible parties. COMMUNICATED.

Trade Items.

Henry Sellheim has at No. 22 New Bowery a manufacturing establishment for all kinds of iron-work used in building construction. He has established a reputation for excellence in his product and for fair dealing. He has a patent self-adjusting block and fall which builders should investigate. Although all sorts of iron-work for building comes within his range, Mr. Sellheim makes a specialty of iron awnings, and in this branch he is unexcelled.

Out Among the Builders.

Jacob. D. Butler will build two high-class private residences on the two lots, 25x100 each, on 72d street, north side, 425 feet west of Central Park West, one for a customer and one for himself.

THE WORLD'S REAL ESTATE CONGRESS.

Commencing on Monday there will be held at Chicago, under the auspices of the World's Congress Auxiliary, a three days' session of a World's Real Estate Congress. President Charles C. Bonney, of the Auxiliary, will deliver the opening address on Monday and there will be addresses of welcome by Thomas Bryan, and by Col. H. L. Turner, on behalf of the National Real Estate Association

The further order of the Congress embraces papers and addresses on "The Ownership of Land: its Relation to the Individual, to Society and to the State." "Uniformity in Real Estate Laws;" "Real Estate the Ideal Asset," and upon the operation of and objections to the "Torrens system." The addresses by Messrs. A. M. Pence and Harvey B. Hurd, of the Chicago bar, on the Torrens land transfer record system, promise to be instructive and entertaining. New York real estate interests will be represented by Mr. Peter F. Meyer, of the New York Real Estate Salesroom, and Mr. Benjamin Hardwick, Manager of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room.

Smyth & Ryan will, on Wednesday next, October 25th, sell at auction, absolutely without reserve, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, five choice plots, embracing in all sixteen lots, very advantageously located in the 23d and 24th Wards. Four lots, in a plot 100x80, are on the southeast corner of St. Ann's avenue and 134th street, half the block distant from the Southern Boulevard. Trolley cars in both the Southern Boulevard and St. Ann's avenue are one of the certainties of the near future. Two more lots, together 50x70, are in 134th street, 220 feet distant from the four first mentioned, and about midway between St. Ann's avenue and the Southern Boulevard (which forms a curve around the south side of the block). Three more lots, in a plot 75x100, are in 135th street, south side, within a block and a-half of the 134th street station on the elevated railroad, and half a block from Willis avenue, which is soon to have a trolley railroad. Another plot fronts 20.9 feet on 149th street, south side, between Brook and Bergen avenues. It is 121.9½ deep and 113.9 wide on the rear line, and is within a short distance of 3d avenue. The last plot of four lots, 100x100, fronts on Marsher avenue, east side, between Devoe and Highbridge streets, and will front on the proposed Washington Ridge road. There are excellent opportunities in these offerings for the investor and builder. The properties are morally certain to advance rapidly in value.

James L. Wells will hold one of the most important lot sales of the year next Monday, October 23d, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. On this occasion he will offer 151 lots of the well-known Vyse estate, in the 23d Ward. The property is centrally located in a district which has been the scene of greater activity during recent months than any other part of the city. The lots are not out of town, but well within it, and will therefore share in all the benefits of city street improvements. They are on and near the Southern Boulevard and Home (167th) street, and are easily accessible by the Westchester avenue electric railroad. The Union Railway Company has the franchise for and in the spring will push the construction of an electric line in Southern Boulevard also. Mr. Wells has had a number of successful sales in this vicinity during the last year, and hundreds of lots have been sold to individuals who are building or are about to build homes upon them. All this insures the future of the district and makes certain the prospect of a material advance in the value of these properties. Mr. Wells will send maps and further particulars of the properties on application at his office, No. 59 Liberty street.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—The partition sale of forty-seven acres of upland on Broadway, opposite Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, with quarry and water front, held here last Saturday, resulted in John D. Rockefeller becoming the purchaser at $585 per acre.

Among the important lot sales of the near future will be the sale by James L. Wells, on Wednesday, November 1st, of 145 lots, to close up the Fox estate. The sale will take place at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. The property is finely situated in the 23d Ward, on Intervale avenue, Fox, Home, Simpson and 127th streets, the Southern Boulevard, and Hoe and Vyse avenues and the West Farms road. The district is settling rapidly with a good class of householders, and is easily accessible by the Westchester avenue electric road. Mr. Wells will furnish maps and further particulars regarding the sale on application to him at 59 Liberty street. In the meantime prospective buyers should take a look at the property.

The meeting for the purpose of organizing a Real Estate Owners' and Brokers' Protective Association, held at No. 153 West 125th street, Wednesday evening, was a great success. The association will be incorporated. A committee was appointed to draft by-laws and constitution. The following officers were elected: First Vice-President, William R. Lowe; Treasurer, Arthur E. Woods; Secretary, A. Ward Benedict; Board of Managers, J. E. Briggs, E. Heilner, Wilson H. Blackwell and E. Frank Shaw. The other officers will be elected at an adjourned meeting. Lack of space prevents a better notice of the organization this week.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—About the best advice we obtained this week among operators in Common Hards was to make the market report short. It was hardly necessary, however, to make the suggestion, as there is practically nothing to say beyond what has been written repeatedly for a long time past. Demand has no natural life nor does there appear to be any way to stimulate it, as the indifference of buyers is not caused by any opposition to cost, but simply because they have no use for supplies beyond the very small quantity handled. Still the gain of last week is very well preserved, as the quantity of stock coming to hand has been moderate and manufacturers appear quite able to curtail shipments for the time being at all events. Down to the present writing there are still some yards at which production is continued, exactly why at present prices and conditions of trade is not very clear, but to a large extent the season along the Hudson is about over and manufacturers are, on the whole, no doubt glad of it. Front brick are also dull and nominally unchanged in value.

GLASS.—There has really been no improvement in the demand for window glass. Actual consumption is small and dealers cannot trust themselves to take in anything like the ordinary amount of supplies even though the extended postponement of the time for firing up indicates the probability of a short production. Manufacturers meanwhile have been much disturbed by the poor condition of trade, the universal feeling of distrust growing out of laggard legislation on financial matters and certain misgivings in regard to the question of a reduction in import duties. The workmen also seem to appreciate the chances against them, and it is reported from Pittsburgh that at a meeting of the Wage Committee of the Window Glass Workers' Association a clause was inserted in the agreement to be signed by the manufacturers to the effect that if there is any change in the tariff wages will be reduced in proportion. The change, it is provided, will be made sixty days after the date the new tariff bill takes effect. A significant feature of the situation was developed on Thursday at Chicago when a meeting of the American Window Glass Trust resolved to make an open market for an indefinite period. The President of the Trust is reported as saying: "There is no demand for glass; we cannot create trade, and in the face of the light demand there is no necessity to maintain prices, so we have made an open market. No limitation is set to the agreement. The open market does not mean a dissolution of the national association. With a free fight and no favors the members expect to keep some trade going until a general resumption of building trade over the country." With all due respect to official utterance this action seems to show a practical disintegration of the combine, and a go-as-you-please market out of which the consumer will reap all advantages. For the present quotations are entirely nominal.

LATH.—To preserve the regular order of weekly record, we quote the market. It is simply nominally unchanged. Some arrivals came along and by careful handling were placed at $2, but receivers frankly admit they had all the stock needed and are hopeful that no larger amount will come in upon them. Consumption is limited and most dealers have about all the stock they want to carry at the moment, and there is no special hope for trade with outside localities.

LIME.—It remains the same old cut and dried market. The "combine" down East says stock must be sold at old rates, and receivers have nothing to do in the matter except skirmish around among dealers and place as much stuff as possible and make arrangements for carrying the surplus. The arrivals come along irregularly, but it is claimed that no more shipments are being made for this market. Dealers have no great stock on hand, but consumption is exceedingly slow and unpromising.

LUMBER.—The natural comparison of trade conditions is with seasons, and placing the present state of affairs against those prevailing one year ago, matters are most decidedly dull and unsatisfactory. Manufacturers, dealers and exporters are all confronted by an indifferent line of custom that discourages ordinary investments, and the quantity and assortment of stock handled shows that a very close gauge has been taken of probable actual necessities; and beyond that line it is a waste of energy to reason with buyers upon the propriety of investing. Bulk lots of stock are being handled all the while, but very much below the average as to quantity, and such direct call as may naturally develop is directed principally toward the coarser descriptions of thoroughly staple stock, and cost remains a matter of very great uncertainty. It is not uncommon to hear claims for figures obtained full up to rates for some time quoted, but in such cases pretty generally understood that the seller also obtains the promise to pay of customers and accepts such an arrangement with the understanding that renewals will be granted if positively insisted upon at maturing of paper, but on short time limits where no extensions are likely to be called for or cash is forthcoming the favors on price are quite liberal. Quotations as matters stand are practically useless, and all figures for the time being should be looked upon as nominal. Arrivals on contract continue and gradually add to local accumulation of stock, but the quantity on hand is still far from what can be considered full in any of the standard descriptions of lumber.

Indeed our dealers in a great number of cases are probably going into the winter with a smaller supply than they ever carried before and with any revival of trade with consumers into normal conditions would at once present the problem as to how it could be met. It is bound to come, too, some day and that is likely to prove the advantageous period for those dealers whose foresight, backed by a plethoric bank account, has led them to improve the opportunities for picking up and storing away cheap lots of stuff made available under the influences of the past few months. Advices from nearly all primal points indicate weak markets and dissatisfied operators.

Besides the poor consuming demand there is also an unpromising outlook for export deals. The state of affairs in South America practically shuts up that outlet for the time being, and aside from a little African trade there is poor chance in that direction, while of late the call from West Indies has shown a diminution as compared with the not over liberal demand previously prevailing. Lumber and cost to suit the foreign markets are available, but the orders do not come.

A noteworthy event of recent date is the arrival of a couple of cargoes, about 500,000 feet in all, of Oregon Pine, with a corresponding quantity supposed to be close at hand. It comes for regular trade purposes, and embraces a good general assortment from squares up to plank, and contains stock 48 inches wide in the clear. Valuation is a little uncertain as yet, but will, of course, have to be fixed to attract attention and meet competition with such Eastern producers as it may compete. If this class of lumber can be brought around at a profit when the market is in its present condition it may prove an important factor when times are better.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Argus as follows on the Albany market:

The situation shows little change, there being some movement of pine in small lots at apparently steady prices. There is a fine assortment here. Some pine consigned to Albany houses was on the lakes in the big blow of Saturday and anxiety is felt concerning it. Freights from Bay City to Tonawanda have advanced to $1.75, the same figure which rules on the canal. More spruce is moving now, but prices show concessions on former figures. Shingles and hard woods are unchanged.

THE EAST.

The report of Surveyor-General Grossman, at Bangor, Maine, for the the first nine months of 1893 shows a large falling off in the amount of lumber handled thus far this year as compared with the output during the corresponding periods of 1892 and 1891. It is follows:

	1891.	1892.	1893.
Dry pine.....	11,030,051	13,633,861	11,905,597
Green pine..	3,837,109	3,438,881	2,799,908
Spruce.....	91,949,693	78,856,931	56,700,089
Hemlock, etc	17,753,970	21,360 967	20,259,279
Totals.....	124,571,123	117,290,643	91,664,873

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman says of the Chicago market:

Receipts were heavier this week than at any like period since midsummer.

The demand for piece stuff and small timbers is the most pronounced feature of the market. There has recently been a somewhat better feeling in regard to inch lumber, however, and such as has arrived has been disposed of without much delay.

The basis for piece stuff values is still $10 to $10.50 for short lengths, the last-named price applying to lumber that is sweetened with a moderate percentage of long lengths, or runs strong to short 2x12, 2x4, or something that the buyer is anxious to get hold of.

Some cargoes of long and short together, with the long of large percentage and desirable sizes, are sold at $11 a thousand.

It is now a question as to whether prices of dimension will go any higher this fall. The yard men say that they cannot pay higher than present prices for piece stuff. The mill operators, it is claimed, are fairly well satisfied with current prices, and will let the stuff come forward if they do not fall back. Thus it is probable that the market will drift along about as at present until the close

A committee of yard dealers revised the price list, which had not been changed since February 7th. Of course the old list was much higher than present selling prices. Hence the figures were scaled down. The changes were as follows: Thick clears and selects were reduced $1 to $2 a thousand; one inch finishing, the same; flooring strips, $1; dressed and matched flooring, $1 to $2; siding, 50 cents to $1.50; ceiling, 50 cents to $1; common and cull boards, $1; common and cull fencing, $1 to $1.50; timber joist and scantling, $1, and lath, 25 cents.

There has been no appreciable increase in the demand for poplar, and although prices are maintained by the larger manufacturers, as a rule, cash buyers have little trouble in obtaining concessions on odd lots here and there. But if prices are a trifle weak now it is only a temporary condition. The supply of lumber in sight, both good and common, would prove wholly inadequate to the demands of an ordinary trade, and practically no preparations are being made to secure logs for next season's cut; consequently a short supply of lumber may be expected all through next year, and the manufacturer who holds his stock until demand begins to revive, will undoubtedly be able to dispose of it at a considerable advance in price. Those who can afford to carry their lumber see this, and therefore decline all orders, except at the full association figures.

NAILS.—It is an irregular market. Some operators say wire nails are almost entirely neglected, some make the same claim for cut, and both statements are flatly contradicted, but no one claims any decided activity or even a business up to the natural average for the season. Offerings have been quite equal to the calls made and former rates accepted. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.35 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.35@1.40 for car lots, and $1.60@1.75 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC. It seems to be much the same old story regarding the general condition of trade. At times quite a respectable run of orders can be booked, and then matters will become dull again, buyers merely coming upon the market through force of necessity, and taking only enough stock to carry them over the wants of the moment. The call is principally for thoroughly staple selections of stock, everything in the way of fancy goods meeting with neglect. Prices are called steady because there is no change in quotations, but in reality there is a great deal of irregularity on account of quiet special trades. White Lead as usual gets the brunt of suspicion, and stories of rate cutting by the combine are numerous. There is no doubt that outside makes have been sold at figures considerably off, and the best of reason for supposing that the association brands have also by some arrangement been put into hands of customers at modified cost, although regular agents deny all such stories. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6⅝c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6½c.; kegs. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil is not meeting with quite the volume of demand expected for this season of the year, and operators indulge in complaint over the condition of the market. Competition, however, has not proven particularly aggressive, and prices are held in a fairly steady position all around. We quote on general range at 40@42c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine continues only moderately active, yet comparatively small accumulations here and well-sustained primal markets, give the position considerable general firmness at some advance over last week. We quote at 29@30c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

A bill has just been introduced in the House of Representatives (by request), affecting the manufacture and sale of cheap white lead or zinc white, either in a dry or liquid state. The bill provides that the Government shall employ an analytical chemist and two assistants to detect any adulteration of the foregoing articles or any misrepresentation by label, and provides fines and periods of imprisonment for violations of the law.

A representative local dealer, commenting upon the above, said:

"I think this bill is as useless as it is long, and it looks like a cut and dried affair to put another office in the hands of the national politicians. I will admit that the government is perfectly right in making laws to protect life and property, but when it comes down to a matter such as white lead or linseed oil it appears foolish. We have courts in all our cities, and if a man is swindled he can bring suit and recover his money. But to have a sample of every grade and consistency of white lead and oil sent to a government chemist would prove too tedious. It would be foolish to destroy the large business in cheap paints, because they are essential, and in fact as legitimate as the most costly, and when a man pays a low price he surely does not expect to get a superior article. There are tons of cheap white lead and oil used on old buildings and houses put up on speculation, and the signs along our great railway systems use up a great many tons of the cheapest colors, and if a man buys a cheap article he only gets a substitute for a better one, and so it is in every other business."

TAR AND PITCH.—Business has undergone more or less fluctuation, but rarely reached a point of animation, and the market developed no really new features. Offerings were ample for all the calls made, and holders generally appeared satisfied when they obtained former rates. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of handling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and altogether it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

AN IMPORTANT CONSOLIDATION.

The announcement which we print immediately following this is an announcement which appears this week in our contemporary "The Review and Record"—the real estate journal of our sister city, Brooklyn. What is said therein covers the entire matter. It remains for us only to point out the very obvious fact, viz.: that the new consolidation is one which will immensely benefit our readers as it will extend the field we cover for them so that it will include Long Island. THE RECORD AND GUIDE thus becomes the great real estate journal of "Greater New York," and the adjacent counties of Long Island and New Jersey. Our advertisers also will receive important benefits from the change, without extra cost. The consolidation has added several thousand additional readers to our paper, and puts our patrons in complete touch with an enlarged market wherein the real estate transactions and building operations are greater than within any equal area on the face of the globe.

To Our Readers.

(From The Review and Record, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

This number will be the last issue of THE REVIEW AND RECORD in its present form. Another stage in the development of this journal has been completed, and now, in the interest of its readers (at present more numerous than ever), further progress has to be made. The question the management of THE REVIEW AND RECORD has had to decide is the particular form which the needed improvement should take.

Only those who have closely followed the course of events in the Brooklyn real estate market and in the Building and allied trades during the past ten years have any sufficient idea of how rapidly those interests have grown; and only those who are familiar with the labor involved in newspaper making can rightly estimate what the task has been of maintaining pace with these interests—keeping touch, as it were, at all points with the accumulated multitude of facts which have arisen from the process of development.

The first indication of the importance of the real estate market in any place is the appearance of a journal devoted to its interests. The newspaper indicates the fact that realty has become a general commodity, one passing in considerable volume from hand to hand and fluctuating in value more or less with each transaction. When these conditions prevail a journal of record is a matter of prime necessity. It becomes what a market or exchange is for dealers in other commodities—the centre where values are announced and the scattered influences which affect prices and which no individual singly could track or discover for himself come publicly to the surface.

It is ten years since Brooklyn real estate attained the condition which demanded the existence of an established, reputable newspaper. THE REVIEW AND RECORD then made its first appearance. As our readers will remember, the new comer was but a modest, though well-intentioned auxiliary to those interested in real estate, and, though it attained but a measure of support which could not be regarded as extravagant, it was at least sufficient to guarantee the permanence of the enterprise. This was the first stage. That the paper advanced beyond it after a time was due to the fact that the interests that THE REVIEW AND RECORD was established to serve developed so rapidly. Population in Brooklyn increased at a rate only equaled by one or two of the metropolitan centres of this country. The extent of the expansion of the city was astonishing, and the building industries assumed proportions only exceeded in New York and Chicago. Naturally in all this growth real estate shared largely, and upon the journal of that trade fell more and more exacting requirements. In 1888, to meet the larger demands of its readers, the entire foundations of THE REVIEW AND RECORD were broadened and more firmly established. The paper was increased in size, new departments were added and the staff reinforced so that a wider field might be covered and the work done in the departments already occupied more rigorously performed. The result of this extension was satisfactory in every way. A better paper was produced and a larger patronage secured. The growth of the journal since then in authority and influence has been obvious and it gives us pleasure to say freely acknowledged.

But Brooklyn has not been standing still since 1888. The real estate field has been widened enormously in the intervening period. Transactions have multiplied greatly. Annexation has gone at a great pace. New wards have been added to the city; and, now, even the "Greater New York" scheme has attained a status among the reasonable possibilities of the future. Accompanying this growth there has been development. The office building, the mammoth store, costly residences, immense apartment houses and palatial hotels have been introduced into this city so that Brooklyn has ceased to be "local," and as a consequence we find its real estate dealt in freely in New York and elsewhere, as in a sense a national asset and form of investment. It has been apparent to the management of THE REVIEW AND RECORD for some time past that to keep pace with the necessities of the interests it serves, to be prepared for the future, ready to meet it half way, it is imperative that the foundations of the newspaper should again be broadened—this time for a structure of no mean proportions. Consolidation and concentration of capital and enterprise is the line along which advance is now to be made under prevalent conditions in the business world. Therefore, in considering the possibilities open to us for expanding the scope of the paper and placing it upon the very highest plane there was one plan which, viewed from all sides, offered the most signal advantages, for our readers, for Brooklyn real estate, and for all concerned. That was consolidation with the real estate journal of New York City—The Record and Guide. With that paper, with its long experience of over a quarter of a century, its abundant capital, its high authority and reliability, working in co-operation with ourselves, we felt that the best interests of Brooklyn real estate would be permanently secured so far as they are dependent upon a newspaper. Our plan received not only a very hearty but a very liberal acquiescence from The Record and Guide and as the outcome of negotiations it has been arranged that henceforth the two papers shall be published as one. The entire staff of this paper has been taken over to the new enterprise and our readers will be supplied in the future with what will really be a very much enlarged REVIEW AND RECORD, but bearing the title of the older journal—The Record and Guide. It will contain not only all the matter which has hitherto been published in THE REVIEW AND RECORD, but all the matter which usually appears in The Record and Guide. We have arranged that this immense increase in value given shall not cost our readers a single additional cent. The annual subscription and the cost of single copies will remain precisely what they are to-day and all contracts of all kinds now running will be assumed and carried out by the consolidated concern. The change in short is, so far as our readers are concerned, merely a nominal one with this difference, that there will be an enormous increase in the service performed for them. They will receive without extra cost not only all the news of Brooklyn and Long Island, but all the news, transfers and other records of New York, Westchester County and all the eastern counties of New Jersey. The entire metropolitan area will be covered, and at a cost to our readers which will make their journal out of all comparison the very cheapest in the world. As for our advertisers, they will obtain for their announcements an immensely wider field. Their cards will henceforth reach not only the Long Island field, but the entire of New York and New Jersey and everywhere where people are interested in the real estate of the Metropolitan area.

Our Building Exhibit, which has become one of the most useful and flourishing institutions in Brooklyn, will be retained as it is, strengthened by the greater support which it will receive from the consolidated concern. The old offices will also remain as they are, where we shall always be glad to see our old friends and the many new friends which we feel sure the change we have made will bring to us.

THE satisfaction of the public in finding that its wishes for unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act has at last penetrated the minds of the powers at Washington is seen in the improvement of business and the sharp rise in the values of investments of all classes, as well as in the more cheerful aspect of the people in the last few days. The means by which the sudden change from mongrel compromise to the only reasonable and satisfactory remedy was brought about may never be known, interesting though the information would be, but the result is the great thing. So far no one can cavil at the extent of its influence nor of the direction of that influence. Wall street naturally feels the first effects of such a change as that that has been brought about in the financial conditions this week. A movement in stocks and bonds always offers the readiest use for the immense amounts of money that may at any time have been piling up in the banks as a consequence of stagnation in business generally. This use of money will continue until outside trade is in a position to renew or extend operations, by which time investment and speculative securities will be very much higher than they are now and most probably ready for the reaction that will follow the withdrawal of money into commerce. Such is the scientific or routine movement of money. There are many classes of business which cannot start up in the winter, but merchants in the main have been holding back orders until a settlement of the currency question was achieved, and as a consequence mills and manufactories have been idle for many months. It is natural to expect that merchants will begin to stock up now, and so great has been the economy displayed all over the country, that it is also not too much to expect that in the course of sixty days the mills and manufactories will be running night and day in order to complete orders. When the bill for unconditional repeal receives the signature of the President, the financial condition of the country will be better than it has been, not merely since the passage of the Silver Act of 1890, but since the passage of the Bland law, because the former only aggravated the evils of the latter. It is not, therefore, unreasonable to look for a long period of national prosperity. Of course there are always some dark spots in the prospect. The condition of affairs in India and the East may affect us through London. The Treasury deficiency has to be provided for in some way, and the prospect of tariff legislation, distant though it is, may create disturbance here and there. The winter now imminent will bring suffering in many places, particularly in the silver mining States, which it is to be hoped will be generously met by the effort of the whole nation. But these things notwithstanding, it must be admitted that the commercial outlook is most gratifying.

WHEN news was received that the Silver men had decided to strike their colors and yield to the majority, the entire country was taken by surprise. It was not quite clear to everybody why the silverites had determined to give up the fight at a moment when their position was as strong as it had ever been and when they were under no heavier fire than they had withstood from the beginning. In accounting for the change, the newspapers talked as though there had been all along something of a false show of strength about the attitude of the silver Senators and that the recent sudden collapse was merely the revelation of their weakness. This account is not entirely satisfactory. It has seemed to us from the first that the Democrats could have settled the controversy at any moment if they had really put forth their power, and had been posessed of a united determination to pass repeal. However, they have not been a united body, and it was a more convenient policy for them to let affairs dawdle along to some sort of a crisis than to act peremptorily and with decision. What has frightened the party into action is the approach of election. They became afraid of their record; they anticipated that they would be charged with incompetency and pusillanimity, and to avoid this dangerous censure it was found necessary to pull the party together for the sake of the party, and proceed with real determination to act at once. When this was known, the silver men recognized that their choice lay between repeal and the summary amendment of the rules of the Senate. They chose the former, and apparently the question of Repeal is settled.

THE Silver men certainly are right in agreeing that if there is to be repeal it shall be repeal out and out. Indeed, the tenacity with which they have stuck to obstruction when, from the very first, their fight was a hopeless one, does more credit to their obstinacy than to their political sagacity. They have asserted over and over again that the present depression has not been produced by the Sherman Law. That is saying too much. But we certainly do think that the Sherman law is not entirely responsible for the financial stringency which the country has suffered. There was something wrong in our condition besides "silver;" our business condition was weak in places and, like a damaged axle, all that was needed was a slight obstacle in the way, a little heavier jolt than ordinary for the vehicle to be brought to a sudden stop. With history before the Silverites clearly showing that recovery from deep financial depression is always slow and never moves by leaps and bounds the wisest policy for them to follow would have been to promptly pass the repeal bill, having first warned the country that the notion that silver was wholly responsible for bad times was erroneous and would be proved so by experience—that repeal would not be found to restore prosperity. Their predictions would have been verified by events and much of what has been said by the monometallists would have been contradicted. In insisting now that repeal shall be complete, the Silver men are undoubtedly adopting these tactics, but in our judgment they have commenced the game too late. The country has recovered more lost ground than is popularly supposed. Better times are close at hand, and there will be no opportunity to show people that their troubles were not due in so large a measure as they were assured to the Sherman law and to Silver.

The Chief Result of the World's Fair.

WITH an enterprise so vast and multiplex as the one the world has been inspecting during the last six months in Chicago, it is essential for judgment to tarry if judgment is to be sure. Half a year has not been too long a period to appraise so vast an undertaking, and now, as the gates of the Exposition are permanently closing, there is that which lingers behind even the slow feet of the last departing visitor—the verdict of the thoughtful as to what is the chiefest and fruitfulest result of so stupendous an effort of national enterprise, perhaps it is presumptuous and churlish not to say, international enterprise.

The World's Fair has been an advertisement of extraordinary value to Chicago and also an impressive object lesson to all people of the wealth, the enterprise and, in a way, the inherent possibilities of these United States. For, the great White City, fairylike as its aspect is, transient as its purpose declares it to be, is undoubtedly instinct with one impression beyond all others --that of power. Toy that it is in great measure, it is nevertheless giantesque, as though the fingers that created it are as the hands of others. The Fair has been also a marvelously efficient centre for the dissemination of mercantile information, particularly as to the contents of the domestic market. It has been a Nijii Novgorod on a large scale for our merchants, and, even in these days of irrepressible drumming and blatant advertising, there can be little doubt that this country will offer a wider market to our manufacturers than ever it has, because of the things our people have seen in Chicago.

But not by these or similar considerations does any one care to estimate the importance of the World's Fair as a fact in our national history. The demand is for a judgment upon wider grounds. People desire to know how (if at all) the Fair is likely to affect our civilization in its higher manifestations. Or, if speaking of the multitude, we may not place popular curiosity upon quite so exalted a plane, we may say at least that the general inquiry is: In what high particular has the Fair been most creditable to national reputation. It happens in this instance that both questions touch the same matter.

The unanimous verdict is that the most notable aspect of the Exposition is its architectural aspect. The exterior of the buildings in Jackson Park has proved to be of such attractiveness and interest that, putting aside individual experience, the attention of the Nation and the world at large has barely penetrated beyond the portals of a single edifice. The consensus of opinion is that the chief significance of the Fair is to be found in the impression which its architecture has made upon our people and in the beneficial influence which it is expected this impression it will yet exert upon the outward character of our buildings.

We may admit at once the correctness of the statement that our people have received a very decided impression from the architecture of the White City, but it is open to grave doubt whether the influences of that impression will be beneficial. Undoubtedly the result such as it is is not to be lightly valued, for it can scarcely be said that with us architecture has received popular recognition as an important force in civilization—as something capable of qualifying our daily surroundings with attributes of permanent interest. The Fair has undoubtedly been a convincing demonstration to the vulgar mind that architecture is something more than an esoteric plaything. The Western mind particularly will show itself to be very much slower than we believe it is if after an object lesson like the World's Fair it does not henceforth regard architecture as an agent of great practical value in the conversion of prairie acres into county seats and booming towns. Architecture will be in far more active demand than ever before in this country because of the Exposition, but it is in this hard, practical reading of the most pronounced artistic triumph of the World's Fair that as, we believe, the Columbian Exposition is fated to produce so evil after-effects. For the results will be evil. The probabilities are that architectural progress in this country will be put back ten years. A decade is not too long a period to set as the time our architects will require to emancipate themselves from the false standard and the false taste made current by the Exposition.

This calamitous result does not arise from the fact that the Fair buildings are in themselves the products of a false standard or examples of bad taste. Quite the contrary. The buildings in Jackson Park deserve upon the whole the unstinted praise that has been bestowed upon them. It has been perhaps slightly extravagant, somewhat lacking in qualification or reservation, a trifle copious like an article only dealt in in wholesale. The occasion, however, has been one of festivity when even the critic has felt that too discriminating candor would be churlish and discordant. But—and this is where the danger lies—the very qualities of the architectural display in Jackson Park which have captured the multitude so readily and won over the critics so easily are those of all others which as it were will not bear "removing" to the prosy energetic surroundings of our towns and cities. The World's Fair buildings are essentially theatric; they form a stupendous scenic picture, none the less a stage setting because they possess some permanence and are realistic enough to be habitable. This scenic quality is legitimate and even commendable in what is after all but a play with an assured "run" of half a year; but there is very little of the serious spirit of architecture about it. To reproduce the Administration Building as a city hall, the Liberal Arts Building as a railroad station, or the Fisheries Building as an auditorium would be analogous to making stage "properties" do service in actual daily affairs. That something of the sort will be attempted, none deeply familiar with the dauntless and assimilative character of our "art-chitects'" minds can doubt. The World's Fair will be set up in pieces to suit the needs of individual customers in scores of cities, and the result will be piously regarded as art and as a beneficent outcome of what the great Exposition of 1893 did for the higher education of the people.

A CORRESPONDENT inquires whether we "object to the New York and New Jersey Bridge bill now, in its amended form?" The amendments referred to are, we suppose, the requirements lately interpolated into the bill at Washington—that the company seeking of Congress permission to build the bridge shall undertake to expend upon the structure certain sums within certain periods and shall wholly complete the enterprise within ten years. Under conditions of this nature, we can see no good reason for any very strenuous opposition to the bridge. True, the project is, in our judgment, as chimerical and widely imaginative as ever, but hallucinations of this particular sort can be dispelled most easily and effectively by the demand for cash down. Unless there is a possibility of some legal hocus-pocus as to the terms of the charter or of future legislative "consideration" the termination of the first period wherein $100,000 is to be spent will be the termination of the franchise. It may be of course that it is easier to exclude in the beginning a hypothetical and merely contingent enterprise like this bridge than to kick it out later on, having once admitted it, when it is found to be a speculative and unsubstantial scheme. Still if the company can be made to live up to the new conditions as we learn them from Washington, its life will be a short one.

The Profits of Tenement Property

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Allow me to thank you for your very clear and forcible editorial in to-day's issue regarding the so-called "enormous profits" of tenement house property. Your statements, I believe, will be found to agree with the experience of real estate agents throughout the city.

64 Cedar street, October 21, 1893. ALFRED E. MARLING.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Your journal is doing good service in exposing the untrue and misleading statements recently made by a Mr. Peters regarding tenement house investments. It is certainly unfortunate that any pulpit should be occupied by one who would use it as a stand from which to make reckless and sensational allegations.

Any one familiar with real estate values and rentals in this city can not help feeling a deep sense of regret that the absurd statements made by Mr. Peters should have found notoriety by being spoken from a pulpit. Coming from any other source and printed in a reputable paper circulating among intelligent men such statements would have been passed either as evidence of the profound ignorance of the writer or his reckless disregard for truth.

Scientific Street Car Traction.

PROGRESS AGAINST PREJUDICE—AN INQUIRY INTO THE FACTS REGARDING THE TROLLEY ELECTRIC ROADS—ARE THEY FEASIBLE FOR THE STREETS OF THIS CITY?

New York is not so helpless in the matter of rapid transit as the impotency of political treatment of the question would imply. A glance over the achievements of the last year, not only in New York, but in Brooklyn and in the New Jersey suburbs, shows that there are ways to relief that have not yet been considered. What has been done points like a signboard the direction to a larger measure of relief from the existing distressful conditions than has yet been dreamed of. It should make no real difference to the practical man whose influence and voice will finally control in this matter, that he will have to set aside some of his prejudices in considering it, especially if it can be shown that his prejudices have been conceived in error.

Too often, in the consideration of the rapid transit question, it has been assumed that the city was dependent upon the elevated railroad company for "immediate relief," and upon some Utopian scheme of private capital, or upon the interposition of the city for the larger provision, to bring which into operation will require years, while the simpler and more direct means of relief have been overlooked or condemned without consideration. That the city has suffered seriously by this course is now plainly apparent. Newspaper clamor is clearly responsible for the prejudice that has stood in the way of progress in this city, and it is no satisfaction to realize now, that as usual, that clamor was born of ignorance and falsehood. Even to-day there will doubtless be found a considerable number whose prejudices are so deeply rooted that they can only be removed by a surgical operation.

Mechanical traction for all the existing surface railroads in our streets is the only price necessary to be paid for a scientific improvement in our transit systems. There is no reasonable excuse for a month's further endurance of the primitive, noisome, poky horse cars. They are out of date. Science has furnished two first-class substitutes—the cable and the trolley—the latter the cheapest and best. A year ago this conclusion could have been disputed with some reason, because the trolley railroad was an unknown quantity in New York, and because the mystery that veiled electric power was popularly supposed to conceal a demon. Now, however, the person or paper that seeks to continue the prejudice against the trolley system of electric traction faces inevitable confusion and defeat. The trolley has obtained a foothold; it has come to stay; it has demonstrated its vast, its scientific superiority over the horse car and the steam car and the cable car for street traffic, and its further progress can be only temporarily stayed. To those who are able to read aright the signs of the times, its progress is justified by every consideration of economy, hygiene, appearance and practical results. If there were a better system its progress might be, probably would be, stayed; since it is the best, its universal adoption is inevitable.

Within the last year the old "Huckleberry Road," on the North Side, has been transfigured by its conversion to the trolley system. The change was opposed by every influence which greedy opposition and a sensational press could bring to bear. Now the people, who are the chief beneficiaries, would not countenance a return to the miserable horse car system formerly in vogue under any consideration. Perhaps the source of much of the newspaper and "popular" opposition to the introduction of the trolley may be inferred, when the fact is learned that since its introduction travel on the Suburban Elevated road and on the Harlem branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. has decreased over 60 per cent. The lines of the Union Company in the 23d and 24th Wards converge at the Harlem, or 3d avenue bridge. They extend now through 3d avenue, from 129th street to Pelham avenue, or Fordham; through the Boston road, from 3d avenue to West Farms, with a branch line to the Morris Park race track, for use on race days; through Westchester avenue to the Southern Boulevard; through the Southern Boulevard, Lincoln avenue and 138th street to Port Morris.

The company's franchise also authorizes the construction of their lines through Westchester avenue to Westchester Village and through Boston avenue also to Westchester Village, the two lines forming a loop when completed; through the Southern Boulevard, from end to end; through Jerome avenue, from end to end; through Sedgwick avenue to Van Courtlandt Park; through Willis, Melrose and Webster avenues; through St. Ann's avenue; through Morris avenue; through Mott avenue; through Tremont and Burnside avenues across town, and through Pelham, Highbridge and Fordham avenues—all on the North Side. The company have only been prevented from building these lines by the fact that the streets have not yet been graded. It was their intention to build in Jerome avenue last year, but that avenue has been in the hands of sewer contractors ever since and the construction of the trolley has thus been prevented. They expect now to begin the construction of the Southern Boulevard line the first thing in the spring and will follow with the others as fast as the streets are graded. South of the Harlem River the company have obtained the right to construct lines from 129th street and 3d avenue to 125th street, to 4th avenue, to 130th street, to Madison avenue, to and across Madison avenue bridge; also through Exterior street, from the easterly end to 7th avenue bridge; also through 135th street, from Madison to 8th avenue.

A trip over the existing lines of the Union Railway Company would be a valuable object-lesson to the residents of Manhattan Island. A large number of them, principally from among our German people, have become acquainted with them, through their Sunday outings in Bronx and Crotona Parks, but the great majority of New York City people know nothing of the North Side trolley roads except what they have learned from the prejudiced daily press. It is certain that if they would make a personal inspection of the lines they would not only be greatly instructed but greatly pleased by the experience.

Some of the improvements that will strike the most casual observer will be the vastly superior appearance of the cars, the easy, steady riding, the greater speed, the perfect cleanliness, the absence of stable odors and the subjugation of the rowdy element.

The Broadway Cable Road, but for its organic imperfections, would most fully answer all these improvements. A comparison of the present roomy, light, clean, easy moving cars with the former horse cars, shows how great has been the change. If now the cable could always be relied on—if it did not have a bad habit of breaking or tangling with a grip and running amuck through the crowded thoroughfare with a wild car—and if it could be stopped on its wild career around Union square and Madison square curves, when human life was in its way, it would be voted the perfection of street transit for a thronged metropolis. The cable system, also, from the company's standpoint and from the general economic standpoint is objectionable because of its great cost. The plant requires a larger investment than any other system, and while its capacity is far greater than the horse car system, it is no greater than, if as large as the trolley system. For any other street than Broadway, the trolley road would be its superior in every respect.

It is only because of the overhead trolley wires and their necessary carrying poles that the cable is to be preferred for Broadway. Even here there is room for improvement by the substitution of the underground trolley for the cable. But the practicability of the underground trolley is still disputed, and for economical reasons alone is less desirable than the overhead trolley. The prejudice against the overhead trolley has almost entirely disappeared from among the people who have had actual experience with it. Its first year's experience in New York has unfortunately fallen in a period of financial depression, during which travel in general has been greatly reduced, but notwithstanding this, the trolley roads have carried more than twice as many passengers as the horse cars they superseded, and has carried them faster, more comfortably and in cleaner cars.

In an interview with Secretary Thos. W. Olcott, of the Union Railway Company, that gentleman said: "Where our lines have been introduced the people are delighted with them. They would not have the horse-car system back under any consideration. Since they have had actual demonstration of the operation of the lines they have learned to treat the lies about the dangers of the trolley wire as they deserve. The simple fact about the trolley wire and its electric current is this: The wire is a small one, as compared with the electric arc-light wires, and the amperage is therefore smaller in proportion, the current is driven with the force of only 500 volts, as compared with from 1,200 to 1,800 volts in the arc-light wires; the trolley wires are as securely strung in our system as it is possible to make them, but if, by any accident, one of them should fall and hit a person on any exposed part of his anatomy, it would give him a severe shock, such as from a hard blow from a fist, or from walking against an open door in the dark. But while it might send him staggering a few yards, it would not seriously injure him, if he were an ordinarily healthy man.

"But the chances of such accidents are exceedingly small; they do not equal the chances of injury from unruly horses and bear no comparison to the dangers arising from careless driving of horses in all kinds of vehicles. We have had no accidents attributable to the trolley wire. The only occasion for complaint against the trolley railroads is furnished by the reckless manner in which the cars are handled by the motormen sometimes. We have heard no general complaint of this kind about our lines—the illustration is furnished by the Brooklyn companies. The manner in which the cars are driven over in Brooklyn sometimes is enough to make the hair rise on one's head. Our company have instituted a perfect and rigid system in the selection of our motormen, the aim of which is to secure the best possible class of men for that service. We do not require that they shall be men of classical education, nor graduates in electrical engineering; what we do require is, first, conformity to a standard of physical perfection—they must be large and strong men, in good health and with good eyesight; we require also that they shall be men of steady habits—drunkenness is not tolerated among them at all; but since we are able to secure men who respect themselves we have no cause for complaint in this direction. When a man answers these requirements we put him under a tutor—a skilled operator—for instruction. He is required to familiarize himself with the operation of the car and with every switch, curve, grade and crossing of every line of the road. If the tutor reports that he is slow, or negligent, or daring, he is not accepted. By this system we have succeeded in securing a good class of motormen. Yes; they rank considerably above the average of horse car drivers, although many of our motormen were formerly drivers on the horse cars; but they are the choice of that body and had earned their new positions by faithful service

"An analysis of the accidents on trolley railroads will show that nearly all of them are attributable to reckless running of the cars, or to the foolish daring of people—mostly children and drunken men—in the streets. But even with the increased speed of the trolley cars, comparing them mile for mile of travel, and passenger for passenger carried, with the horse-car systems, there has been a proportionate increase in the number of accidents. The press has been unfair in its manner of reporting these accidents; if a horse car kills a man or woman the briefest possible report is published, and without adverse comment, but if a man is injured by contact with a trolley car the fact is exploited as a sensation, with big headlines, and is charged, right or wrong, to the 'deadly trolley.'

"The effect on property? Well, I haven't given that question very much thought. But it must have been generally beneficial. I know that last year a man owning a tract of land out near Van Nest tried to sell it in lots at auction and made a failure of it. This year, after our trolley road had been constructed through to Westchester, two blocks distant from his property, he had another auction. He advertised the fact that the trolley road ran within two blocks of the property and had a big tent on the ground and a free lunch and made arrangements with us to run special cars on the day of the sale—to handle the unusual crowd—and the sale was a success. He said to us that he realized 30 per cent more for his property than he had expected to. No, where the trolley road is properly managed, and the cars are run with proper regard for the safety of pedestrians, it makes the best possible system of street transit. It would be the best system that could be devised for the Boulevard or Amsterdam avenue, or any of the cross-town roads, and is absolutely without objection under existing elevated railroads, as, for instance, in 3d and 2d avenues and 6th and Columbus and 8th avenues. The Boulevard would be one of the most popular lines for it is a wide street, and branching poles of ornamental design could be placed in the little parkways—yes, supporting electric lights at the same time—and the branches could extend right over the tracks which run close to the middle parkways. Could the elevated railroads be operated by the trolley system? Undoubtedly. Yes, I believe at far less expense than by the present dummy engine system. The conductor rail could be placed between the tracks, instead of overhead. No, there would be no trouble about insulation. Why don't the Manhattan Company change to the trolley system? Better ask them. Perhaps its because they have so much invested in engines and passenger cars that they would find it difficult to dispose of."

Mrs. Agnes Murphy Mulligan, whose up-town real estate office is in Tremont avenue, but two doors from the 3d avenue trolley and suburban elevated railroad, said the trolley had become a great favorite with the people of the North Side. It had almost run the elevated road out of business. "Since the trolley road was built," said Mrs. Mulligan, "the people have given it the preference over the elevated railroad. Where the elevated road used to run three and four car trains during the middle of the day it now runs only one car, and that seldom has more than half a dozen passengers. If the elevated road was continued up to the city limit it would probably have a larger share of the long distance travel, but the local, short-trip traffic, I think it has lost forever. The influence on real estate values has been very beneficial. Your own records show that notwithstanding the financial depression and the almost complete cessation of building in the business districts, we have continued to do some building up here, and I know that but for the panic there would have been much more. All of this, substantially, has been along the lines of the new trolley railroads. No, we have no fears about it at all. Women patronize it as freely, or more so, than the men. Still, I do not approve of the practices of some parents in allowing their children to play around the cars, to dart after them and put sticks under the wheels and all that. When a child is hurt under those circumstances I think it is the fault of the parents rather than the company, and the trolley has nothing to do with it. But it gets all the blame just the same as if the child had been killed by a fallen electric wire."

In Brooklyn there has been a still more complete demonstration of what the trolley system can do to improve transit and develop real estate. The first experiments were on the wretched cobblestone roads that are the curse of Brooklyn. The old horse car tracks were used, also. The result was that the tracks would not stand the strain of the heavier cars. The rails spread, the cars bounced along them worse than the lighter horse cars and the wire would spit out its fireworks every little while, to the great alarm of the uninstructed passengers. Then frequently a car would jump the track and, since the trolley cars are much heavier than the horse cars, it would remain there, an obstruction to traffic, until jackscrews could be obtained and it could be lifted back on the track. But these were incidents only of an experimental stage, which no new enterprise is wholly able to escape. These troubles, too, have been overcome. With the proper pavement of the streets and the reconstruction of the tracks, with new and heavier rails, the trolley roads of Brooklyn have been put in excellent condition. If now their management was what it should be, if the motormen were not allowed to play at cup races with the elevated railroads, the trolley roads in Brooklyn would be as popular as they are in the 23d and 24th Wards.

As it is, a visit to the dry-goods district in Fulton street would be a revelation to the New York real estate owner who has not yet been there. The procession of trolley cars through Fulton street is incessant. They bring a horde to the shopping district every day such as is seldom seen in the most densely-thronged streets of New York City. The reason is that a person can take a trolley car in almost any part of the city, and by the system of transfers in use be transported for a single fare to any other part of the city. The results to Brooklyn have been wonderfully stimulating. The records of her increase in building and population tell the story. All the main street car lines have been converted into electric trolley roads, and but a few property-owners could now be found to counsel a return to the archaic horse car.

Secretary W. H. H. Bogardus, of the Brooklyn City Railroad Co., will hear of no superior to the trolley system of traction. "It is out of sight ahead of any and all other systems of street railroad traction," he said. "The underground trolley is absolutely impracticable. To any one who understands the affinity of the electric current for the earth it is idle to talk about the 'perfect insulation' of an underground conductor. The thing is preposterous. And as for the cable, well, you're getting an experience with it in New York now! They can't stop a car on a curve like that at 14th street without blocking the entire road. Suppose an old lady or a child or a drunken man gets in the way—what do they do then? Yes, if they can they stop the car, but because of the blockade that will result the gripman takes long chances on the person getting out of the way. With us we can stop anywhere. Our men are specially instructed to slow down when going around curves and we can come to a full stop as quick as a cable car on any grade or curve or level track.

"No!" the trolley wire is not dangerous. Its greatest power of evil is 500 volts, and a person has got to come in direct contact with the wire to suffer that, and then all he gets is a knockdown such as he would get by a blow from a fist. The shock will not kill a healthy person. But there is no reason why the person should come in contact with the wire. Our wires are as strongly put up as can be, and the instances where they have fallen are very rare. The accidents that are attributed to the trolley are ninety-nine times in a hundred caused by the carlessness or recklessness of the persons injured. Parents allow their children to act as if the street car tracks were a kindergarten; frail old men and women will persist in jumping off the car when it is in motion, and truck drivers take all the chances there are of getting out of the way without colliding with a car. Why, here the other day, our very honorable Mayor was dumped out of his carriage by one of these brewery wagons and nothing was said of it, but when one of them takes the chance of losing a wheel in collision with a trolley car and misses, the papers charge the fault upon the trolley cars, though the trolley has nothing to do with it.

"I admit that our motormen are not college graduates nor angels. No, they are not a higher grade of men than our former horse car drivers. In fact they were to a large extent former drivers. We do not find that it requires a larger average intelligence to handle the wheels of a trolley motor car than it does to control a team of horses and handle the brake of a horse car. No, the men are not paid any more than they were as drivers. The work is, if anything, less arduous, less difficult than it was and they do not earn any more. They compare very favorably with the men on the Brooklyn police force and we cannot expect more of them. Every week there are numbers of policemen brought up for trial before the Police Commissioners for offenses they are sworn to arrest other persons for committing, and when that is the fact as regards a force of select and disciplined men why should we expect a greater perfection of morals from our force of motormen?

"Yes, the trolley system is rendering the people of Brooklyn a vastly increased and improved service over that of the horse-car system. Our cars are as fine as the workshops can produce. We do not go in much for wood carving and relief ornaments, for that would be hard to keep clean and tidy. Neat, plain surfaces that can be burnished every day and kept bright and clean are the best. We are covering a total average of 59,000 miles of travel every day, and have carried 450,000 passengers in one day—that is our high water mark. And considering the mileage and the number of passengers carried the number of avoidable accidents has decreased. How have we affected travel on the elevated railroads? Well, let them answer that question. They made it the occasion for an appeal, a successful appeal, to the city to remit a large part of their back taxes, and are opposing all our efforts before the Railroad Commissioners to secure improvements in our lines. I believe, too, that we can thank them for the sensational attacks the New York Recorder is making on us every day. That may be an answer to your question. The property-owners? They are all with us. They wouldn't give up the trolley roads for anything. Notwithstanding the bad times, which affect street-car travel as much as they do any business, our traffic has increased over 100 per cent. Yes, the new system has made a traffic of its own. We have had a demonstration of that. On our Flatbush line, where we are practically without opposition, we had no sooner put in our trolley system than the travel more than doubled right off, and it has kept on increasing ever since. Sir, the trolley, the overhead trolley, is the best system of street-car traction that was ever invented and it would be difficult to improve upon it."

The enthusiastic Secretary agreed with Secretary Olcott, of the Union Railway Company, that the elevated roads could undoubtedly be operated by electricity, and at less expense than by steam. As to storage battery and underground trolley systems, however, he was a pronounced skeptic.

To Stimulate Trade.

A MOVEMENT TO REDUCE THE COST OF BUILDING BY REDUCTIONS IN WAGES AND PRICES.

At a regular meeting of the Mason Builders' Association, of this city, held on the 20th inst. at the Building Trades Club, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, The present financial depression spreading through all the trades and commercial industries in this city and vicinity, and in fact throughout the whole nation, has to a large extent frightened capital, or the people with the money to invest, to such an extent that production is necessarily curtailed and many thousand wage-earners thrown out of employment, with a prospect of continuing so for some time before confidence is restored; and

"Whereas, Our trade, which up to this time has been one of the least depressed, as we are, through long contracts, generally the last to feel the depression, still it is always our experience to be the last to recover or revive, which, though it delays, only postpones our loss;

"Now therefore, be it resolved, that it is the sense of this meeting, that this Association begin now to take such steps as in its judgment is best to invite capital to continue in our channel of trade, as being the best and only investment that insures a safe and reliable outlay. To further the end desired, namely, the continuation of capital in our channel of trade, it is in the opinion of this meeting, advisable that employers and employees both should meet the issue by voluntarily reducing prices and wages at least 10 per cent.

"The circulation of such a voluntary action on the part of those interested would certainly attract attention and would exert a powerful influence for the benefit of all.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each kindred body of employers of this city, and also to each of the Bricklayers' and Hod Carriers' Unions, that is at this time affiliated with this body, with a view to bringing about a conference toward the carrying out of the sense and spirits of these resolutions."

The construction of six five-story American basement houses in 89th street, north side, near Riverside Drive, as reported elsewhere in this paper, will fill nearly all the vacant places in that block. Gen. E. L. Viele's house is on the opposite corner on Riverside Drive, and Livingston & Dunn are just about completing seven stately houses directly opposite. This leaves two lots adjoining Gen. Viele's grounds, which are owned by two elderly maiden ladies, who will soon improve them with first-class dwellings, and the northerly Riverside Drive corner, which is restricted to dwellings. The Livingston & Dunn and the City Real Estate Co.'s rows being both of white-stone and buff brick and white terra cotta, will impart a very bright appearance to the block and make it one of the finest along the river front.

ALTERATIONS AT THE ST. CLOUD HOTEL.

The extensive alterations at the St. Cloud Hotel, corner of Broadway and 42d street, included the introduction of new electric light and steam plants, new vaults, new stores on both streets and the redecoration of the interior, all done at a cost of about $50,000. The mason-work and plastering was done by Thos. B. Leahy, of No. 206 West 42d street, who is an expert hand at such work.

END OF THE PLASTERERS' STRIKE.

The sympathetic strike of about 600 workmen on the new buildings of the Postal Telegraph Company and the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association was declared off yesterday and all but plasterers and plasterers' laborers returned to work. The strike was caused by reduction of wages of plasterers' laborers by Calleran Bros., the contractors, from $2.75 to $2.50 a day. At a conference held on Thursday night the contractors agreed to pay $2.75 for five days and $1.37½ for the half-day Saturday. As this was the old rate, it was accepted by the men as satisfactory. The plasterers and plasterers' laborers will return to work to-day.

Trade Notes.

Parkhurst & Carr have removed their studios to the old United Charities Building, at No. 21 University place, northeast corner of 8th street, where they have larger and finer and more easily accessible quarters than in their former 5th avenue location. Both gentlemen are artists of French (Beaux Arts), German and American training, whose work has until recently been chiefly in oil paintings and stained glass. Since they added interior decorations and mural paintings they have been frequently called upon to design and execute complete plans of interior decorations for some of the finest houses in the city. They are competent to undertake the entire overhauling of a house or church, from reconstruction to redecoration.

"THE WHISPERING WELL."

Lovers of the beautiful should not miss the opportunity to see a picture in stained glass, called "The Whispering Well," now on exhibition at Sellers' & Ashley's studios, No. 21 University place. The legend is told in the picture, which is a perfect work of art. A beautiful girl, of the Marguerite type, has drawn her third bucket of water and stands in a listening attitude, to hear what the spirit of the well has to say about her future husband, while over the wall at her back her aspiring young lover is taking advantage of the legend to whisper his own praises in her not unwilling ear.

IMPORTANT CONTRACTS FOR ROOFING, CORNICES, SKYLIGHTS, ETC., EXECUTED BY MESSRS. MACHWIRTH & SMITH.

Messrs. FINE ARTIFICIAL STONE WORK.

The sidewalks, areaways and cellars of the Tipping houses, Nos. 140 to 150 West 76th street (illustrated in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week), are the work of C. Lehmann, of No. 219 West 119th street. Work of this kind plays an important part in the finish of a house, and adds materially to its salable quality. The work on the Tipping houses should be inspected by owners and builders who contemplate having work in that line executed.

The corner building will be divided into a large saloon, the Alabama avenue entrance to the Casino, and three good-sized stores on the ground floor, and apartments on the two upper floors and will have an iron cornice and a flat tin roof, and at the corner a circular tower will rise from the level of the second floor. The inner building, fronting on Fulton avenue, will be the Casino, with bowling alleys in the basement, the stage on the ground floor and galleries on the second and third floor levels, and a hip-roof supported by handsomely-finished wooden trusses. REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The close of the week reveals the real estate market under the mild stimulus of a reviving hope. Some good sales have been effected and others that have been hanging in the balance for weeks are in a fair way of consummation. Still these would be of no special significance in themselves. The fact is that the real estate market has shared with all other lines of business the feeling that better times would come only after the settlement of the silver legislation. When, therefore, the news of the early part of the week from Washington indicated that that [settlement was not far distant, real estate operators in common with other business men began to take a more hopeful view of the future. The direct results of this news were made manifest in an easier condition of the money market, and although Wall Street will absorb the greater part of the offerings for some time, some of the money percolating through the banks and through other channels of business will doubtless find its way in time into real estate investments and mortgages. Loans have been a little less difficult to negotiate already, and now the announcement is made that the Mutual Life Insurance Company, long a capital offender against real estate, has resumed lending on bond and mortgage. It is too late in the season to expect any considerable revival in building, but there is time between now and the Christmas holidays for quite a little trading. The recovery, even if nothing should occur to give it a set-back, will necessarily be slow, but with the return of confidence there is no reason for doubt that the return to normal conditions will only be a question of time.

CLOSE OF THE REAL ESTATE CONGRESS.

Manager Benj. Hardwick, of the New York Real Estate Exchange, presided over the last day's session of the Real Estate Congress, at Chicago, on Thursday. The Torrens system of land transfer records received the indorsement of the congress, and its adoption was urged upon all State legislatures.

AN APPLICATION FOR TWO NEW PIERS.

When the Dock Board made its application to the Sinking Fund Commission for leave to reconstruct the water-front of the North River from Bank street to 14th street, it was declared by the opposition that there was no present demand by ocean steamship lines for the enlarged docks contemplated. We have received from the Dock Department a copy of a letter written to them, which seems to indicate that there is a demand for more room for the ocean steamship lines. The letter is as follows:

BRISTOL, Oct. 13 1893.

DEAR SIR—We now beg to apply for a lease of two of the new piers you propose building in the neighborhood of West 11th street, and our reasons for so doing are as follows: We are the sole owners and managers of the Bristol City line of steamers, running between Bristol, Swansea and New York, which now consists of the following steamers:

"Brooklyn City," 900-horse power, 2,500 tons.

"Jersey City" and "Landaff City," 900-horse power, 2,800 tons each.

"Wells City," 1,000-horse power, 2,900 tons.

"Exeter City," 1,250-horse power, 3,150 tons.

"Chicago City," "Boston City" and "Kansas City," 1,400-horse power and 3,500 tons each.

This line has been running regularly between Bristol and New York since the year 1879, and on first commencing and up to the present date we have been sharing Pier No. 56, at the foot of 26th street, with the Arrow Line, which is now much too small for our requirements. We have endeavored to get another pier at your port suitable for the tin plate trade, but have been totally unable to do so, and in consequence we are losing a great many tons of tin plates which are going via the Manhanset Line, who have a pier in Jersey City, and many more tin plates have gone to Baltimore and Philadelphia en route to western points. All we ask is that we should be able to compete with other lines, which at present we are unable to do, as the Manhanset Line has a whole pier in Jersey City double the length of ours, and for half the length the same breadth, at a rent less than half what we are jointly paying for the Arrow Pier. This, of course, enables our competitors to run their steamers more economically than we can. As our line has been so long established we should not now like to give it up, and we are prepared, should you grant us the piers we ask for at moderate rents, to still further increase our fleet as trade increases, as we are satisfied if we can get the accommodation we can run our steamers as cheap to New York as to Baltimore or Philadelphia.

May we ask that if you grant us the said lease the same may be made out to us as the owners of the Bristol City Line of steamers.

Apologizing for the length of our letter, and trusting to receive a favorable reply, we beg to remain,

Yours faithfully,

[Signed.] CHARLES HILL & SONS.

THE ASTOR DOCKS.

Regarding the Astor Docks on the Harlem River, which were referred to two weeks ago, we understand that Nicholson & Co., the agents, have arranged with the Iron Steamboat Co. to lay up their fleet of seven steamers there for the winter, and, furthermore, that the steamers are already at the docks.

WHY HE BOUGHT THE LOTS.

At one of James L. Wells' recent lot sales there was among the buyers a well-known German resident of the 23d Ward. After the sale was over one of his friends approached and asked him: "Why did you buy those cheap lots when there were so many better ones to be had; you got about the poorest ones in the entire lot."

"I know that; I bought them because they were so cheap, and would answer my purpose. Twenty years ago my father bought a number of lots in Melrose at $100 apiece, as an investment, because he had faith even at that time in the future of the city. His foresight has made me easy and independent. I have sold some of those lots for as high as $2,000 apiece, and am getting a good income out of the others. Now I am buying in the same manner for the benefit of my children."

WHY NORTH SIDE LOTS ARE FAVORITE INVESTMENTS.

A remarkable feature of the big auction sales of lots in the 23d and 24th Wards is the number of buyers there are from among the small property-owners in the vicinity who made their first ventures in real estate in the same way. Among them are not a few women. One of these who expressed great faith in the future of the North Side was asked for an explanation of the faith that was in her. She said: "Everybody knows that the North Side is growing. Ten years ago we had 50,000 population; now we have 100,000. If the increase should continue for ten years in the same proportion only, we will then have 200,000, and in the next ten years 400,000. Now, a lot bought this year at $200 when we have 100,000 population will be worth a great deal more than twice as much when we reach 200,000 population, because it will be near the then centre of population. But there is another reason: Every time one of these large plots is divided into lots and sold it makes two or three hundred owners where there was only one before. That means two or three hundred more persons interested in and working for the development of the district. Then the property not having been in use was without intrinsic value; now a number of the buyers, say half, at least, always buy with the intention of building homes on their lots, and this brings the property into use and gives it a good start, from which it never recedes. So that after such a sale, as I figure it, the lots are at once worth from 25 to 50 per cent more than they were before the sale. Where the sales have been honest and above board, without 'protection' or 'reserve,' this has always been the result. I do not think that any one can make a mistake in buying lots at these sales."

VALUABLE BUSINESS PROPERTIES AT AUCTION.

Smyth & Ryan will, on Wednesday next, November 1st, sell at auction, by order of the administrator of the estate of John C. Wilson, deceased, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, the property No. 93 Crosby street, east side, 164.2 south of Prince street, consisting of a lot, 25.10x68.4x26.7x69, and a brick house thereon. The property is in position to profit largely from the projected Elm street improvement. Also, at the same time and place and under the same direction, the six valuable Mott Haven lots, in a plot 75 feet front, both on Railroad avenue and Mott Haven Canal, by 223 feet deep; and the plot 51 feet front on 3d avenue, by 107 feet on 135th street, northwest corner, x50x100. These plots are both within short distances of the Mott Haven railroad station and the 3d, 4th and Madison avenue bridges. On the 3d avenue corner there are only frame buildings. This corner is situated immediately at the entrance to the new 3d avenue bridge.

OPENING OF LOWELL STREET.

The Supreme Court on the 14th inst. confirmed the report of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of the legal opening of Lowell (formerly 141st) street, from Rider to 3d avenue. The Commissioners found that the street had been legally dedicated to public use, and therefore made only nominal awards. These, with the costs, amount to $612.10, and the assessment for this amount was levied on the property on both sides of Lowell street, from 3d to Rider avenue, and to the extent of half the block each way at the intervening avenues.

James L. Wells will hold another of his great North Side lot sales on Wednesday next, at noon, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. On this occasion he will sell 145 lots, the property of the well-known Fox estate. The lots are located on Intervale, Hoe and Vyse avenues; Fox, Home, Simpson and 127th streets; the Southern Boulevard, and West Farms road. This district is advancing rapidly towards stability and permanent improvement. The Westchester avenue electric cars from 3d avenue bridge run direct to the property. Maps and further particulars of the sale may be had on application to the auctioneer, at his office, No. 59 Liberty street.

A circular letter has been prepared by the Board of Managers of the Real Estate Brokers' and Owners' Association, setting forth the objects of the association and inviting other owners and brokers to apply for membership in it. A blank application is attached to the circular. The purposes of the association have been explained in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and as these are worthy and beneficent, the response to the circular should be full and favorable. The circulars will be sent out during the coming week.

A THRIVING INVESTMENT INSTITUTION.

The Daily News Savings and Building Loan Association, an institution of modest beginnings six years ago, is demonstrating its right to a place among the foremost of our financial institutions. During the six years of its existence nearly $900,000 has been paid into its treasury and not a cent has gone astray. It has paid to withdrawing members over $300,000 of principal with dividends averaging over 8 per cent, and it has loaned to borrowing members, to aid them in the purchase of homes, nearly half a million, secured by first mortgage and bond. Recently a change has been made in the management of the association which is expected to materially improve its efficiency, already established at a high standard. Mr. Chas. O'C. Hennessy, its President from the beginning, has resigned to take the office of Secretary and Treasurer, under which he will be the practical manager, present during the usual business hours to expedite all transactions. Mr. E. J. Fitzgerald has been unanimously elected to the vacant presidency, Vice-President George Bartholomew preferring to retain that office.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

(Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien filed by Louis Rehman on my West 75th street property for $2,244.32 is unjust. On the 18th October last he stated the balance of his account to be $1,300. He also stated that his work was complete. His work is not complete and the architect in charge declines to give his certificate to that effect. There is actually due him, when complete, $1,100, less the amount due his sub-contractors, who have served me with written notice of Rehman's indebtedness to them and their inability to collect. As Rehman is a non-resident of the State of New York, and he has admitted his indebtedness for materials furnished to my property and covered by these notices, I feel bound legally to respect their claims, even when he threatens me with the wrath of the Master Plumbers' Association of New York. A cheque will be given him for the amount due him, less these bills for materials, when his work is done. The lien will be bonded at once.

Respectfully yours,

C. G. JUDSON.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—We find a little change in tenor of reports this week, but unfortunately not of a cheerful character as the line of value has been slightly modified again. We feel justified in calling the conditions unfortunate for all hands, and with due deference to the advantages gained by buyers, because no matter of cost has hurt trade, the difficulty being simply in the absence of use for supplies. Very few dealers have thus far shown an inclination to put away stocks, the already small consumption seems to have further fallen away quite suddenly, while at the same time there has been a pretty full run of arrivals, with a great many cargoes unsold, and there we have the situation in a nutshell. At first all receivers were inclined to make a trial at steadiness, but soon a few weakened and scooped in the orders at a slight concession, while those who were slower to give way did not get much custom. There is not much in the way of a bid at the moment above $4@5, and leading operators generally quote $5.12½ as an extreme. The continued shipments by manufacturers is looked upon as slightly surprising, but thought possible that it may be due in part to a desire to raise funds, and in part to a movement to get loaded barges out of the way. Pales are neglected, and there seems to be about 50c. per M difference between an attempt to buy or sell. If stock is really wanted custom does not object to $2, but an open attempt to secure custom compels acceptance of $1.50, and the investment not quick at that. Pales cannot be handled for accumulation except by dealers who have covered storage room to spare.

GLASS.—Later advices report the story of the Glass Trust having as yet failed to surrender its charter, but that does not make much difference since the market has been declared an open one with everyone for himself and the hindmost consigned to tender mercy of a certain unmentionable party having an interest in the sulphur trade. For the time being matters are about steady, because of small stocks of all kinds on hand and the fact that it will be some time before new stock can be put upon the market. The wage question has yet to be settled before firing up and it will be well into next month before manufacturers can commence the competition sure to result from present conditions. The clause in the new wage scale adopted by the National Association is said to be just the same as last year, except the paragraph in regard to possible tariff changes, to which we referred before. It reads as follows: "In case Congress shall revise the tariff, so as to affect the duty on window glass, during the term of this agreement, then this agreement shall be subject to revision, providing that said adjustment shall not take place more than sixty days prior to the new tariff going into effect."

LATH.—The monotony of the market has been broken, as a result a fuller run of arrivals feared by receivers, stock came to hand from both Maine and the Provinces, and while in ordinary times the quantity would not have been considered large, it was really more than required under ruling conditions of trade and dealers might possibly have forced greater advantages if so disposed. Exactly how low they did get stock we are not prepared to say at the moment, but the quotations given down to close of this report are $1.90@2 per M for first-class stock.

LIME.—Since last writing coastwise arrivals have been less plentiful, but this is only mentioned incidentally and not as a feature to influence the situation. There was plenty of stock here against the very narrow, indifferent demand, and the price remained unchanged awaiting orders from the "combine." We are told that production and shipments for the New York market have entirely ceased for the time being.

LUMBER.—A dull, unsatisfactory state of affairs continues on the local market, and it is difficult to find words of encouragement among any class of operators. It has been claimed by agents, both local and traveling, that no natural demand whatever exists, and that all the business consummated in a wholesale way is solely the result of constant and persistent drumming, accompanied by the allowance of such terms as the merits of the negotiation immediately in hand may seem to suggest. Of course a great deal more custom could be secured on all kinds of stock that would take large quantities and agree to pay full rates for it some time, but sellers are not as a rule willing to take long credit paper to start with, and probably submit to renewals in settlement for stuff that is thoroughly staple and in due time sure to attract attention. For poor as business may be now, there is in that very feature, taken in conjunction with narrow and illy-assorted stocks, the groundwork of an excellent trade ahead, with a chance that when buyers do voluntarily open up demand, it will be of such a broad and pronounced character as to restore in very short order the backbone the market has lost during the past six months. It is only a comparatively few dealers who have possessed the financial ability to accumulate supplies, and they are likely to reap great benefit when reaction comes.

Since last writing there has been a renewal of offerings again, and it looks in many cases as though holders of first-hand parcels were modifying the independent feeling and becoming anxious to secure a little more custom before winter sets in. Naturally under such circumstances a prompt return is expected, and the buyer who can satisfy such condition possesses a great advantage. From exporters the call continues narrow, and confined almost wholly to West India orders.

It probably was no real surprise that arrivals of Spruce from the Eastward increased somewhat after the middle of the month. A great many of the mills are idle, others working as moderately as possible, especially in case of random product, but manufacturers have not universally adopted the shut-down plan, and it is getting a long time when they naturally feel desire to dispose of some of their product. Exactly what has been realized here of late, however, is entirely problematical, as agents have been obliged to make a special price for nearly every cargo, adapting themselves to governing influences at the moment of negotiation, and it is thought that in some cases they took pretty low figures in order to secure desirable custom. State Spruce has been offered lower, and that secured a little custom, but created no activity, as it is not a matter of price upon which buyers hold off, but simply a fear to invest or a question of credits, if willing to negotiate against larger parcels than at present handled.

Hemlock sells somewhat irregularly, but not quite so freely as some little time ago, most dealers who handle the stock having secured about all the assortment they think will be necessary and the dealings now being more in the way of odds and ends of trade. Valuations are nominally unchanged. Carolina Pine finds moderately active sale to local and Eastern trade, but the mills at this point have the best of the business through ability to turn out stock just in quantities to suit and in some instances at relatively lower rates than dressed stock can be served from primal points. There is no market for yellow pine beyond such as can be made on special deals, but about all advantages remain with buyers.

Hardwoods of all kinds have reached the nominal basis of valuations. In many cases there is quite a determined effort to sustain old quotations, but when it comes to actual trading no good customer is allowed to escape if any reasonable allowance will secure an order. Pretty much every staple line of stock comes in for a share of attention, but poplar is probably in the lead with, however, a fair proportion of the call directed toward desirable quartered oak, of which local stocks have in some cases been allowed to run down, and offerings from the mills are by no means abundant. The export trade is taking a few goods, but hardly up to calculations and seems to crowd a little harder for easy terms.

Chairman McRae, of the Committee on Public Lands, was urging in the House on Wednesday a bill "to protect public forest reservations." Commenting upon it, a Washington correspondent writes to a local journal as follows: "The title of the bill is a misnomer, for instead of being a bill 'to protect public forest reservations,' it is calculated, if enacted inot law, not only to despoil them, but also all the other timber lands owned by the United States. Section 7 of the bill provides that 'any timber on the public lands not within a forest reservation may be sold by order of the Secretary of the Interior in the same manner as is heretofore provided in this act, provided that it shall be first shown that such cutting will not be injurious to the public interests, and provided, further, that no timber on the public lands shall be disposed of except in accordance with the provisions of this act.'"

Chairman McRae and his committee seem to be imbued with the belief that the only way in which the public forest reservations can be protected and preserved is to turn the lumberman loose upon them and allow him "to utilize the timber of commercial value and preserve the forest cover from destruction," for the bill provides for this very thing. It also provides "that no timber of commercial value shall be sold except to the highest bidder on sealed proposals, after one appraisement, as hereinafter provided, at not less than the appraised value thereof." Not the least peculiar of the many exceedingly peculiar provisions of this most peculiar bill is that there is no "hereinafter provided" in it—not a paragraph or sentence to show how or by whom or upon what basis the "one appraisement" shall be made. Under existing law any person can obtain title to 160 acres of timber land of the United States by purchase. Under the proposed law no person could buy an acre of such land on any terms, and in order to enable him to buy timber from any public land of the United States it would be necessary to have public notice given for at least thirty days in a newspaper of general circulation, published at the capital of the State or Territory, and also a newspaper published in the county in which the timber was situated, and to have a number of other requirements complied with, and then if he should happen to be the highest bidder he would be allowed to buy the timber for cash.

This provision would give capitalists and corporations an extraordinary advantage, and it would not take long for them to acquire title to all the valuable timber remaining on the public lands of the United States outside the forest reservations. In his speech in defense of the bill Mr. McRae asserted that Section 7, which brings all timber owned by the United States under the provisions of the proposed act, was added at the suggestion of Secretary Hoke Smith. He also asserted that "this bill substantially meets the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture and the approval of the American Forestry Association," but he offered no proof in support of the assertion. Mr. McRae said that the total area of the forest reservations to which the bill primarily applies is about 17,000,000 acres. Among these is the extension of the Yellowstone Park, amounting to 1,259,000 acres. The bill is bitterly opposed by the representatives of every State from South Dakota westward to the Pacific.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Albany market is reported by Argus as follows:

There is rather more inquiry for small lots of pine, but lumber is arriving faster than it can be sold, and prices have been shaded on uppers during the week. The lower figures represent a reduction of about $2 per M feet, and are expected to make the path easy for a livelier trade until the close of navigation The fall business has been dissappointing thus far. There is a fine stock of pine boards here now. The barge Kibbee left Saturday for New York with 250,000 feet of dressed lumber aboard, representing one New York order, and testifying to the growth of the demand for Albany dressed stock. Spruce is in increased demand at the easier prices quoted last week. Hemlock is scarce, and one prominent dealer says his yard could not supply an order for 10-inch boards. Shingles and hardwoods are steady, and spruce lath are quoted lower. Canal freights from Tonawanda have advanced to $2.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

One of the salient features of the Northwestern condition is the recent increase of shipping movement at Duluth and Chequamegon Bay points. The Eastern buyers have called forward the stock they contracted for early in the season, and a demand for cull and common lumber has sprung up. There seems to be a heavy consumption of box lumber this fall, which shows that merchandising has been active, despite the hard times. Coarse inch lumber has the call this fall all up and down the lakes, while good product is somewhat neglected. This is attributable to the relatively large rural demand, the use of lumber in the towns for cheap dwellings and the demand from the box factories. Since there is a low-running of the sash, door and finish factories, and of the different other industries which consume lumber of a high grade, especially thick stuff, good stock is asking for a market and product is accumulating.

Another salient feature is the low condition of stocks at Manistee, one of the more important mill points on the great lakes. Despite a dull cargo market in this city all season, there has been little accumulation at Manistee, and such lumber as in pile there, or to be cut this fall, is held for firm prices. Dealers in this and other markets find that there are no velvety bargains to be picked up at Manistee

At Saginaw and Bay City there is the most positive dullness of any complained of in the white pine field. Manufacturers there have about given up the quest for cargo buyers for this fall, while rail shipments are meager.

At Chicago the market is drifting along toward the close without much change. Since the Senate failed to come to a vote by virtue of physical endurance, the dealers have somewhat abated their zeal about buying and the commission men think that there is not quite as much activity as before. There is, however, a market for all the piece stuff that is offered, though a check has been given to the upward tendency of prices. Short piece stuff is still being sold at $10 a thousand, some mixed short and long at $10.50, and strictly long at $11 to $11.50. There is also a fair sale for common inch at quoted prices, but the inquiry for good stock is light. The prices quoted are likely to continue without material change until the close of navigation. The late severe gales have discouraged shippers and skippers, and it is probable that few vessels or tows will venture into Lake Superior before another season. The volume of receipts is likely to diminish from now onward to the end of the season.

Since the beginning of the month the yards have received a large amount of lumber, and the docks have been full of unpiled stuff. After this has been cleaned away it is probable that there will be no succeeding period of equal activity in receipts this season. Dealers have got in all the piece stuff they could without bulling the market, for it is recognized that the supply on hand is meager. But they set the limit of price at $10 a thousand for short lengths, and mostly withdrew from the market when the attempt was made to add 50 cents a thousand to this price. Now that the basis seems to have settled at $10 a thousand it is probable that they will continue to take in all the piece stuff that will be offered.

Demand for poplar is increasing slightly in some sections, but there can be no general revival of the trade until the various manufacturing industries consuming poplar resume operations. Quotations are nominally the same as they were six months ago, but as a rule those who are holding strictly to the list make few sales.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

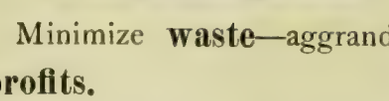
The raftboats from the St. Croix are still busy towing rafts to the various mills along the river. Four boats cleared on Monday for points as low as Burlington. The prices have ruled steady during the season, with no appreciable advance except on very select lots, which are yearly growing more scarce. It is most remarkable that this should be. The cut and the prices seem to remain stationary, while the haul grows longer and the driving more expensive year by year, but the lumber stands near the same old notch under the influence of Chicago competition. It is a matter of speculation how long this can continue. It looks as though it would last until the last pine tree in the valley had been cut. Reason would seem to say lumber should be at least twice the price it brought fifteen years ago.



METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has in a general way been quiet. Some of the companies delivered fair quantities of stock from time to time on contract, but not many of them booked additional orders of consequence on either home or foreign account and business had a sort of jobbing form in most cases. Prices underwent no great change, but were possibly a fraction lower. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9⅝@9¾c. for Lake and 9⅛@9½c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper is lacking in a free general movement, buyers not taking a quantity equal to average for the season and selecting very closely to the most positive wants of regular trade. Offerings are quite equal to the call and although official rates are unchanged there is said to be occasional quiet cutting. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. ANTINONNIN
DRY ROT, FUNGI, MILDEW, MOLD AND CRYPTOGAMS,
and is available for both Wood-work and Masonry.
This new substance is a product of the FARBENFABRIKEN vorm. FRIEDR. BAYER & CO., Elberfeld, Germany. It has been thoroughly examined and tested by Professors V. MILLER and HARZ, who have stated that
"ANTINONNIN IS A PEERLESS PREVENTATIVE OF MILDEW."
The Chief Inspector of Buildings at Munich, Herr STETTNER, and many architects and builders, have endorsed this view.
ANTINONNIN is odorless, non-volatile, soluble in water, and makes eligible mixtures with Lime and other distemper applications.
ANTINONNIN penetrates wood and remains in it, forming a perfect protection against fungi, mildew, and continuous dampness.
ANTINONNIN is far superior to Tar Oils, Carbolineum and similar preparations on account of its freedom from odor, its ease of application, its lasting properties, and its EXTRAORDINARY POWER AS A DESTROYER of all fungoid growths and all organisms which favor dampness and mildew.
is the best application now known for the MASONRY and WOOD-WORK of CELLARS, STORE-HOUSES, WINE-CLOSETS, LAUNDRIES, STABLES, WATER-CLOSETS, all OUT-HOUSES, and all structures exposed to the influences of damp.
ANTINONNIN may by mixed with pure water, lime water or whitewash, and applied with a brush or sponge.
A FULL DESCRIPTION of this new substance will be forwarded on application to toms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has the same old slow call from all sources and for all kinds and the market generally lacks particularly interesting features. Prices run along about as for some time past, with however a leaning in buyers' favor, especially on ordinary brands of stock. We quote at $14.00@14.50 per ton for No. 1, X foundry; $13.00@13.50 for No. 2 X do., and $11.50@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material has moderately active sale in small lots against the immediate wants of consumers, and the outlet seems to be supplied readily enough from the quantity of stock at present available. We quote at $14.50@15.00 for old iron rails; $11.50@13.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@11.50 for cast scrap; $12.50@13.00 for old car wheels, and $7.00@10.50 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron finds no very important demand. Store trade is extremely dull and the disinclination to book contracts for special continues very marked on part of all classes of custom. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel Rails remain under more or less neglect and no improvement appears to be expected during balance of the year. Officially the rate is unchanged, but it is expected that on the next important deal a new basis will be fixed. We quote standard sections $29 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has continued on the downward turn, but the shaded cost attracted attention and led to a little more business in part for near future delivery. We quote at 3.30@3½c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 6¼c. for Pipe, 7c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin has no demand to speak of for trade purposes, but speculators maintain a line of dealing and keep values moving about to some extent. We quote at about 20.80@20.85c. for round lots, and 21@21¼c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate is irregular. For ordinary assortment of cokes demand is fairly satisfactory at firm rates, but bright charcoals and ternes seem to be neglected and somewhat nominal. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.35@6.37½; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $8.00; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.60@5.65; Allaway grade crosses, $6.75; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.50@7.55; M. F. grade, 20x28, $15@15.05; Worcester, 14x20, $5.75@5.80; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.35; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $10.10@10.15; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.30@5.35; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.45@5.50; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.60@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.65@—— basis. Spelter has continued weak in tone without attracting much attention, and altogether it was a pretty dull sort of market throughout. Supplies prove ample. We quote $3.55@3.85c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—No demand can be heard outside of ordinary channels and does not amount to much even on that basis. Buyers simply wait until they have about used up stocks in hand and then come after enough for a working renewal, but none can be induced to venture upon investments against the future. Manufacturers are working slowly and upon as close a calculation to requirements of market as possible, but even then cannot keep entirely free from the accumulation of some little surplus stock. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.35 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.35@1.40 for car lots, and $1.60@1.75 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Demand has been of an irregular character, orders developing only when customers were forced to move by urgent necessity and, although staple goods were mostly called for, the proportions of the various descriptions frequently proved quite different from the ordinary average. Sometimes it might be dry colors preponderating on the purchasing list, then again zincs or leads, just as the current wants of customers might happen to require. All supplies have been offered with freedom enough to promptly satisfy the calls made and a much larger quantity could have been obtained, if wanted. In matter of cost, buyers retained about all the advantages, low prices of material in many instances leading to shading on the product. That was particularly the case on zincs and leads, independent makers of the latter generally accepting 5½c. for dry and 6c. for oil and, to meet that competition, the regular combine manufacturers also doing a little cutting, although making no official announcement of changes. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6⅝c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6½c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has found a slow sort of demand, principally of routine character, and while some irregularities prevailed on prices, the old general range of figures is used as a representative valuation. We quote on general range at 40@42c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has been somewhat unsettled, but the market remained very well in hand and of late a reduction in supply stiffened the line of value somewhat. We quote at 29½@30½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—There are no changes of importance in the general status of the market. Demand fluctuates, but rarely reaches large proportions even in way of engaging stock for public and special jobs, and ordinary consuming outlets are satisfied with small parcels. The supply available has been ample and cost just about as before. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of handling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and altogether it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

VOL. LII. NOVEMBER 4, 1893. No. 1,338

A GREAT deal of disappointment is being expressed at the results in the stock market following the passage of the Wilson-Voorhees Repeal bill. The steady decline of the week is naturally most discouraging to speculative holders of stock. The only explanation vouchsafed is that the people who bought on the low figures of the summer are taking profits. But this is not altogether satisfactory, because it is hardly likely that all the holders of such stock would be so much in the same mind for a given period that prices would decline so persistently and with little or no rally as they have done for the past five days, and close with so little show of animation as they did last night. Another cause for the decline most undoubtedly is the failure of large outside and foreign buying which had been so confidently built upon, and another probably that some people who have been carried over the last few months of financial trouble are now compelled by their backers to liquidate in order to repay the accommodating advances they have from time to time received. If this latter cause is a factor to any considerable extent in making quotations there can be no advance until the enforced liquidation is completed. This theory finds support in the vigor with which the market has been attacked by bears. Moreover it is difficult to revive confidence in the mind of the general public in the value of our railroad properties, the most absurd views being held of what is to affect them as a result of the dullness in business. Some go so far as predicting receiversips for the best roads in the West as well as for those whose condition make such a thing possible. Later returns of earnings will remove these erroneous impressions, but meantime it is not surprising that prices suffer. The few people at home and abroad better informed or more trusting are picking up bargains here and there. Outside of the stock market there are signs of improvement in business, which may be reasonably expected to increase and multiply in proportion as time goes on. It is too soon to expect very much actual result in this direction, but what there is is of a satisfactory kind, as may be seen from the record from day to day of establishments that are resuming operations suspended under financial stress.

THE double event this week of the repeal of the Sherman Act and the cancellation of the last of the clearing house loan certificates in this city, may fairly be regarded as the termination of the "panic of 1893." The thought must have occurred to many people, however, that it is rather curious that these two events, which are supposed to be related to one another somewhat as cause and effect, should disappear at so nearly the same moment. The vicious nature of our Silver Laws was, everybody tells us, wholly responsible for the financial stringency which necessitated issuing the certificates, and one would naturally suppose that so long as the Sherman Law existed to threaten and terrify the timid souls of bank presidents and capitalists, the certificates would also exist. Quite the reverse, however, has been the case. For many weeks past the process of cancellation has gone on steadily despite the fact that the country had practically abandoned all hope of unconditional repeal. Indeed, the last of the certificates would have been withdrawn this week whether the repeal bill passed or not, and it is difficult for the candid mind to see how, with so much improvement clearly gained and with large reserves in our banks, the business of the country could have done otherwise than continue to improve slowly even had the absurd vaporing of the silverites continued in Washington. In pointing out this, we are far from denying that our unscientific "leaning" towards silver has not been productive of a great deal of harm. So stupendous a structure as the commerce of this country requires the stablest of all foundations, and there can be no doubt, whatever the cause may be, that silver possesses nothing like the continuous stability of gold. Had we "stuck to silver" we might have readjusted our affairs so that business could continue with sufficient certainty for all ordinary purposes. It is, however, in the extraordinary moments when severe strain and pressure are felt on all sides that the weakness of a silver currency would be revealed and would assist immensely in intensifying panic and commercial distress. This we believe was really what silver did this summer. It contributed to, but was not wholly responsible for our troubles.

IT is often said of real estate that it is too sluggish a form of property for active trading. If the charge must in a measure be conceded, surely there are times when this quality shines forth as its most attractive virtue. Had it been as merchantable a commodity as stocks and bonds it would have bobbed up and down like a cockle-boat in a choppy sea, as they did, during this week. But being the sort of property in which fortunes always find safe anchorage, it held steady and firm during the unaccountable fluctuations of other forms of property that followed the termination of the struggle in the United States Senate over the repeal bill. Extended inquiry among the brokers shows that the improvement in the market which began a fortnight ago has been continuous ever since. A better tone pervades the market than has been apparent since the middle of June. Resumed activity is hanging now in anticipation of an early improvement of the loan market. When normal conditions in financial affairs shall make their appearance they will find the real estate operators, builders and investors ready to make full use of them. Representative brokers look for even a more active movement in investment forms of real estate before spring than ever previously, because of the demonstrated stability of real estate in the crucial test to which all values have this summer and fall been subjected. One of the best indications of reviving confidence and activity is the increase this week in the reports of prospective building operations. Times are not at their worst so long as building keeps up.

THE somewhat eccentric movement of trade in the vicinity of Astor place has been frequently observed. It followed the line of Broadway years ago until it came to the neighborhood of the old New York Hotel, and there it seemed to halt as though looking to the occupation of no fields further northward. But it never really paused. It was like a farmer sowing his seed. It had come to a sterile piece of ground which it was not worth while to cultivate and had gone on to the more fertile grounds beyond. To Union square, and from Union square to Madison square the march was still continued. But, in the meantime, certain irregular movements, properly to be called eccentric, were executed in the neighborhood of Astor place. The current set along Astor place to Lafayette place and 4th avenue in the vicinity of Astor place, and many readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will remember the time when this small district promised to be a chief seat of the clothing trade. But Traphagen has disappeared and only Brokaw's among the great dealers remains. The publishers, however, are still in the field, and time, instead of diminishing their energies, seems only to have increased their vitality, until now the booksellers and the printers seem to struggle for the possession of the entire ground. But they still find stubborn opponents among the clothiers and the dealers in men's furnishing goods, hats, boots and shoes. The territory has been parceled out according to demand between these different classes of mercantile entrepreneurs. They make of the district an altogether unique field in New York, a field that has no parallel in any other section. It suggests that conditions must have greatly changed since the days of Sam Johnson and Grub street. It is not in the least according to tradition when we see the tailor struggling for subsistence and profit among the literary guild.

READERS whose memories does not go back very far may be disposed to credit the commercial movement in the neighborhood of Astor place and into Lafayette place to the prospective opening of Elm street, a street which is soon expected to absorb Lafayette place and banish the name, so suggestive of national gratitude, from the street directory, unless, indeed, the city grandmothers in their exuberant patriotism decide, as they should, that the extended street shall be called Lafayette street over its entire length. But the idea of any change made by the proposed extension would be a misconception. The movement antedates even the conception of an extended Elm street and began really on the day when in the march up Broadway it first struck the Sailors' Snug Harbor obstruction. The commercial movement was like the current of a strong river that finds itself obstructed by a sand bar or island elevated above its surface. It was too strong to be held in complete check, and so it cut a small channel through the heart of the obstacle along Broadway and then piled up to the right where the soil seemed to be most penetrable and most easily displaced. It would probably have piled up to the left too, and ran along Waverley place, as it has finally done, had it not seemed that the obstructions in that direction interposed a too formidable barrier of distance to be overcome. For the rest it was dissipated into thin mist, only to be condensed and become sufficiently cohesive again to form a strong current after it had reached 14th street. Hence the movement must be called eccentric, something out of the usual order though obedient enough to natural law. But it has been productive of a somewhat dispersed mercantile arrangement, and it probably left the headquarters of the four hundred in the neighborhood of Washington square for a considerable longer period than it could have held the fort had there been no obstructions in the way of trade. The circumstances, however, have not been favorable for the idealization of the city. Old dwellings may be highly respectable for people who feel themselves socially superior to the needs of any external embellishment. But forty years ago in New York represented a period which was neither antiquity nor fin du siecle, and American architectural survivals of that period are externally the worst in the world.

Bridging the Hudson.

IT would be interesting to know just how many of the schemes for transit and transportation improvements advocated for New York are founded on a deliberate intention to humbug somebody, and just how many are the fantastical conceptions of earnest but misguided men who really think themselves gifted with a genius for engineering and finance, and only lack the opportunity to demonstrate their abilities. The information would be interesting, but it would be also instructive. It could have some bearing on the statistics of lunacy, and would therefore possess a scientific value.

Now here, for example, are the schemes for bridging the Hudson. The railways around New York, as it is very well known, have an almost perfect system for the receipt and delivery of merchandise and the collection and distribution of passengers so far as their own convenience as public carriers is concerned. When we consider the directness of the ferry routes and the elegant equipment of the ferry boats, we see at once that no system of river transit could be devised that would appreciably facilitate the handling of passengers, or make the transit more agreeable. From the trains in Jersey City or Hoboken to the elevated railway stations in New York is but a step, and a step that could hardly be taken more promptly than it is taken now unless a man could be shot from a catapult. As to the distribution of merchandise it is sent to the most convenient point or received at the most convenient point with all needed dispatch, and, the railways and traveling public only considered, the service may be pronounced entirely adequate. The system is so perfect, indeed, from the railway managers' point of view, that it has been found impossible to interest any of the roads in any other plan; and a tunnel already carried two-thirds the way to completion under the river is permitted to be full of water year after year while the projector tears his hair and wishes that if financial obligations could be sunk as easily as bricks the bottom of the stream would give way. But notwithstanding this situation, patent to everybody who can see, the property interests of the city must be kept on tenterhooks while some lunatic exploits his scheme for a hundred million dollar bridge ostensibly and chiefly for the use and benefit of the railroads!

THE RECORD AND GUIDE will be the last paper to say that local improvements are not needed for New York, if they are real improvements. Possibly its readers have been almost tired by the persistency with which we have urged the necessity for an improved water front and warehousing system. We only object in this case because improvements conceived by lunatics are not needed, and among this class of improvements we are forced to catalogue all schemes for bridging the Hudson River.

Who would be benefited by a bridge? The railroads will not have it. Their managers will not lift their hands to raise the paltry few hundred thousand dollars required for the completion of the Hudson River tunnel; and the cheek of a man who, in spite of this fact, would go to them and ask them to pay the interest or even the chief part of the interest on the $100,000,000 which a bridge is deliberately estimated to cost would need to be harder than the hardest substance known to scientific research. Evidently the railroads would not use a bridge for anything more than the dispatch of a few long distance passenger trains and possibly some coal trains, even if it were constructed. The city of New York would not have it. Every property interest in the city is in arms, not against the bridge itself possibly, for there is little fear that so chimerical a scheme can be made successfully; but against the very shadow of a bridge which is mildew and blight upon every valuable interest which it touches. Possibly a few property-holders along the palisades, on the west bank of the Hudson, might be benefited; but we are not wasting $100,000,000 on those people however worthy.

Unquestionably New York needs a greatly improved system for handling merchandise and we have too often called attention to the want to leave much occasion for any reiteration here. We need a system that will keep merchandise in transit off the streets and confine it to the warehouses and the water front. But this is the very last service that would be rendered by a bridge. There is not an evil from which we suffer through our inadequate expedients that would not be aggravated by a method of transportation which would locate more depots in the centre of the city and still more widely separate the terminal points of land and water transportation.

The conception of a bridge across the Hudson could not have been the conception of an engineer. The engineer is generally more practical in finance. It was not the conception of a merchant, for no person who finds the shipment of his merchandise a subject for study could conceive anything so inconsequential and injudicious. Neither was it the conception of a politician, for the politician, whatever his faults, tries to keep himself in correspondence with interests that can be of service to himself personally, and he would find the search for any such interest in this bridge scheme very bootless. As intimated before, then, it must have been the conception of a lunatic, and the scheme is entirely consistent with its origin.

THE Building Material Exhibit, hitherto conducted by The Review and Record, at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, has now passed under the control of these consolidated papers. The exhibition hall, large, handsome and well lighted, is centrally located, opposite the Post-office, near the City Hall and other public buildings, and on the street leading directly from the Bridge, of which it is within but a short walk. The great hall, handsome and well lighted, and filled with an extensive collection of carefully-arranged exhibits of material used in the construction, finish and equipment of buildings embraces a market within itself so large, so varied, and withal so compact as to afford the architect, the builder, or the owner who may be contemplating building, an opportunity to examine, compare and make selections of material such as is afforded nowhere else. Obviously an exhibition of this practical character offers manifold and positive advantages, and parties seeking information relative to constructive and finishing material will be well repaid by a visit to the Brooklyn Exposition. Our New York architects and builders should become as familiar with this exhibit as our appreciative friends over the river, who make use of it daily. The exhibition is permanent, open all day and free to everybody. Visitors will be courteously received by the management, and every facility will be afforded them to inspect goods.

Increase in West Side Transit Facilities.

Some time ago the Metropolitan Traction Company began to run some of its 6th avenue horse cars from 6th avenue and 59th street along 59th street to 9th or Columbus avenue, up Columbus avenue to the Boulevard and up the Boulevard and Amsterdam avenue to 81st street, with transfer privileges to the 9th avenue and Broadway cable lines. This mode of reaching the shopping, theatre, hotel and business districts from the West Side jumped into popularity at once. People who were not pressed for time and who wanted to be landed in the vicinity of Broadway and 6th avenue, took the 6th avenue cars up town and transfered at 7th avenue and 59th street to the Broadway cable cars, or continued down to the shopping district in the 6th avenue car. Others, who desired to reach the lower end of the city in some degree of comfort, would ride to 6th avenue and 58th street and there take the elevated railroad train, in which they were sure to find seats. Recently the facilities offered by the Metropolitan Traction Company have been still further increased. The run of the 6th avenue cars has been extended up Amsterdam avenue to 96th street, with transfer privileges to the 9th avenue line, which continues on up Amsterdam avenue to 125th street and to the Fort Lee ferry, and down town over the 9th avenue, 7th avenue, Broadway and branches of the 6th avenue line. By this system a person may ride from the South Ferry to 125th street West for a single fare, or may transfer for the Fulton ferry, Chambers street (Pavonia) ferry, Grand street ferry or Fort Lee ferry. But residents of the West Side, and especially business men doing business along Columbus and Amsterdam avenues, much as they appreciate these improvements, are impatient for the construction of the cable roads on Columbus and Amsterdam avenues. The franchises have already been obtained by the company, and West Siders argue that if there had ever been any doubt of the fact that the public would support such lines it must have been removed by the experience of the company with the experiments above specified. One gentleman said the 6th avenue cars running from 96th street collected an average of 120 cash fares above 59th street, per round trip. With a cable system and its larger, cleaner cars, this traffic would be many times increased. For Columbus avenue many real estate brokers say they would welcome even a trolley electric line, for there the wires would add nothing to the nuisance already in possession of the avenue, while its service would be even more reliable.

Personal.

John H. Shipway, of the firm of Nichols & Shipway, who was quite badly injured about six weeks ago while driving, is rapidly convalescing and was able for the first time since the accident on Tuesday of this week to make his reappearance at the office. Mr. Shipway at present is walking about on crutches, which appliances it is hoped he will be able to dispense with in a very short time. His many friends among the building and architectural fraternities will be glad to hear of his reappearance among them.

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Previous to 1891 my neighbors and I bought lots in the 8th Ward of Brooklyn and built our houses on it to conform to the then established grade, although the street was not then improved. Since we built the municipal authorities have changed the grade of the street so that the improvement now in progress leaves our houses several feet below the former grade, to the serious damage and depreciation of our properties. Have we a right of recovery against the City of Brooklyn for the injury so sustained by us. ITALIA.

Answer.—Yes.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

If a purchaser buys a piece of land in the suburbs for, say $10,000, assuming back taxes and assessment amounting to $2,000—the latter amount not being mentioned in contract or deed—the same reading: "Ten thousand dollars and other valuable considerations." On what amount does the broker base his commission? A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Usually where a buyer agrees to pay a comparatively small amount of outstanding taxes we think no account is taken of them in calculating the commission; but in the case stated by our correspondent we should think that the commission ought to be calculated on $12,000, for that is what the seller really gets for his property. (If the seller had to pay that $2,000 he would only net $8,000.)—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A loans on bond and mortgage on real estate to B and C, undivided owners. B pays his portion of interest promptly, C fails to pay any. Can the undivided one-half interest of C be foreclosed without in any way interfering with that of B or making him a party in the suit. J. M.

Answer.—Probably it can; but that would depend somewhat upon the exact technical wording of the bond and mortgage, and upon the facts as to how the cash was actually paid when the loan was made. Our correspondent's question is one of those which can not be safely answered without a full knowledge of all the details, obtained by cross-examining him and all the papers.—LAW EDITOR.

The Elevated Railroad Spectre.

The Tribune of yesterday has an interesting and suggestive item about the difficulty encountered by the trustees of St. Paul's M. E. Church in selecting a site for a new structure. In it occurs the following:

"The matter has been under discussion for the last two years, but since the old meeting-house, at 4th avenue and 22d street, has been torn down and the congregation of St. Paul's has had to meet elsewhere (No. 150 5th avenue), the question has grown to be of the first importance.

"A meeting of the board of trustees was held last Monday, but no definite action in regard to a new site was taken. The trustees say they are held back by the stoppage of the work in the Rapid Transit Commission. They cannot decide on a site for the church until the rapid transit question is determined. They do not want to purchase a lot and find that an elevated train is to run by their door; nor do they, on the other hand, wish to be a mile away from the general line of travel.

"The trustees have been looking at sites as far north as Harlem. They have several places in view on the West Side, and also some in the central portion of the city below the Park.

"It is not a question of money that is delaying the trustees of St. Paul's, for that church is known to be one of the richest Methodist Episcopal churches in the country. Dr. Palmer said last evening: 'We regret that we are kept from building, because at this time the work would give needed employment to many laborers; but until the lines of rapid transit are determined we are not willing to choose our site.'"

Since 5th and Madison avenues are exempt from elevated railroad invasion by law, and there is little or no danger from elevated roads in the side streets, it would be inferred that the "places in view on the West Side" are not far distant from the Boulevard. The Boulevard is the ideal thoroughfare for handsome churches, hotels, theatres, libraries and semi-public buildings. How long will it continue to be kept out of its estate by the dangers of elevated railroad invasion?

A New Hotel for Sherman Square.

Mr. Robert Robertson has begun the construction of an eight-story fire-proof hotel, on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 72d street, the plans for which are in the hands of Architect Andrew Craig. Excavation is now in progress, and the work of construction will proceed with dispatch as soon as the ground is in readiness. Mr. Robertson, who will be remembered by the older merchants of New York as a member of the old firm of James Williamson & Co., of No. 69 Wall street, in the pig iron trade, gave THE RECORD AND GUIDE reporter the following description of his projected hotel: It will front 96 feet on the Boulevard and 155 feet on the street, and will be open to daylight on all four sides. Mr. Robertson's plot fronts about 106 feet on the Boulevard and 255 feet on the street, and he proposes to reserve 25 feet on the westerly side, perpetually, for the admission of light and air to the hotel. On the north side there will be a court, or alley, about 8 feet wide, affording an entrance to the north frontage from the Boulevard, and permitting of window and balcony openings to the outer air.

The main entrance will be on the street, and there will be none on the Boulevard. The entrance will be through a portico, 16 feet wide leading to a hall 16 feet wide, on opposite sides of which will be the main office and the elevators and staircase, and at the inner end of which will be a large rotunda. The design, which was originally prepared some five years ago, contemplates a structure similar in architectural style to the Hotel Waldorf, though not so large. Mr. Robertson was strongly impelled to build at that time, but about that time iron and steel, in which he is well versed, began to play more important parts in the construction of large buildings, and he resolved to hold off for a time. He thinks that time has justified that action—and builders with knowledge of the present condition of building will agree with him.

The construction will be of iron and steel frame with fire-proof walls, floors and partitions. For the lower or main story the facing will be of brownstone. What to use for the upper stories Mr. Robertson has not yet decided. His preference is for light-colored brick, but, he said, it had been represented to him that light-colored brick were in fashion only for the time being and would soon go out of style, while Philadelphia pressed brick were always in style, and so he was still considering between the two. The trim will be of hard-wood—probably oak, or oak and ash. There will be a grand dining-hall on the main floor, fronting 50 feet on 72d street and 90 feet on the Boulevard. Between this dining hall and the main entrance, on 72d street, there will be a ladies' entrance and reception parlor. There will be two large elevators, one for passengers and one for service. The roof will be finished with asphalt and nothing but fire-proof construction will be used.

The division into rooms shows 230 rooms above the first floor and ninety-eight baths, or, more specifically, eighty-four suites of apartments, consisting of parlor, bedroom and bath-room, and sixty-three single rooms, nine on each floor, with two baths on each floor, for the use of the occupants of the single rooms. Some of the contracts have already been awarded. Mr. Robertson said, of course, he had made estimates on the cost of the building, but that was always a variable quantity, and he preferred not to speak about that. He is sure the building will be in every way worthy of its splendid location. Sherman square is evidently coming into its rightful inheritance.

Notes Gathered Here and There in Brooklyn.

NO MORE COMPETITION WANTED.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, held on Monday, Alderman Wafer, of the Lamp and Gas Committee, had prepared a report adverse to the application of the State Electric Light and Power Company to Noah L. Cochran, president, for a franchise for the business of furnishing electric lights for private and public use. The report says in substance that:

"There does not appear to be any public interest or any interest of the citizens which will be materially served by granting this petition.

"Further, there are three electric lighting companies already doing business in the city and no good reason appears to this committee why the number should be increased by granting this present petition.

"And further, if such petition be granted and acted upon the result will be the formal erection of a large number of poles or standards in the city streets and the suspension of wires carrying high electric currents. It is the opinion of your committee that there is a sufficient number of this kind of obstructions in the public streets to say the least, and that there should be no addition to the number of wires carrying electric currents, except in cases which have much greater merit to commend them than the present application."

The cross-town railroad expects to be in operation by the trolley before the new year. Gangs of men are working from both ends laying the tracks. Some of the poles for stringing the wires are already in place. When the work is completed the time between the South Brooklyn Terminus and Greenpoint will be about twenty minutes less than now.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Department of City Works until Thursday, November 9th, for setting gas lamp-posts on Furman avenue, between Broadway and Bushwick avenue.

Notice is given that the Common Council has adopted a resolution to set gas lamp-posts as follows: Milford street, between Liberty and Atlantic avenues; Warwick street, between Eastern Parkway and Belmont avenue, and on Schenck avenue, between Belmont and Dumont avenues. Also to grade and pave Eldert street, from Central to Hamburg avenues, and Degraw street from 4th to 5th avenues.

Regarding the tax rate in Brooklyn for 1893, about which there has been so much mystery, Mr. W. J. Gaynor yesterday gave a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE the following written statement:

"The figures I gave at Arion Hall last night were the best attainable. I did not vouch for them as official. On the contrary, the officials are holding back the figures, and we have calculated as best we can. The figures I have are as follows: City tax, $11,300,885.29; county tax, $2,601,473.76; State tax, $1,242,795.46; total, $15,145,154.51. Total taxable values on the rolls, $506,020,356. Dividing the total tax to be levied by the total valuations we get $2.99 as the rate. It will be less in some wards and more in others. In the end these figures will be found not much out of the way. The above figures of county tax may include the towns. If so the above rate will be reduced very slightly.

A Handsome Row of New Houses on Eightieth Street, near the Museum of Natural History.

Ornamentation of the fronts of dwelling houses is often carried to excess. Artistic intelligence in this class of work has resulted in the production of some houses in this city that are credits to the architectural skill and taste of the architects and builders. But a just criticism will declare that this is the exception rather than the rule. Incongruity and bad taste, the mixing and confusion of styles and the excessive application of chisel-work have been the results too often of a desire to make a house look "handsome." The designers of such houses seem to have lost sight of the artistic effect, the quiet elegance and repose, of plain wall surfaces, where the necessary openings supply all the required diversity to give expression to the whole.

A group of four-story and basement, high stoop, brownstone residences in West 80th street, Nos. 152-158, south side, between Columbus and Amsterdam avenues, furnishes the text for the above observation. Their plain, tasteful, reposeful and dignified exteriors attract the attention of the observer and afford a restful sensation in striking contrast with the perplexing and confusing elevations so often encountered. Their massive, wide, hospitable stoops harmonize well with the plain facade and impart a feeling of solidity and endurance to the houses. They are the production of a builder of long and successful experience in house construction, Mr. Robert Grant, of the former well-known firm of Gunn & Grant. Mr. Grant's experience with house buyers has given him an expert knowledge of what is necessary to meet the average requirements, and in this his latest work he believes he has excelled all former efforts in that direction.

The houses are Nos. 152, 154, 156 and 158 West 80th street. They are located just near enough to the 81st street station of the elevated railroad to have all of its advantages of easy access to the business, shopping and theatre districts, and just far enough away from the road to escape all of its annoyances. Manhattan square, in which the Museum of Natural History is located, is just across Columbus avenue, and Central Park, to which the West Sider can always fly for relief from city cares, is only a block further distant. In the other direction is the popular Riverside Drive and the beautiful Hudson River. A home amid these surroundings is peculiarly favored.

The Grant houses are founded on the native rock, and as the ground is high their drainage is natural and perfect. The interior construction is supported on a main girder of steel, and the main girders of the first and second floors above the basements are also of steel. The cellar floors are concreted and there are large bricked-in furnaces to supply hot air to all the rooms. So much for the fundamentals. In the basements, which are neatly finished in white ash, there are in each of the houses a large breakfast-room (which can also be used as a billiard-room) with butler's pantry and store-room adjoining, and a spacious kitchen and laundry farther on. The kitchen is furnished with a "Perfect" range, copper boiler and porcelain sink, and the laundry with ceramic wash-tubs. A back stairway leads to the butler's pantry on the second floor.

The main entrance is through a mahogany vestibule, with mosaic floor to a hall finished in mahogany with full cabinet trim, console mirror, balcony stairs, massive sliding doors and parquette floor. The spacious double parlors are also trimmed in mahogany, with an artistic mantel of the same material. The dining-room beyond is finished in quartered oak, with paneled wainscot and handsome mantel and parquette floor. The butler's pantry is finished in style similar to the dining hall.

New Dwellings, Nos. 152 to 158 West Eightieth Street. ROBERT GRANT, owner and builder.

Oriental luxury is suggested in the finish of the second floor. The trim throughout is of hazel, one of the richest grained and colored woods in use for this purpose. There are two large rooms, front and rear, on this floor, with a spacious dressing saloon between and a bath-room in the adjoining extension. The front room is designed for use as a family room or library or bed-chamber. It has built-in book-cases, and sliding doors separate it from the dressing saloon. The mantels in this and the rear room are of hazel. The bath-room is floored and wainscoted with white encaustic tiles and trimmed with hazel. It has a rolled rim porcelain tub, hazel wardrobe, chaize-longe and large plate mirror and is heated by pipes from the furnace.

The third floor is arranged in similar style to the second, except that there is a hall entrance to the bath-room, and there are double dressing-rooms, and the trim is of cherry. The top floor is finished in white ash. It contains a large front and two rear bedrooms, a large store-room with skylight and a servants' bath tub.

All the houses are fitted with electric bells and annunciators, dumb-waiters (to the second story), gas logs in all the fireplaces, water on every floor, and all the other appointments of a first-class modern town house. Mr. Grant is on the premises all the time ready to show the houses to interested parties.—(Communicated.)

The Business Man in Politics.

A WELL-KNOWN BUILDING OPERATOR STANDING FOR THE ASSEMBLY IN THE TWENTY-THIRD DISTRICT—THE MAN AND HIS WORK.

JUDSON LAWSON.

There's a little politics in this story. The Tammany Democracy have a "walk-over" in twenty-seven out of the thirty Assembly Districts into which this city is divided. One of the three districts in which their supremacy is disputed is the 23d Assembly District. It embraces the choicest portion of the West Side—the district of the great building and real estate activity of the last ten years, that is bounded on the south by 72d street, on the east by Central Park and 7th avenue, on the north by 120th street, and on the west by the Hudson River. The majority of the voters of both parties in this district vote from principle. Consequently, the nominations are as a general thing above the average in character, intelligence and responsibility. By a happy inspiration there has been nominated this year a man of so signal a representative character that choice will not be difficult. The building trades and all their allied industries and the real estate interests ought, we suppose, to feel complimented by the fact that one of the best possible representatives of their industries has been nominated. Of course, it ought always to be so. Real estate and building are the most important industries the city can boast, giving continuous and lucrative employment to thousands of mechanics, and it ought always to be well represented in the halls of legislation. The nominee of whom this is written is Mr. Judson Lawson. His portrait heads this article. He is a member of the well and widely-known firm of Walker & Lawson, and he has been in the building business in this city for over twenty years. He is the nominee of the Republicans and of the Good Government Club. In his nomination an opportunity is presented to the building and real estate interests to do a good thing for themselves. Probably the most important question to the West Side at this time is rapid transit. The next Legislature will be called upon to enact a bill allowing the people of this city the opportunity to vote on this question. When that bill is presented it will be just as well to have some representative of West Side interests there who has felt in his own business the needs of a great increase of transit facilities. Mr. Judson Lawson is that sort of man. It will not be disputed that this is a good time for real estate men and builders to stand together.

We publish in this connection an illustration of the last building work done by Mr. Lawson's firm. It is of five houses, in the characteristic style of the better class of New York town houses, situated on 91st street, south side, near Riverside Drive. The district is one of the most select in the most beautiful section of the West Side. The Cyrus Clark and John Matthews mansions on Riverside Drive, the new Fourth Presbyterian Church on West End avenue, from plans by Heins & La Farge, architects of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and numerous new and imposing residences in the highest style of the builder's art have established the residential character of the district beyond failure. Some of the oldest and wealthiest families in New York are the holders of home sites in the immediate vicinity. The Walker & Lawson houses are brownstone, bay window fronts, three stories high, besides basements and cellars. They are of the most substantial construction and are finished with cabinet trim throughout; the parlors, halls and foyers in mahogany; the dining-rooms, butlers' pantries and vestibules in quartered oak; the bedrooms and dressing-saloons and bath-rooms in hazel and birdseye-maple, with porcelain tubs, marble lavatories, and other high-class finish: the basements in sycamore and the top floor bedrooms in birch. The bath-rooms have tile floors and wainscots, cabinet mantels, gas grates, and the highest grade of sanitary plumbing. The servants' bath, on the top floor, has also a porcelain tub and nickel plumbing—a larger measure of luxury than is usually allowed in even the best of houses. Every other convenience known to modern house construction is supplied, and the workmanship, which shows for itself, is of the highest order. Two of the houses, Nos. 308 and 312, have already been sold, which speaks volumes in their praise, for the buyers of to-day are a very critical set.—(Communicated.)

Since opening the office business in selling and renting has been such as to demonstrate to the company the advisability of maintaining a permanent office in this section.

Is this treason, or just "business?" Officers of the Real Estate Exchange say the suggestion has not been made to them.

Each suite contains seven rooms and bath-room, the latter is tiled and contains porcelain tubs. The trim is hardwood throughout; the plumbing is all open work, and hot water is supplied from the cellar. An attractive rear has led to the dining-rooms being located in that part of the houses, and large, light dining-rooms they are. The china closets are very attractive, with beveled plate doors, and lining of colors to harmonize with the service.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—A syndicate headed by Silas D. Drake, Mayor of Lorraine, has been formed for the purpose of building an Opera House here, and Architect Jesse A. Oakley, Jr., has been commissioned to draw the plans. The building is to front on Broad street, and several eligible sites are now under consideration, but until a choice is made the details, of course, cannot be determined upon; but the general scheme is for a handsome three-story structure fronting the street, upon the ground floor of which will be the main entrance to the Opera House, with a store on either side. The second floor will be devoted to offices, cloak and toilet-rooms, with possibly a caterer's kitchen, while one large assembly-room will take up the whole of the third floor. Back of all of this will be the Opera House proper. The building is to be of fire-proof construction throughout, and is to be equipped with all the modern improvements; among which are a fire-proof curtain, an elevator from the entrance hall to the assembly-room, electric lights, steam heat and an arrangement for circulating cool air in summer.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J.—The plans presented for the Auditorium building by F. T. Camp, of New York, have been accepted by the Building Committee. The building will be one story, of steel frame and masonry construction, 161x224 feet and 70 feet high. It will be erected at once; cost, $50,000.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Loans are considerably easier than they have been for nearly six months. We have heard of two loans of $200,000 each on one piece of Boulevard property, and another of $18,000 each on nine lots, making a total of $162,000 having been made during the week at 5 per cent, but it was not insurance company money. The wealthy estates and the savings banks seem to be getting the cream of the business.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS' AND OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

Most of the real estate brokers of the upper sections of this city have, during the week, received copies of the circular and application blank of the Real Estate Brokers' and Owners' Association. The objects of the association are therein lucidly set forth, and the recipient is given an invitation to ally himself with it. Brokers who have had experience with dead-beat tenants and the "free-rent" abomination (and who has not) do not need to be told that only by co-operative effort through some such organization as this can these evils be successfully combatted. The association starts under favorable auspices, and if conducted in the spirit which has thus far animated its promoters, cannot fail to accomplish much good. Owners of investment property will not be slow to learn of its advantages to them, and will not fail to avail themselves of its protection. Thus far the organization has proceeded only to the election of a Board of Managers and a few officers. On Friday evening next, November 10th, at 8 o'clock, a meeting will be held at Nos. 151 and 153 West 125th street, at which action will be taken on the adoption of the constitution and by-laws, and on the completion of the organization.

REAL ESTATE AROUND THE ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEENTH STREET ELEVATED STATION.

Broker John P. Stoecker, of 292 West 116th street, near 8th avenue, makes a specialty of the sale and management of realty in the neighborhood of his office, and besides having entire charge of many properties thereabouts for owners, has for sale cheap a number of very desirable investment parcels. Lee, of Lee, Tweedy & Co., J. Allen Townsend, Adler & Herrmann and the Harlem River Bank.

WELL POSTED ON VALUES IN THE SEVENTH, TENTH, ELEVENTH AND THIRTEENH WARDS.

Hiram Rinaldo & Bro., real estate and mortgage brokers, of 233 Grand street (Oriental Bank Building), make a specialty of handling realty in the 7th, 10th, 11th and 13th Wards, and are therefore experts in values of property therein located, which accounts for their success as negotiators. They also take charge of estates and have the care of many properties which they manage successfully.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the second that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The several dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "F. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for further particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK,

BRICKS.—While the old general line of quotation is named, the market has certainly gained nothing in tone, and some operators think matters are a little worse. Manufacturers failed to ease up on the shipments to the extent expected, and could they have got their barges back promptly it is quite likely they would have sent a still greater number of brick. As it was, however, a surplus of considerable magnitude could at all times be found, and holders had no means of moving the stock. It probably needs no great emphasis to the statement that buyers are not standing off because of objection to cost or opposition to attitude of sellers, but solely and simply because there is positively no use for any greater quantity of brick, and dealers and contractors prefer leaving in first hands such stock as they do not want and taking the chances of getting a supply later on. The probability of an accumulation being made there on barges is considered somewhat remote in view of the very poor building prospect for winter months. There has been nothing very poor in the quality of offerings this week and nothing extra fine, the average run being considered of a good useful grade. Rates have found a little more demand, some at $1.50, some at $1.75, and a very few at $2, but there was positively all the stock required and some to spare. Even as late as the present week there was said to be some production still under way, but generally expected that the last bit of work for the season is now about concluded.

CEMENT.—In domestic grades there has been rather more animation of late as dealers generally desire to get a little more stock together for winter and those located at interior points in particular seeking shipments in anticipation of close of navigation. They have found the supply desired and at former cost. Foreign grades can be bought as cheap as before, perhaps cheaper, but find no demand compensating the immense supply available and the market is dull and unsettled.

HARDWARE.—Fall trade is slow for all kinds of hardware, but particularly so for builders' assortments, of which buyers seem to be taking only enough for a working supply. It is a result about as expected, however, and manufacturers are reducing the output accordingly. Prices generally are quite uncertain but the average tendency favors buyers.

SEWER PIPE.—Despatches received from Bellaire, Ohio, state that within the next ten days all the sewer pipe manufacturing concerns of the Upper Ohio Valley, including firms at East Liverpool, Toronto, Calumet and New Cumberland, W. Va., will form a joint stock company, which will be incorporated under the laws of the State of Ohio, and will have a central office at East Liverpool, Ohio.

So far as is positively known the firms that will be in the company include all the sewer pipe manufacturers of Ohio in this section: they are Knowles, Kilor & Anderson, of East Liverpool; Calumet Fire Clay Company, Calumet; Empire Fire Clay Company, Empire; Great Western Fire Clay Company, Toronto; John Francis' Sons, Toronto; Markle Sewer Pipe Company, Toronto; P. Connor, Toronto; McMahon, Porte & Co., New Cumberland, W. Va.; Freeport Fire Clay Company, Freeport, Ohio.

The proposed combination of the Ohio Valley potteries has been made necessary by the declaration of the Akron, Ohio, combine of sewer pipe manufacturers. The proposed consolidation has been fully discussed and everything is nearly in shape for the organization of the company by November 10th.

LATH.—Receivers generally appeared well inclined to feel satisfied over the market. Following last week's arrivals more stock has come to hand, yet custom has been secured for it without unusual effort and at former rates. It is a pretty good card for any class of salesmen who can in these times dispose of more stock than they calculated to handle, without breaking off the value line, but there is no inclination among lath receivers to presume upon their success and they desire no additions to stock for the present. It is claimed that practically the last shipments have been made from Maine ports.

LIME.—Only a few arrivals have taken place from the eastward and receivers report that everything intended for this market is now afloat, shipments having been discontinued. Prices remain as before, and there is a very good demand for finishing lime close up to the offering, but common is more or less neglected at the moment. State lime is selling fairly well and commanding steady rates.

LUMBER.—General distribution of supplies continues exceedingly moderate and confined mainly to a sort of routine call for thoroughly staple lines of stuff, with apparently little prospect for any improvement. In a wholesale way conditions remain much the same as previously advised, very few buyers among either dealers or manufacturers taking the trouble to seek a supply because of the large number of solicitors who are in daily attendance and offering almost every variety the market requires. Prices too are found to be easy, and while there have been fewer shadings on cost within a week or two than at the commencement of last month, a really good customer even now can command some special allowances. That advantage, however, is no great inducement to the majority of buyers who claim to feel indifference toward the market, not on account of cost, but simply as the natural outcome of a cautious spirit that suggest moderate investments this season. Of course the passage by the Senate of the long-discussed silver repeal bill was hailed with delight as a great step toward the restoration of financial confidence, but it will take a great while for any benefit to reflect upon lumber or any other article in the line of structural material. Arrivals are a little fuller in some cases as from various sources stock bought at various periods during the season is commencing to move forward, but with all that has come in and all that is expected the accumulation carried into winter will at many yards probably be the smallest since their starting.

Of White Pine there has been an offering quite equal to any natural call, and some business done, but by no means up to hopes and calculations, especially after sellers had tendered easier terms on both coarse and fine stock. Yellow Pine gets a few special orders now and then, but there is no place for random unless sellers are prepared to almost give it away. It is understood that between the influences of tornadoes and epidemic sickness, the cut along the Atlantic coast has been greatly curtailed, and more than likely that without some such checking factor the mills would have kept right along with the old reckless sawing. Carolina Pine remains about steady and gets fair attention, although very few buyers are committing themselves to engagements of stock beyond early wants, because supplies can be reached at later period by water than the majority of other kinds of lumber and possibly all winter.

Hemlock has found irregular attention, but no great amount of it wanted, and prices, as a rule, stand about as advised for some little time past. Offerings are not urged, but a larger quantity could be found if desired. Spruce retains a more or less uncertain position, especially the Eastern product, the price of which is dependent almost solely upon the quantity of stock seeking custom, and while with scant offerings receivers make a showing of steadiness, they are well aware that two or three cargoes may make a surplus in the present condition of trade and compel a considerable modification of cost in order to secure desirable custom. Advices from primal markets indicate that conditions are not satisfactory either as to volume of trade or prices obtained, although a few more orders have of late been booked. Mill men have had logs offered them at pretty low rates recently, and many took advantage of the opportunity, the result of which is there will be plenty of stock for mills to commence work with in the spring.

Hardwoods are selling along in car lots to some extent, but can hardly be called active or giving token of tending toward a better position. Indeed, prices in some respects are not as strong as a short time ago, as the season is getting late and agents are inclined to urge business with greater freedom. As they are all of one mind, and locals have to compete with casuals, it gives buyers an advantage, cash custom in particular having opportunities for picking up some cheap lots of stock. As for some time past, no solid basis can be named for quotations, and figures mentioned are largely of nominal character. As with coarse woods, the stocks here are unevenly located, and none of them of the ordinary seasonable magnitude.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Albany Argus reports:

The fall trade in lumber continues to show up in rather unfavorable proportions, the buying thus far having been in small quantities only. There is more activity in the district, but the big rush expected toward the close has not yet set in. Prices hold fairly steady despite the fact that prospective large buyers invariably endeavor to break them. Most of the lumber to be received here this fall is now across the lakes and on the canal. The market is well stocked and probably more pine will be carried over the winter by the active pine houses than in '92-93. Boats are scarce at Tonawanda and canal freights are firm at $2.00.

THE WEST.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The question that is uppermost in the minds of the lumbermen of the white pine territory just now is in regard to their annual cut of logs. The sawing season is fast drawing to a close, and already preparations are being made for the work in the woods this winter. The reports that come from the various logging districts of the contemplated work this winter are so varying and conflicting that at this time it is very hard to form an accurate estimate of the winter's cut. But a few weeks ago, before the demand for lumber began to be felt, and curtailment in the output was the watchword, it was the universal opinion that the log crop this winter would be less than half of what it was last winter. But with the improvement in the demand for lumber comes a different feeling. There are always a number of things to be considered by the manufacturer when he contemplates contracting for logs for his next season's operations.

In the first place he must carefully survey the situation and endeavor to foretell what the demand for lumber the next season will be. Should he go ahead and bank millions of feet of logs and then find next spring and summer that the price of lumber was even less than it is now, with little or no demand, such action would be suicidal. He must also take into consideration the quantity of logs that are now being held in the booms of the various rivers in the white pine territory to be ready for sawing early next spring. In some localities there are more logs left over than have been sawed the past season. A wise lumberman, believing that the price of lumber will not be greatly advanced next year, that the demand will be light, and in view of the amount of logs being left over, will go cautiously with his winter's operations.

But then there is another side of the question to be considered. It is a fact that labor is cheaper now than it has been for years, and the reports from the woods are to the effect that men are being hired for the season for almost half of the wages that prevailed last season. Men are plentiful and wages low, labor being glad to find employment through the winter at almost any price. In the face of this situation there is reason why lumbermen should arrange to bank a goodly amount of logs this winter, for with the usual course of business and the country enjoying a fair amount of prosperity, wages will be higher next winter. Of course cheap labor will not accomplish as much as higher priced labor, but under the existing circumstances it will be found that logs will be banked much cheaper this winter than in the past.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

A wide range of correspondence this week indicates that the wholesale and retail trade has advanced but slightly during the month, though there has been some improvement at Tonawanda and Albany in the east, at the lake markets in the west, and throughout the retail trade of the prairie States. Yet there continues to be much complaint of a falling off in distribution as compared to that of previous fall seasons. Much has been said about the rural trade as holding up well, despite the hard times, but, judging from many of our reports from retail dealers, they have been nearly as much disappointed with the volume of trade as have the wholesalers in the great markets. They are nearly unanimous in the statement, however, that stocks in country yards are small, no more having been purchased than is necessary to meet the wants of consumers. There has been no buying in advance of immediate requirement. This suggests that there will be some country demand all winter, and probably a brisk movement in the spring.

In the wholesale markets around the lakes there has been considerable accumulation during the fall. Lumber under contract, that was held back during the period of extreme monetary stringency, has finally gone forward and been put into pile in the wholesale yards. At Tonawanda several stocks are full. In this city, the supply has reached within 50,000,000 feet of the amount on hand at a like time last year. Milwaukee has received heavily, as has Benton Harbor, Michigan City, Cleveland, Toledo and other Lake Erie points. Saginaw and Bay City complain of a plethora of unsold lumber and a dull market.

It is noticeable that wholesale dealers are holding prices so steadily that retail dealers, especially in the east, do not look for further decline in value. A recession from last year's prices, of about $2 a thousand, is recognized, but it is considered that bed rock has been reached.

At Chicago, the prominent feature of the market for the week has been the rather heavy receipt of hemlock which has been put on the open market. There has been so much of it that sales have dragged, and the lower range of value has probably dropped 50 cents a thousand. This decline applies mainly to green stuff or that which has been a little off in quality or size. Good, dry hemlock piece stuff has been sold during the week as high as $8 a thousand, while some stuff has sold as low as $7. The reason why there has been such a recent influx of hemlock is that the accumulation of the dull summer season is now coming to market. The navigation season is near a close, and holders are desirous to market their lumber before it shall be too late for shipment.

The condition of the poplar market is about this: A strong effort is being made on the part of the larger manufacturers to maintain the association list, but those who are cutting prices are getting nearly all the trade there is going. Stocks are light, but the demand is not sufficiently large to develop a shortage in any grade, and actual selling prices range from $24 to $30 for inch first and seconds. Manufacturing establishments that ordinarily use large quantities of poplar are either shut down entirely or are running on short time, and there is no promise of any material increase in the demand this fall.

But with the certainty of a short crop of logs next year there is no reason except the actual necessity of raising money why poplar lumber should be sold at reduced prices. The mill man who holds on to his stock is almost certain to be the gainer thereby, even though next spring's demand should be only an ordinary one.

FOREIGN.

The London Timber Trades' Journal says:

In the pitch pine trade, apart from a few shipments of old summer timber of small average and inferior quality, which has had to be sold at the best prices obtainable, little appears to have been done in the new season's timber. A far proportion of special contract cargoes have, we hear, been sold on the basis of 50s. to 52s. for 35 ft. average, and it may be confidently stated that good new timber cannot be bought under these figures. Altogether the tendency in this class of wood is decidedly firmer.

NAILS.—Some little improvement in demand has been shown in a few instances but the general market is far from active in comparison with what it should be at this season, and does not give indication of making any early positive gain. Supplies, however, are kept so well together that values can be supported on a fairly steady basis without much difficulty. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.35 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.35@1.40 for car lots, and $1.60@1.75 from store.
